

Gale Scavenger Hunt

Gale In Context: Elementary

Directions Use the Library's database called Gale In Context: Elementary to find answers to the following questions about Life Cycles. Write your answer and the source for the information listed in the article in the spaces provided below.

To answer these questions, use the Life Cycles Topic Page. From the Topics portion of the home page, click Science and then Biology and Nature, or use the Search box to locate the Topic Page titled Life Cycles.

1 All the stages of life a living being goes through from birth to death are called a Life Cycle. From the content type Book Articles, find the document titled Monarch Butterflies to answer this question. How many stages are in a Monarch Butterfly's life cycle?

Answer:

Source:

2 In the ocean there is a unique jellyfish called Turritopsis nutricula. Look in the content type Magazines and find the brief article Death-defying jellyfish. What makes this jellyfish so special? The jellyfish is very small—what is the size of the Turritopsis nutricula?

Answer:

Source:

3 In Gale In Context: Elementary you will discover fantastic and informative pictures. Explore the content type Pictures and open the picture about a Raspy Cricket. Looking at the caption, fill in the blank. After a newly hatched cricket molts, it is called a _____. How can you tell if a cricket is a nymph or an adult cricket?

Answer:

Source:

4 Insects look very different in each stage of their life cycle. Watch the Video titled Insect Life Cycles to answer this question. In a life cycle, insects and animals go through a series of distinct changes. What is this called?

Answer:

Source: