

 NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC MAGAZINE ARCHIVE

"New Zealand's Jade Country." Warne, Kennedy, and Michael Melford. National Geographic Magazine, Mar. 2014, p. 61-62. National Geographic Virtual Library

Now let's look at how journalism has changed over time. Search for and read the "Maoris of New Zealand" article from March 1907. Then find and read the "New Zealand's Jade Country" article from March 2014.

06 What surprised you when you read the 1907 article?

09 If National Geographic wrote an article today on the Maoris, how would it be different from the 1907 piece (think: words, tone, focus, interviews, selection of illustration)?

07 Comparing the tone and writing of the two pieces, what can you say has changed about the way we view indigenous peoples?

10 What else can you discover using the National Geographic Magazine Archive?

08 Study the artwork that accompanies each article. What has changed in the world of image-capturing over the years?

LEARN MORE If you require further assistance with National Geographic Magazine Archive please ask your librarian or visit gale.com/training.

