The National Geographic Virtual Library delivers diverse and intriguing content to your community. It presents the world from multiple perspectives, such as comparing first-hand accounts with contemporary news coverage. Multiple media types — such as photographs and videos — engages learning, bridges understanding and encourages thoughtful discussions.

Bring the National Geographic Society to life at your library. Start the journey with National Geographic Magazine Archive, 1888-1994, continue the journey with National Geographic Magazine Archive, 1995-Current, and enrich the journey with the new National Geographic: People, Animals, and the World.

Sign up for a FREE trial of National Geographic or contact your Gale Representative at www.gale.cengage.com/ngvl for details.
The journey started in 1888 when a group of explorers and scientists created a society for the increase and diffusion of geographical knowledge and to share that knowledge with the world.

Now your community can experience that early journey through unparalleled, in-depth coverage of cultures, global events, nature, science, technology, the environment, and gripping first-person accounts of epic exploration and discovery.

With comprehensive, timely articles and legendary photos and maps, the iconic magazine documents life on our planet and beyond, interpreting the world through the lens of personal experience:

- Jane Goodall’s encounters with chimpanzees in Tanzania;
- Hiram Bingham’s expedition into Machu Picchu in 1911;
- Robert Ballard’s 1985 discovery of the Titanic on the floor of the Atlantic Ocean;
- And many more examples

FEATURES

- 187K+ pages in 1,224 issues

Emperor penguins are greeted with courtly bows. An emperor penguin chick about four months old basks at the center of attention. In the dead of the Antarctic winter, these regal birds nurture their young through relentless blizzards, oppressive darkness, and months of killing cold. Largest of 17 penguin species, they are the undisputed rulers of earth's coldest realm.
