Large Print Is For Everyone

Large Print books are no longer just for the visually impaired or the elderly. In fact, studies have shown that large print books have a legitimate place alongside the regular print books in any library or classroom.

Seniors are a growing demographic, but they aren't the only ones benefiting from the large print format. Whether reading for leisure or learning, large print supports library lovers of all ages and interests, from mature readers to reluctant ones.

BORN TO RUN
Bruce Springsteen

In 2009, Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band performed at the Super Bowl's halftime show. The experience was so exhilarating that Bruce decided to write about it. That's how this extraordinary autobiography began. Over the past seven years, he has privately devoted himself to writing the story of his life, bringing to these pages the same honesty, humor, and originality found in his songs. Rarely has a performer told his own story with such force and sweep. Like many of his songs, Bruce Springsteen's autobiography is written with the lyricism of a singular songwriter and the wisdom of a man who has thought deeply about his experiences.

WINTERING
Peter Geye
“Capturing the strength and mystery of characters who seem inextricable from the landscape, Geye’s novel is an unsentimental testament to the healing that’s possible when we confront our bleakest places.”
— Publishers Weekly

The two principal stories at play in Wintering are bound together when elderly, demented Harry Eide escapes his sickbed and vanishes into the forbidding, northernmost wilderness that surrounds the town of Gunflint, Minnesota – instantly changing the Eide family, and many other lives, forever.

“A stellar, thought-provoking debut brimming with energy . . . Though punctuated with tragic acts of violence, the taut prose and lyrical descriptions of the American landscape perfectly balance the escalating tension in a haunting search for salvation and compassion. Will justly be compared with the work of Richard Price and George Pelecanos but is infused with the spirit of Mark Twain. Make no mistake, this is a great American novel for the 21st century.”
— Selector Bill Kelly, Adult Programming Manager for the Cuyahoga County Public Library

“An achingly beautiful father-son epic that explores the complicated parallel between discovery and escape, man and nature, history and memory. . . . Rich, luminous language, replete with allusions and symbolism (old maps that are now utterly useless), this is a meditation about mapping one’s interior. For fans of Jim Harrison, Cormac McCarthy and Into the Wild.”
— Selector Bill Kelly, Adult Programming Manager for the Cuyahoga County Public Library
MEET OUR PEER PICKS SELECTOR: Roberta Dewing

Roberta is the director of the Kentland-Jefferson Township Public Library located in Kentland, a small rural town in Northwest Indiana. She has been the director there for 31 years, now serving a population of around 1,750. Roberta was born and raised in Kentland and went to college at Indiana State University in Terre Haute. She worked for two years at another small public library in Indiana before moving back home to marry a local farmer, and has been at Kentland ever since. Since high school, Roberta’s dream job was to be a librarian at a small public library. She wears many hats and finds that each day is different. Her favorite part of being a librarian is reader advisory; she has so much fun introducing readers to new authors or to old favorites. Since Kentland is a small community, Roberta is never surprised when she’s stopped at the bank or grocery store and asked to renew a book; give a title recommendation, or hear about a title someone enjoyed.

Some of Our Large Print Best Practices Include:

• We sticker all Large Print titles with a Large Print sticker. When patrons are browsing the fiction collection they can tell at a glance if the title is large print. Patrons have mentioned how helpful it is to have the stickers on the spine of the book.

• About three years ago we revamped our new book display by attaching two six-foot bookcases together in an open space near the adult fiction collection. There we display regular print fiction in one section and large print fiction in the section right next to it. Since having both formats right next to each other, our large print circulation increased. It introduced the large print format to readers who had not considered checking out a large print title. Displaying and shelving large print with regular print is definitely a plus for our fiction readers.

• Over the past three years I have expanded the number of titles and types of fiction that I am purchasing in large print. I am buying more bestsellers, popular authors, and new buzz authors in large print.

• I appreciate the simultaneous publication of popular authors in large print. Many times I just purchase the title in large print; I know that any of our patrons can read the large print format.
Roberta says: This debut novel took me from the early 20th century to early 21st century Afghanistan following the lives of two Afghan women. This is a thought-provoking and fascinating story that moves the reader between the two time periods. It was amazing how much strength is needed to be a woman in that culture. It made me appreciate all the opportunities that women have in the U.S.

THE PEARL THAT BROKE ITS SHELL

Nadia Hashimi

“Hashimi weaves together two equally engrossing stories in her epic, spellbinding debut.” — starred, Booklist

Afghan-American Nadia Hashimi’s literary debut novel is a searing tale of powerlessness and fate that crisscrosses in time, interweaving the tales of two women separated by a century who share similar destinies. The Pearl That Broke Its Shell combines the cultural flavor and emotional resonance of the works of Khaled Hosseini, Jhumpa Lahiri, and Lisa See.

Roberta says: This is a great debut novel that features an intriguing main character in Abby Endicott, chief of Boston’s District Attorney’s homicide unit. Abby bends the rules to achieve justice for the victims. Legal thrillers are one of my favorite genres and this title was full of twists and turns which kept me in my chair reading into the night. I look forward to reading more of this series.

MISSION HILL

Pamela Wechsler

“Fans of . . . legal thriller authors will be well advised to get in on the ground floor of what promises to be an intriguing new series.” — Library Journal

She’s among Beacon Hill’s elite — a Winsor alumni and Harvard Law graduate. Chief of the DA’s homicide unit in Boston, Abby Endicott doesn’t follow rules, she makes them. But Abby has secrets. And one night, when she’s called to the scene of a horrific murder, they are about to be exposed. The terror and tragedy are only beginning.

NINE WOMEN, ONE DRESS

Jane L. Rosen

“Chick lit at its best. If this book were a dress, it would fit everyone perfectly and flatter everyone’s figure.”
—— starred, Library Journal

This charming, hilarious, irresistible romp of a novel brings together nine unrelated women whose lives are changed when each is touched by the same little black dress that weaves through their lives, bringing a little magic with it. Katie Couric said “A little black dress hasn’t gotten this much attention since Breakfast at Tiffany’s.”

M. J. Pullen

“In this story, no romance, friendship, or parent-child relationship is perfect, which makes it all the more uplifting and sweet.” — Kirkus Reviews

M. J. Pullen returns in this final installment to the group of lovelorn friends from The Marriage Pact, this time following the group’s frenemy, Rebecca, as she’s forced to confront her past. Raising the stakes, Pullen delivers an absorbing, romantic novel that poses the question, what if everything you were looking for was right where you started?

THIS IS WHERE YOU BELONG
THE ART AND SCIENCE OF LOVING THE PLACE YOU LIVE
Melody Warnick

The average restless American will move 11.7 times in a lifetime. For Melody Warnick, it was move #6, from Texas to Virginia, that threatened to unhinge her. She wondered: How does the place we live become the place we want to stay? And she had an epiphany: Rather than hold her breath and hope, she would figure out how to fall in love with this new town no matter what.

A SINFUL CALLING
A Reverend Curtis Black Novel
Kimberla Lawson Roby

“Thrilling for fans of the series.” — Kirkus Reviews

Two years ago, to everyone's surprise, Dillon Whitfield Black, the secret son of Reverend Curtis Black, boldly moved back home, married a woman named Raven, and founded a church right in his living room. Now pastor of a 1,000-plus-member congregation, Dillon has become more like the man his father was thirty years ago — consumed with money, power, and lots of women.

Reed Farrel Coleman
In the wake of a huge storm, three bodies are discovered in the rubble of an abandoned factory building. One body is only hours old. But within feet of that body are the skeletal remains of two teenage girls who had gone missing twenty-five years ago. Not only does that crime predate Jesse Stone’s arrival in Paradise, but the dead girls were close friends of Jesse’s right hand, Officer Molly Crane.

Thorndike Press large print books are often the same size or smaller than their hardcover or trade paperback counterparts, weigh about the same as a traditional hardcover book, and are unabridged. The magic lies in the combination of printing on a thinner, higher quality paper and laying out the text to maximize the use of white space.

Don’t miss these titles and more inside!
