Rvins Of The Palace Of The Emperor Diocletian At Spalatro in Dalmatia. Printed For The Avthor. 1764 By R. Adam F.R.S F.S.A. Architect To The King And To The Qveen; Folio. 23 leaves. [i-xii], [1]-33 [34] p. I-LXI engraved plates including frontispiece (6 folding, 8 double-page, 47 full-page of which 2 have 3 plates each, 3 have 2 plates each). 53.5 cm. 21 1/16 in.; Contents: pl. [I]: engraved frontispiece, verso blank; p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii]-iv: Adam's dedication to the King; p. [v-xi]: list of subscribers; p. [xii]: blank; p. [1]-4: introduction; p. [5]-33: text and explanation of plates; p. [34]: blank; followed by pl. II-LXI, versos blank; Notes: First edition. The plates, engraved by F. Bartolozzi, E. Rooker, F. Patton, P. Santini, A. Walker, D. Cunego, J. Bassire and Antonio Zucchi, are of interest not only as fine examples of architectural engraving but as showing the source of some of the motives of the Adam style. The frontispiece [pl. I], a composition of ruins and landscape with figures, is by F. Bartolozzi. Twenty-two of the plates were reproduced in Georg Kowalczyk, Denkmaeler Der Kunst in Dalmatien...Berlin, 1910, No. 3-5, 7-8, 13-15, 19-21, 25-26, 30-33, 36, 41-42, 44-45, 48. Among the list of subscribers is Frederick, Sixth Lord Baltimore. Berlin Catalog 1893; Brunet I, 46; Cicognara 3567. Contemporary English calf, gold-tooled spine.

The English and Italian text are in parallel columns and the title pages are dated 1726, although some of the plates in the first three volumes are dated 1727 and a few in the supplement 1729. The allegorical frontispiece and the more elaborate plates were engraved by B. Picart, with a few signed by J. Harris and J. Cole. The plates, drawn by Leoni (1686-1746), were developed from those of the 1550 edition (No. 6) and, except for those of the supplement, are bound in the text. As well as the page numbers described above, usually in the upper left corner of the plate, the book number is also given in the upper right corner. There was a later edition of this translation in 1739 and again in 1755. Bookplate of Charles John Shoppee and an inscription on the flyleaf: Jno. and Moses Morill Junr. His Book 1755. Eighteenth-century English sheepskin.

L'Architectvre Et Art De Bien Bastir du Seigneur Leon Baptiste Albert, Gentilhomme Florentin, diuisée en dix liures, Traduits de Latin en François, par deffunct Ian Martin, Parisien, nagueres Secretaire du Reuerendissime Cardinal de Lenoncourt. A Paris, par Iaques Keruer, Libraire iuré, demourant aux deux Cochetz, Rue saint Iaqués. Auec priuilege du Roy. 1553
Folio. 239 leaves. [i-viii], 1-228 leaves (i.e. 231: 1 unnumbered leaf between leaf 166-167; 2 unnumbered leaves between leaf 184-185, including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut headpieces, initials. 33 cm. 13 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: title page; leaf [i] verso: oval woodcut portrait of Alberti; leaf [ii] recto: dedication by Denis Sauvage to Henry II, on behalf of the translator, Jean Martin; leaf [ii] verso-[iv] recto: verses to Jean Martin by Ronsard and others; leaf [iv] verso: Politian's dedication to Lorenzo de Medici; leaf [v] recto: Paulus Jovius and Jean Vital on Alberti; leaf [v] verso: privilege, dated 1551; leaf [vi] recto-[viii] recto: table of contents; leaf [viii] verso: Latin verse by Franc. Charpilletus at the tomb of Jean Martin; leaf 1-228: preface and text, Book I-X, ending with colophon; leaf 228 verso: woodcut printer's device; Notes: First edition of French translation. The title page has a woodcut strapwork border with figures, masks, etc., and the small mark of Kerver at the top. This volume, beautifully printed in roman type with charming headpieces and initials, was published after the death of Jean Martin, whose translations of Serlio (No. 303) and of Vitruvius (No. 403) had appeared previously. Somewhat more than half the illustrations are based on those of the 1550 edition (No. 6); the rest are largely derived from Serlio's Book III and the 1521 and 1548 editions of Vitruvius. The one unnumbered leaf, inserted between leaf 166-167, is an illustration of the lower part of a tower. Unlike the Italian editions of 1550 and 1565 (No. 8), the designs of the upper parts of the towers are included in both the signatures and pagination. The two unnumbered leaves, the double-page plan of the Baths of Diocletian, are between leaf 184-185. The large unicorn device of Jacques Kerver II, verso of leaf 228, first appeared in this edition of 1553. The mark on the shield is similar to that used by other members of this family of printers since 1497 (H.W. Davies, Devices of the Early Printers, London, 1935, p. 252). Berlin Catalog 2553; Brunet I, 131; Cicognara 374. Old vellum.

L'Architettura Di Leon Batista Alberti, Tradotta in lingua Fiorentina da Cosimo Bartoli Gentil'huomo & Accademico Fiorentino. Nel Monte Regale Appresso Lionardo Torrentino nel mese di Agosto. 1565
Con La Aggiunta De Disegni.; Et Altri diuersi Trattati del medesimo Auttore. [Woodcut printer's device]; [Second title] La Pittura Di Leonbattista Alberti Tradotta Per M. Lodovico Domenichi. [Woodcut coat-of-arms]; Nel Monte Regale Appresso Leonardo Torrentino. M D LXV; Folio. 178 leaves. [1]-246, [i-iv], 247-331 [332-352] p. including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 33.8 cm. 13 5/16 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: oval portrait of Alberti; p. 3-4: Bartoli's dedication to Cosimo de Medici; p. 5-304: Alberti's preface and text, Book I-X, including illustrations and 2 unsigned leaves, p. [i-iv], between p. 246-247; p. [305]: title page of La Pittura; p. 306: Domenichi's dedication; p. 307-331: text of La Pittura; p. [332]: blank; p. [333-351]: index; p. [352]: blank; Notes: The second folio edition of Bartoli's translation of L'Architettura and the second edition (first folio) of Domenichi's translation of La Pittura. This edition is inferior to that of 1550 not only in typography but also in the quality of the woodcuts which are from the same blocks as those of the 1550 edition (No. 6). In this copy the designs of the upper parts of the towers (one lacking) were pasted above the designs of the lower parts on p. 216 and [217]. The two unsigned leaves, p. [i-iv], between p. 246-247, contain the double-page plan of the Baths of Diocletian. This is the first edition of L'Architettura to be issued with La Pittura. The connection of the Torrentino family with this press was short lived. In 1562, Emanuel Philebert, Duke of Savoy, consulted Lorenzo Torrentino about establishing a press in Mondovi (Monte Regale) in Piedmont. Lorenzo died before this could be accomplished, but the press was opened by his heirs under his son Leonardo. In 1567 it passed into other hands. Cicognara 375; Schlosser p. 110. Old mottled calf, sprinkled edges; Second copy: An imperfect copy lacking the title page, dedication, leaf of preface, two leaves of Libro Primo and the ten leaves of index. The preface and two leaves of Libro Primo have been supplied in manuscript. The Fowler Collection began in 1903 with the acquisition of this volume in Italy. Old mottled calf, rebacked.

L'Architettura Di Leonbatista Alberti Tradotta in lingua Fiorentina da Cosimo Bartoli Gentil'huomo & Accademico Fiorentino. In Firenze. M.D.L. Appresso Lorenzo Torrentino Impressor Ducale. 1550
Con la aggiunta de Disegni; Folio. (216 leaves. [1]-283 [284], [i-iv], [285]-404 [405-428] p. including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 34.5 cm. 13 9/16 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: oval woodcut portrait of Alberti; p. 3-4: dedication by Bartoli to Cosimo de Medici, Duke of Florence; p. 5-8: Alberti's preface; p. 9-404: text of Book I-X, including woodcut illustrations and two plates on p. [i-iv] between p. [284-285]; p. [405-425]: index; p. [426]: errata and register; p. [427-428]: blank; Notes: The first edition of Bartoli's translation. It is a handsomely printed book, in roman type, with fine woodcut pictorial initials and illustrations. The title is within an elaborate woodcut border of architecture, figures and landscape, which is one of the most attractive of the period. The two unsigned leaves [p. i-iv], between p. [284-285], each with designs of the upper part of a tower, are intended to be pasted above the lower parts of these towers, which appear on the adjoining pages. Signature E, p. [321], 322, 323, [324], consists of a double-page plan of the Baths of Diocletian, verso blank. This was the first illustrated edition of the De Re Aedificatoria. In the dedication Bartoli says that he has added designs of plans, sections and elevations of various buildings of Alberti's, in part drawn as Alberti himself described them, or would have wished them to be had he been able to depict them fully in words. This translation of Bartoli's was the one used by Leoni for his English translation of 1726 (No. 11), as well as for most of the later editions of this work. The illustrations also were the basis for those in most later issues. Berlin Catalog 2552; Brunet I, 130. Inside the front cover are the bookplates of the Earl of Jersey, Osterley Park, and of Gilbert R. Redgrave, with his signature and manuscript notes. Old mottled calf, gilt; Plate III.

L'Architettura Di Leonbatista Alberti Tradotta in Lingva Fiorentina da Cosimo Bartoli, ...[2 lines]. In Venetia, Appresso Francesco Franceschi, Sanese. 1565
Con la aggiunta de'Disegni; 4to. 218 leaves. [1]-283 [284], [i-iv], [285]-404 [405-432] p. including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 21.2 cm. 8 5/16 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: oval portrait of Alberti; p. [3]-4: Bartoli's dedication; p. 5-404: text of Alberti, Book I-X, including woodcut illustrations and p. [i-iv] between p. [284-285]; p. [405-431]: index, ending with register and colophon; p. [432]: blank; Notes: The first quarto edition of Bartoli's translation. The title is within a reduced copy of the architectural woodcut border of the title page of the 1550 folio edition (No. 6). The illustrations are also reduced and reversed copies of the same edition. The two leaves, p. [i-iv], between p. [284-285], are designs of the upper parts of towers, intended to be pasted above the lower parts and are given the page numbers 284 and 285, in this copy bound as two leaves between the designs of the lower parts. The plan of the Baths of Diocletian (p. [321], [322], [323], [324]) is inserted in this copy between p. [224-225] which are wrongly numbered 324 and 325. In the new dedication to Duke Cosimo de Medici, Bartoli points out that fifteen years have passed since his translation of Alberti's L'Architettura was printed by Lorenzo Torrentino and that now, it being difficult to find, he has been urged to reprint it, which he is doing in smaller and more convenient form. Jefferson owned a copy of this edition (Kimball, p. 92; Sowerby, No. 4199). Seventeenth-century inscription on title page, "Ex Libris Antii Santinii"; bookplate of Nicolao de Nobili, Duce Minerva, Comite Fortuna. Old vellum.

[leaf 2 recto] Leonis Baptiste Alberti De Re Aedificatoria Incipit Lege Feliciter. Florentiæ accuratissime impressum opera Magistri Nicolai Laurentii Alamani: Anno salutis Millesimo octuagesimo quinto:quarto Kalendas Ianuarias. 1485 [Colophon] Lavs Deo Honor Et Gloria. Leonis Baptistae Alberti Florentini Viri Clarissimi de re Aedificatoria opus elegatissimi mu et qnāmaxime utile; Folio. 204 leaves. [1-204] leaves. 34 lines to a page. 27 cm. 10 5/8 in.; Contents: leaf [1] recto: blank; leaf [1] verso: Politian's dedication to Lorenzo de Medici; leaf [2] recto-leaf [203] verso: Alberti's preface and text of Book I-X, ending with colophon; leaf [204] recto: Baptista sculus in auctoris psona Ad lectorem...; leaf [204] verso: register; Notes: First edition with last gathering reprinted. The text is in roman type and each book has a heading in capitals with a space, with guide letter, left for a decorative initial. In the first signature, ai-iii appear on leaves [2-4]. It is in the writings of Alberti that a complete Humanist doctrine is first developed and they are the source from which later ideas were derived. Since Alberti represented the fifteenth century at its best, exercising an influence over the spirit of his age second only to that of Leonardo, it is not surprising to find that his De Re Aedificatoria, especially in the theoretical treatment of the subject and in relating it to the ancient text of Vitruvius, played an important part in the literary output of his successors. This treatise of Alberti's, the first work on architecture to be printed, was begun about the middle of the century and added to, and revised by, the author until his death in 1472. It was not, however, until thirteen years later that it was published through the efforts of his brother; Other editions: Latin--Strassburg, 1511; Paris, 1512 (No. 4); Strasbourg, 1541; Paris, 1543; Italian--Venice, 1546 (No. 5); Florence, 1550 (No. 6); Monte Regale, 1565 (No. 8); Venice, 1565 (No. 9); Bologna, 1726; Bologna, 1782 (No. 12); Rome, 1784 (No. 13); Perugia, 1804; Milan, 1804 and 1833 (No. 14); Portuguese--1493; Spanish--Madrid, 1582 (No. 10), 1640, 1797; French--Paris, 1553 (No. 7); English--London, 1726 (No. 11), 1739, 1755; German--Vienna & Leipzig, 1912 (note, No. 14). This book, printed in italics, is a good example of the duodecimos made popular by Giolito. Completed in 1435 and dedicated to Brunelleschi, this work was either originally written in Italian or translated by Alberti into Italian soon after its completion in Latin. Woodcut initials. 32.8 cm. 12 15/16 in.; Contents: engraved title page of Book I, verso blank; pl. 1-6, 1-2; p. [1]-48: text of Book I; engraved title page of Book II, verso blank; p. [49]-80 (i.e. 78): text of Book II; followed by pl. A-I, versos blank; Notes: The first title page, with architectural border with figures, is signed "I. Troschel sc." The unsigned title page of Book II has the title within an architectural border. The other seventeen plates are bound in three groups, but not as directed in the instructions for binding on page 64. Plate F consists of printed tables. The subject is treated in an involved manner, rendering the treatise of little practical value to the artist. There was a German translation of this work by the same printer and in the same year, 1671. The Berlin Catalog, 4710, lists the first edition in 1623. The British Museum gives an edition, Nürnberg, S. Halbmayr, 1625 (BM(2) II, 792); Cicognara 803, a Latin edition of 1661. Eighteenth-century calf, gold-tooled spine.

The portrait of Dean Aldrich is engraved by Heath after Kneller. The unsigned plates are mostly based on the illustrations in Palladio's I Quattro Libri, and a large part of the introduction consists of short lives of the leading architects of the Italian Renaissance. Although Dean Aldrich was one of the ablest amateur architects of his time, this book is a disappointing one. The manuscript was acquired by his friend, Dr. George Clarke (1660-1736), another amateur, who left his books and manuscripts, including the copy of Palladio with notes by Inigo Jones, to Worcester College. work is often called Du Cerceau's first "Livre d'architecture," or "Livre des cinquante batiments." The plates show plans, elevations and sections of fifty designs for dwellings intended for "princes, great nobles, and people of medium and small estates." This work was issued by the same printer in the same year with a French text under the title: Livre d'Architecture...contenant les plans et desseings de cinquante bastiments tous différent...There is a copy of this French text in the library of The American Institute of Architects, without numbers on the plates but printed in the top margin. This is probably the first issue. A second copy of the French text in the same library has the numbers engraved on the plates, as in the Fowler copy. A few of these are new plates copied from those of the first French issue. The inscription on the plates is in Latin for both the French and Latin text. There was a later edition in 1582 and again in 1611 (Geymüller p. 310). There is a second copy of the Latin text in the Fowler collection with inferior impressions of the plates.

Valete. Avrelia. 1550

8vo. 13 leaves without signature marks. [1-13] engraved plates. 20.5 cm. 8 1/16 in.; Contents: leaf [1]: engraved title page in form of preface; leaf [2-13]: engraved plates of Roman ruins; versos blank; Notes: First edition. The preface-title is on a tablet within a croisetted frame with a cornice above and supported by a low pedestal. This series of plates was engraved after one by Leonard Thiry (Thiery). There is a blank space of about 2 cm. below this title on the tablet. A later edition of 1565 has the preface-title filling the whole tablet. Virgil Solis issued a series of plates copied from this 1550 edition; Jacques Androuet Du Cerceau, the best known of a notable family of artists, had few rivals as an architectural draughtsman. His position as an architect is less clear because the extent of his responsibility for the buildings attributed to him is not certain. His work as an engraver may be divided into three classes: 1) compositions of Roman ruins; 2) designs for ornament and for architectural details; 3) designs and drawings for contemporary buildings. The Bastiments de France was his most important work and is of inestimable value to the student of French Renaissance architecture. Blomfield, *Fr. I-LX, versos blank; Notes: First edition. The plates have considerable charm because of the arrangement of the diagrams on the plates and the introduction of characteristic slim figures: all in crisp, clean lines. Plate XVIII in this copy is on a smaller sheet of paper. For a discussion of the preface and the text of Lesson XVIII see Geymüller p. 158-172. Several of the buildings shown in perspective are taken from his Livre d'Architecture, especially from the third. There was a second edition of this work with the same plates in 1676. impressions with wide margins. The small plans of the fountains are numbered I-VI, the corresponding elevations numbered I, III, IIII, VI; II and V being unnumbered. The same arrangement is found in the well-head plates, except that all the elevations bear numbers. There was another issue of this French edition, differing only in the title page, which contains an ornament in the middle of the page followed by "Imprimé pour Jacques Androuet du Cerceau" (Geymüller p. 310). For title and description of the Latin edition of this work, issued by the same printer in the same year, see Geymüller
p. 310. The Avery Library has a copy of the Latin title with the same plates as described above, Paris,

[ii]: added engraved title page; p. [iii]: title page; p. [iv]: blank; p. 357-920: dictionary of terms; Notes: First edition with the additions of Jean Baptiste Alexandre Le Blond. It is a resetting of the text of Vol. I of the 1691 edition (No. 32) maintaining the same page numbers, but with additions as follows: p. 145*1-145*2, "Des Banquettes..." and pl. 51a by Le Pautre; p. 171*1-171*6, "Des Cheminées nouvelles." and pl. 59a-b by Le Pautre; p. 185*1-185*18, "De La Nouvelle Maniere de distribuer les Plans." and pl. 63C-63T; p. 334*1-334*2, "Des Corniches Nouvelles..." and pl. 98a by Le Pautre; p. 340*1-340*4, "Des Nouveaux Lambris..." and pl. 99a-d. Volume II, the dictionary, is a reissue of the text, with additions. Although Louvois died in 1691 and D'Aviler in 1700, the dedication and preface of the first edition were retained. The last page of the privilege (aa1, verso) with catchword "Cours" is followed in this copy by page I (A1) of the text beginning with the words "Des Cinq Ordres..." The added engraved title pages and [117] plates are the same as those of the 1691 edition, the folding plates of that edition being here bound as double-page. Seven of the new plates were signed by Pierre Le Pautre, one by Mariette. Comolli (IV, p. 120-121) notes a variant title of this 1710 edition. Armorial bookplates of Henry, Duke of Kent, 1713 and of Thomas Philip, Earl de Grey, Wrest Park. Contemporary English calf, gold-tooled spine, sprinkled edges.

[362]: blank; p. 363-880: dictionary of terms; p. [881-884]: errata; Notes: First edition. The text and plates are within a two-line border. The added engraved title page, by J. Langlois after L. Boulogne, shows a seated female figure representing architecture leaning against a pedestal with the title, and holding in left hand a tablet with engraved portrait of Vignola, all against a background of Roman ruins. The added engraved title page of Vol. II, by J.B. Corneille, shows a bust of Vignola, on a pedestal with title, attended by female figures representing architecture, sculpture and painting, with Renaissance buildings in the background. The first page of the dedication (p. [v]), of Vol. I is entirely engraved with a headpiece by [Daniel] Marot. A few plates on metal work were engraved by Dolivar, the others, unsigned, were engraved by Pierre Le Pautre. The first page of the "Avertissement" found in Vol. I, numbered 356, has been expanded to two pages in Vol. II and given the page numbers 355-356; the rest is lacking in this copy; From the point of view of the practical architect this Cours d'Architecture was the best work of its kind yet issued and soon superseded François Blondel's Cours d'Architecture (No. 46), and was unrivaled until the publication of J.F. Blondel's work of the same title in 1771-1777 (No. 51); The library of The American Institute of Architects has a copy of Vol. I with the same title and the following imprint: A Paris, Chez Jean Mariette, rue saint Jacques, aux Colonnes d'Hercules.; MDC.XCI.; It is a reissue of the sheets and plates of the Langlois edition described here, with the preliminary leaves bound somewhat differently and only p. 1-355 of the text. In 1710 Mariette published a two-volume edition of this work with the additions by Le Blond (No. 33). These later issues with additions, first by Le Blond and afterwards by Mariette, show the changing fashions in interior decoration during the first half of the eighteenth century. This work was reissued about fifteen times before 1800. Berlin Catalog 2388; Comolli I, 108-111; IV, 114-126; Guilmarde p. 106. Bookplate of George Thomas Wyndham. Contemporary English calf, gold-tooled spine, sprinkled edges.

The words "La Pratica" are printed in a woodcut cartouche at the top of the title page. The text is in italics. There is a variant issue of the 1569 edition in the Library of Congress with the following title within a woodcut strapwork circle border, with angels above and fauns below: La Pratica Della Perspettiva Di Monsignor Daniel Barbaro Eletto Patriarca D'Aquileia, Opera Molto Profitte-vole A Pittori, Scultori, Et Architetti.; [Type ornament]; [n.p., n.d.]. The signatures are the same as the Fowler copy, given above, but with pagination as follows: p. [i-ii], [1]-3, 6-195 [196-208], including woodcut illustrations. The only difference seems to be the change of page numbers, the rest being the same typesetting. According to Brunet (I, 644) the printer's device on the title page is sometimes printed from a copper plate; Barbaro borrowed from his predecessors not only for the text but also for the illustrations, especially the woodcuts from his own 1567 edition of Vitruvius (No. 409) p. 148, 150, etc., and the three well-known theatre scenes from the first quarto edition of Serlio, 1566 (No. 327) p. 156-158. Destailleur, p. 63, lists as the first edition an issue of the same year with the following imprint: Et se vend Chez l'Autheur en la vieille ruë du Temple, proche la fontaine a limage Nre Dame Et Chez M. Tauernier, en l'isle du Palais, au coin de la rue de Harlay;. A copy of this Tavernier imprint in the Peabody Library contains the preface, plate [3], but only plates 4-6, 9-13, 17 (wrongly marked 7) are numbered. The plates of the Mariette edition, described above, are worn impressions of those in the Tavernier issue. The title pages vary only in the change of imprint. Guilmar, p. 49, describes an edition of Paris, Chez Tavernier, 1632, not noted elsewhere. Woodcut initials. 18 cm. 7 1/8 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: blank; p. 3-6: dedication dated March 20, 1571; p. 7-53: text ending with colophon, dated September 20, 1570; p. [54]: woodcut printer's device; followed by pl. I-XII; Notes: First edition. The dedication is printed in large italic and the text in roman characters. The text consists of correspondence between Bassi and Alfonso N., Palladio, Vignola, Vasari and G.B. Bertano on the subject of Bassi's controversy with Pellegrino Tibaldi, then architect in charge of the Milan cathedral. These letters throw an interesting light on the matters under dispute. The printer's device is an imitation of the anchor and dolphin of Aldus. There was a later edition of this work with additions, Milan, 1771. [1]-462 (i.e. 460): text including half titles and [14] engraved plates (portraits); Notes: The plates are unsigned except the portrait of Annibale Caracci which is signed "A. Clowe" (Albert Clowet, 1624-1687). Nagler (Künstler-Lexicon, III, p. 14) attributes two of the portraits to Clowet, those of Van Dyck and Poussin, but Brunet (I, 759) lists Bloemart as the engraver. Comolli (II, p. 55) states that the vignettes and other decorations were engraved by Clowet from the designs of Poussin. Twelve of the engravings are portraits of the artists (portrait of Poussin, p. [405], lacking in this copy). The last two illustrations, found in the life of Poussin (p. [457], [459]) contain a front and profile view of the statue of "Antinoo," with measurements. They are derived from the plate in Alberti's Della Statua, p. 57, issued with Leonardo Da Vinci's Trattato Della Pittura, Paris, 1651. [800]: colophon above engraved printer's device; Notes: Second edition. This is a reissue of the 1675-1683 edition (No. 46), with the printed text from the same typesetting, with new title pages and new printing of the preliminary leaves. A few of the pages of Part 4-5 have been reset (i.e. p. 357-358, 360, 365-368, etc.). The last paragraph on page 695 in the 1698 edition was printed without the last three or four lines, which have been added in the 1675 edition on a leaf marked with a starred signature mark, "*Nnnnnnnn ii," from which it may be concluded that the 1675 issue was corrected before publication, and that the sheets found in the copy described here were remainders of the earlier issue acquired by Mortier and published without correction. The engraved frontispiece of Part I, the half titles of Part 2-5, and the illustrations are worn impressions of the same plates as those in the earlier work, but the illustrations in most cases are better placed on the page with relation to the text. Signature marks have been added to the full-page plates, which were unmarked though counted in the signatures of the first edition. In the 1698 edition the following errors occur in the plates: p. 39 of Part 2 the small engraving in the text has been turned on its side; p. 90 the plate is upside down; p. 182 of Part 3, the order of the plates is reversed; p. [453] and [455] of Part 4 are in reverse order; p. [458] is upside down. Different engraved headpieces, by Broebes, have replaced those by De La Boissiere in Part 1. The folding plate of "L'Origine des Chapiteaux des Colonnes" by Broebes is placed between p. 2-3 of Part 2. The engraved printer's device of François Le Cointe is found in both editions beneath the colophon on page [800]. Cicognara 434. Contemporary French mottled calf, gold-tooled spine, gilt edges.

In this work he develops in great detail the strict academic position in regard to the authority of the works of Vitruvius, Alberti, Vignola, Palladio and Scamozzi, in contrast to the more liberal attitude of his contemporary, Claude Perrault. The catalogue and the address to the public are of special interest because of the light they shed on the little-known life of the author, who was the son of the celebrated Jacques-François Blondel. For a discussion of Georges-François Blondel's remarkable architectural mezzotints and short accounts of his activities in London and elsewhere see Campbell Dodgson, "The Mezzotints of G.F. Blondel" (in The Print Collector's Quarterly, Vol. IX, No. 3, October, 1922, p. 302-314) and Jeanne Lejeaux, "Georges-François Blondel, Engraver and Draughtsman" (in The Print Collector's Quarterly, Vol. XXIII, No. 4, October, 1936, p. 260-277). None of the items described in the exhibition catalogue above seem to be those known and discussed by Mr. Dodgson and Mlle. Lejeaux.

Engraved frontispiece, 1-44 engraved plates (folding except 2 single-page). Vol. II: 94 leaves. [i-viii], [1]-180 p. 1-111 engraved plates, numbered at bottom (numbers 1-99 at top: no. 25 omitted, 11 nos. in duplicate, 2 in triplicate; 12 are folding plates). Engraved head- and tailpieces, initials. 28.7 cm. 11 5/16 in.; Contents: Vol. I: engraved frontispiece, verso blank; p. [i]: title page in black and red; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-v]: dedication; p. [vi]: directions for binder; p. [vii-viii]: privileges; p. i-v: preface; p. vi-x: contents; p. xi-xvi: introduction; p. [1]-186: text in 5 parts, with pl. 1-44 bound in; p. 187-198: index; p. [199-200]: blank, original leaf. Vol. II: p. [i]: title page in black and red; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: preface; p. [v]-vii: contents; p. [viii]: directions for binder; p. [1]-168: text in 2 parts, with pl. 1-111 bound in; p. 169-180: index, ending with: "De l'Imprimerie de J. Chardon."; versos of all plates blank; Notes: First edition, second issue. The text is printed within two-line border. There was a half title, lacking in both volumes of this copy, which reads "Traité D'Architecture Dans Le Goût Moderne.", under which title both the approbation and privilege were issued in 1736 and 1737. The allegorical frontispiece and some of the head- and tailpieces were engraved by Cochin. The fine plates were both drawn and engraved by the author, except a few at the end of Volume II, on which he received help. This work deals in great detail with the country house and its garden. The author tells us that its principal object "was to inspire the lover of building with an apt dislike for all in architecture which has only a mediocre beauty."; A copy of the first issue of this work, in the John Work Garrett Library, contains 1) an errata slip for Vol. I-II at the end of Vol. I, p. [199-200]; 2) the half title, as described above, in Vol. I; 3) the following imprint: A Paris, Rue S. Jacques, Chez Charles-Antoine Jombert, Libraire du Roy pour l'Artillerie, à l'Image Notre-Dame.; M.DCC.XXXVII.;...; The Fowler copy has the necessary corrections made in the text, most of the pages are reset with the same type but more widely spaced (32 lines, 196 x 122 mm. against 192 x 120 mm.), as well as some variation in type ornaments. The engraved plates are the same except that the frontispiece, engraved by Soubeyran after Cochin, shows evidence of reworking. The drawing on the floor in the foreground has been changed, names added to the books on the floor, blocks shown in the pedestal of the column, and "Cochin filius inv." changed to "Cochin Filius inv." In the Garrett copy the first page of the dedication has a printed text, with engraved headpiece signed "Marvie," whereas the Fowler copy has the text engraved and different titles for Monsieur Turgot. Berlin Catalog 2400; Brunet I, 977; Cicognara 435; Auguste Prost, J.F. Blondel et son Oeuvre, Metz, 1860, Vol. I, p. 115-117. Eighteenth-century bookplate with Cardinal's arms inside upper cover. Original French mottled calf, gold-tooled, red edges; Plate XXVIII.

Prononcé à l'ouverture du cinquième Cours public donné par le sieur Blondel, ...[2 lines, type ornament]; 8vo. 50 leaves. [1]-99 [100] p. 16.5 cm. 6 1/2 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: blank; p. [3-4]: "Avertissement"; p. 5-99: "Discours," ending with approbation; p. [100]: errata; Notes: First edition. A large part of this little book consists of notes. They give interesting information about contemporary schools, academies and libraries, as well as lists of buildings and their architects, and of sculptors, painters, engravers and artisans with accompanying remarks. At the end is a list of books, ancient and modern, which Blondel considers indispensable for those who would devote themselves to architecture and the related arts. title pages, and some preliminary matter; Vol. 3: plates for Vol. 5-6 of text, with separate title pages and some preliminary matter; Notes: First edition. The half titles of the volumes of text read "Cours D'Architecture Civile." The Library of Congress copy of Vol. 2 of the text has a second half title which reads: "Cours D'Architecture. Livre Second." The plates of Volume 4 have a half title reading "Planches du Quatrième Volume." Volume 3 of the text lists two plates numbered XL in the description with corresponding duplication of numbers on the plates, and Volume 4 has two numbered XXXIX. Blomfield describes the three volumes of plates as Vol. vii, viii, ix of the whole work, whereas in this copy they are bound and numbered on the binding as Vol. 1-3. The plates were engraved by Croisey, De la Gardette, Marillier, Michelinot, Milsan, Pelletier, Le Roy and others from the designs of Blondel, Desprez, Eisen, Helin, Patte, etc. The work was printed at the "l'imprimerie de Lottin l'ainé." Pierre Patte (1723-1812) who completed this work after the death of Blondel was one of his most loyal pupils and himself an important author. In 1743 Blondel founded his École des Arts which became the model for the "Atelier" which was to constitute such a characteristic feature of French architectural education. This Cours D'Architecture, rich in material of great interest to the student of this period, became the standard handbook of its day, largely superseding those of François Blondel (No. 46, 47) and D'Aviler (No. 32, 33). It is popularly known as the "Petit Blondel" in comparison with Blondel's four large folio volumes of Architecture Française, which is known as the "Grand Blondel." Jacques François Blondel reflected the conservative tradition of his time. "As an academic critic...as a teacher with profound knowledge of his subject, Blondel stands unrivalled, and his works...remain to this day the most complete and authoritative account ever given of modern classical architecture" (Blomfield, Fr. Arch. II, Vol. 2, p. 155). Berlin Catalog 2429; Brunet I, 977; Aug. Prost, J.F. Blondel et Son Oeuvres, Metz, 1860. Contemporary French calf, gold-tooled spine, sprinkled edges.

Vtilis est hic liber pictoribus, sculptoribus, fabris ærarijs atqz lignarijs, lapicidis, statuarijs, et uniuersis qui circino, gnomone, libella, aut alioqui certa mensura opera sua examinant; Folio. 18 leaves without signature marks. [1-18] leaves including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 39.7 cm. 15 5/8 in.; Contents: leaf [1] recto: title page; leaf [1] verso: blank; leaf [2] recto & verso: dedication to Andreas Schmid; leaf [3-18]: woodcut illustrations with descriptive text printed beside illustration, versos blank, bound facing each other; Notes: Froschauer's beautifully rendered punning device together with the fine typographical arrangement of the title combine to produce an unusually distinguished page. Of the 16 plates, one pair is devoted to the Tuscan order, one to the Doric, two pair each to the Ionic and Corinthian, one pair to the Composite and a final pair to large-scale drawings of the Ionic and Corinthian capitals and bases. The text, in small italics, is arranged in a narrow column on the left side of the page, the line woodcuts of the orders occupying the remaining space to the right. This work was very popular in England and the first English edition, 1608, offered more precise data on the orders than did Shute's First & Chief Groundes...1563, or Richard Haydocke's translation from Lomazzo, 1598. This treatise on the five orders went through various editions and is often found with either, or both, of the following works: Ein kunstrych Büch von allerley antiquiteten..., Zurich, ca. 1560; Warhafte contrafacturen etlich alter und schöner gebäuen..., Zurich, 1562. Other editions: In German: Zurich, 1554 (some title pages with date 1555); 1567; [n.d.]; Amsterdam 1612; Zurich 1627; Cologne 1644; Zurich 1660; 1662; 1668; 1672. In French: Lyons, 1562. In Dutch and French: Amsterdam, 1623; 1641. In English: London, 1608; 1620; 1635; 1660; 1668; 1674. [101-102]: instructions for binding plates; with [68] plates bound in, versos blank; Notes: The plates, engraved by Babel, Blondel, Hérisset, Lucas, Moreau, Mutel, Tardieu and others, show the exterior and interior of town mansions in France and elsewhere. Plates XXI and XLVII are not called for in the instructions to the binder, p. [101-102], but plate XXI is listed in the table of contents, p. 99. Boffrand, pupil of J.H. Mansard, represents the less rigid wing of the academic school. He was an exponent of rococo ornament and had a predilection for experimenting in novel forms. I-XLIV: plates of orders, etc., including engraved text; versos of all plates blank; Notes: The frontispiece portrays a wall with niches and an Ionic portico, approached by steps, projecting in front. In the niches and in front of the portico are shown statues representing "Le Solid, L'Agreable, Le Commode, La Theorie, La Pratique." Upon the pedestal of the center statue is inscribed "La Raison Svr Tovt." In the attic and frieze of the portico we find, "Traité Svr La Pratique Des Ordres De Colomnes De L'Architecture Nommée Antique," on the ceiling of the portico, "Par A. Bosse." and at the bottom of the plate the imprint, "A Paris, chez ledit Bosse en Lisle du Palais, sur le Quay qui regarde celui de la Megisserie. 1664..." The title is within an elongated octagonal frame, and the imprint given above is found within a tablet with border. The dedication to Colbert, within a handsome architectural border, has at the base, "Avec Priuilege pour vingt Années. 1665." The other plates are undated except XXXIII, showing the method of drawing the curve of columns, which is dated February 1, 1664. This plate and the accompanying text are based on a letter containing two drawings from François Blondel to Bosse, dated January 24, 1664, which is in the Fowler Collection (see transcript below and Plate XI). Bookplate (1865) of the French official architect, Léon Ohuet. Bound with his: Des Ordres De Colones...1664 [Copy A] (No. 60) and Representations Geometrales...1659 [Copy A] (No. 63). mojennes proportionnelles entre deux droites données; [Page 2] C'est celle la mesme que Monsieur Viese a de notre temps supposée comme une petition ou Demande au supplement de Geometrie pour resoudre tous les problemes Solides, et dont les Equations vont au Cube ou au Quarré quarré, ne jugeant pas que sa description par le moyen de L'Instrument de Nicomedes fut plus Mechaniquz, ou pour mieux dire moins Geometriqz, que celle du Cercle par le moyen du Compas; dont l'usage est neantmoins recu par ce mesme principe de Petition ou Demande dans le premier des Elements d'Euclide.; Et quoj que ces Equations se resolvent plus noblement dans les liures de Monsieur Descartes par la seule Intersection du Cercle et de la Parabole, quj sont lignes d'un genre plus simple et moins Composé que la Conchoïde: Celle ci neantmoins ne laisse pas d'auoir ses usages en Geometrie pour les solutions des Equations plus elevées; Et les suppositions de Monsieur Viese sont tres scauantes et tres veritables; Majs pour retourner a nostre propos, Quoique vous scachiez parfaitement cette Inuention galante de Vignole, et que vous la puissiez voir dans son liure; Je ne lairraj pas de vous en tracer ici la figure avec son discours selon la scauante Traduction de L'illustre Monsieur Le Muet, affin que vous; [Page 3] [Ink drawing, see Plate XI] puissiez mieux juger du raisonnement que Je feraj ensuite; Quant a cette autre façon, dit il, Je l'aj trouuée de moj mesme, et quoj qu'elle soit moins cognüe, elle est neantmoins facilé a Concevoir par les lignes. Je diraj donc qu'ayant resolu les mesures de la Colonne, (c'est a dire sa hauteur et grosseur sa diminution par le haut, et son renflement vers le milieu ou le tiers,) On doit tirer une ligne a l'jnfinj en commençant C (quj est au point du renflement); et continuant par D; puis reportant la mesure CD au point A (ou finit la [Page 4] diminution du haut) Jusqu'a ce qu'elle coupe la perpendiculajre au point B, et que AB soit continuée Jusques en E. De la on pourra tirer tant de lignes qu'on voudra quj partiront de la perpendiculajre et jront a la Circonference de la Colonne, sur lesquelles applicant la mesure CD; on trouvera tant en haut qu'en bas l'enfleure de la Colonne: Et cette maniere peut estre appliquée a L'Ionique, Corinthien et Composé; Ou vous voyez, Monsieur, que toutes ces lignes quj, partant du point E, sont comprises entre la perpendiculajre ou Axe de la Colonne et sa Circonference, sont toutes egales entr'elles, et a la droite CD. De sorte que si nous appellons le point E pole, L'axe de la Colonne La Regle ou Canon, et la ligne CD L'Intervalle: Je ne voj plus rien quj m'empesche d'appeller la ligne Courbe quj passe depuis A par toutes les extremités recherchées, La premiere Conchoïde des Anciens; puisque c'est toute la mesme: Ainsi que vous le cognoistrez encor mieux par L'Instrument que Nicomedes a Inuenté pour la descrire, dont voici la figure; Apres avoir determiné come dessus, la largeur de la Colonne avec son renflement dont la moitié est CD, et trouué la longueur de la ligne CE, Il faut prendre trois regles de bois ou de metal GF, ID et HA, [Page 5] [Ink drawing, Plate XI] dont les deux GF et ID sont attachées ensemble a angles droits comme en D; et par le milieu de la Regle GF Il faut entailler un petit Canal a queüe d'aronde quj s'estende en toute la longueur de la regle;; Il s'en fait un autre de mesme dans le milieu de la Regle HA, quj; [Page 6] S'estend Indefiniment vers le bout H, mais quj vers l'autre bout se termine en K, en sorte neantmoins que la distance AK ne soit pas plus grande que la distance CE. Ensuite Il faut faire, au bout de la regle AH, vers le point A, La Ligne AB egale a la ligne CD, et attacher par dessous la regle au point B, un bouton de bois ou de metal, quj puisse couler Juste dans le Canal de la Regle GF. Il faut en attacher un autre pareil au point E dans le milieu de la Regle ID quj coule Juste dans le Canal de la Regle AH. Affin que la Regle EF estant appliquée a l'axe de la Colonne en sorte que le point D responde au renflement, et la Regle AH se mouvant en avançant ou reculant sur le bouton E comme sur un pivot ou pole, Tandis que le bouton B se meut au long dudit axe, c'est a dire au long du Canal de la Regle gf(?); Le point A descriue par ces mouvements La Cherche Courbe AaCc pour la Diminution du renflement de la Colonne quj est appellée par Vitruue.; Et dans laquelle ligne, toutes les Droites tirées du pole E et comprises entre le Canal de la Regle GF c'est a dire entre l'axe de la Colonne et Sa Circonference comme ba, sont toutes egales entr'elles; [Page 7] et a l'Intervalle AB ou CD. Enquoj Il paraist que la ligne Courbe que cet Instrument a descrit est la mesme que Celle que Vignole a pretendu descrire. Et si vos regles estant d'une grandeur Indefinie, vous faites en sorte que les Boutons B et E puissent tellement s'auancer ou reculer au long des regles AH et DI, que les Intervalles comme AB et CE, puissent aussi estre pris sur les dites regles de telle grandeur que l'on voudra; Il est evident que cet instrument pourra seruir a descrire les Courbes des Colonnes de quelqz hauteur ou grosseur qu'elles puissent estre: Puisque Toute leur difference ne consiste qu'en celle des dit Intervalles. L'autre costé de la Colonne sera descrit de la mesme maniere, en Changeant L'Instrument de place, et le rapportant de l'autre part; Ainsi, Monsieur, Il me semble que mon Probleme est assez bien resolu par cet Instrument; Et que sans s'embarasser a rechercher ces points Infinis, comme veut Vignole, par lesquels on puisse ensuite mener doucement cette Cherche, quj de soj [Page 8] dans la rigueur est toujours Imparfaite, On peut dorenavant tirer tout d'un trait cette ligne uniformement et en sa perfection; C'est dequoj Jay voulu vous faire part, en attendant que nous ayons de Mr Curabelle quelq chose de Considerable sur cette matiere, Ainsi qu'il y a lieu de l'esperer par ses Estrenes. Vous assurant au reste que bien qu'il y ait raison d'estre surpris que depuis tant de siecles quj ont produit de sj grands hommes pour L'Architecture, et quj ont sj bien tracé les diminutions et renflement des Colonnes;; Personne, au moins que Je sçache, n'ait fait reflexion a cette maniere de description que le seul Vignole; Et que depuis luj, Tant des Braves Architectes se soient heureusement serui de son Inuention, sans avoir rien dit de la nature de la Courbe qu'elle produit, ni du moyen de la desseigner tout d'un trait;; et sans avoir mesme aucunement resolu, s'il n'y a pas des lignes Courbes d'une autre nature, quj peuvent estre aussi descrites; [Page 9] par le moyen des Instruments; Et quj ne ferajent pas, selon la diversité des gousts, en effet moins agreable que celle ci, pour le contour du renflement des Colonnes: Quoj qu'il y ait, dis je, beaucoup de sujet de s'en estonner, Je vous proteste neantmoins que je n'ay aucune vanité que cette pensée me soit venüe, de laquelle Je me glorifie beaucoup moins, que de l'honneur que vous me faites de m'aymer. The added engraved title page shows two seated female figures representing geometry and perspective with title at bottom which, like the beautifully engraved portrait of Larcher, bears the date 1647. The privilege, same as that of La Pratique Du Trait A Preuves (No. 55) gives Bosse general permission to engrave, print and sell various works of Desargues over a period of twenty years. As in La Pratique, the first page of the dedication is engraved and the descriptive text is placed between the plates but is here included in the pagination. The 159 plates on 81 leaves are printed on both sides of the leaf except pl. 151 and 156 printed twice, and pl. 150 which is on one side of a folding leaf. In the irregular pagination, p. 168-193, the Y and Z signatures are combined with 8 pages given two numbers each; a second Y signature follows which takes the place of signature Aa. As in all the books by Bosse, the engraving is very skillful and even plates of diagrams, which predominate in this work, are effectively composed. There was a Dutch translation of this work by J. Bara, printed at Amsterdam by J. Danckerts in 1686 (BM (2), XXII, 911). The Berlin Catalog (4716) notes an additional engraved title, found in their 1648 edition, with imprint of Dancker Danckerts, Amsterdam. Cicognara 817. Nineteenth-century armorial bookplate of A. Kuhnholz-Lordat. Contemporary mottled calf, gold-tooled spine, sprinkled edges.

The added engraved title page shows a female figure standing in front of an architectural background, with geometrical symbols at her feet, holding a small scroll with the title; imprint at bottom. The first page of the dedication is engraved with a handsome headpiece occupying most of the page. The engraved title page to the plates (pl. [i]), and the 114 plates are printed on both sides of fifty-eight leaves, the first leaf having the engraved title recto with plate 1 verso and the last leaf having plate 114 recto with verso blank. Pages [1-114] are placed between the leaves of the plates and signatures Q and R, with plates, are reversed in binding. The works of Desargues are discussed in an article by Wm. W. Ivins, Jr., entitled: "Two first editions of Desargues" (in Metropolitan Museum of Art Bulletin, New Series, Vol. I, No. 1, 1942, p. 33-45). The first edition of his work, with plates probably by Bosse, was published under the title, Exemple de l'une des manieres universelles du S.G.D.L. touchant la pratique de la perspective...1636, which was reprinted by Bosse in 1648 (No. 56), and again by Poudre in Paris in 1664, Oeuvres de Desargues. The work described here was published in Paris in 1640 under the title, Brouillon Project d'exemple d'une maniere Universelle du S.G.D.L. Touchant la pratique du trait à preuves pour la coupe des pierres en l'architecture..., also with plates probably by Bosse. There was a German edition printed at Nuremberg in 1767. In describing this book it seemed advisable to abandon the usual leaf and page collation, and attempt a simple description using the terms engraved plates and illustrations. The text and illustrations throughout both volumes are within a two-line border, with charming head- and tailpieces. The majority of the illustrations, as well as these head- and tailpieces are unsigned except a few by Marvie and Choffard. In Volume I illustrations numbered 1-19 are bound in with the parts to which they refer, followed by No. 20-40. Of the 40 illustrations, 12 are double-page and 2 are folding plates. There is a blank, original leaf, as well as illustration No. 1 bound in between pl. 44-45. In Volume II continuous numeration, 1-195 (i.e. 197), has been given to the text, illustrations and sectional half titles, as well as illustrations numbered 1-75. This is followed by illustrations numbered 76-98 showing designs for interior woodwork and for iron-work. Two of these 98 illustrations are double-page, the rest full-page plates. The title page of Volume II, without date, was engraved by Liebault. The text for the most part is on both sides of the leaves, and there is a blank, original leaf, as well as illustration No. 3 (2d plate numbered 64) bound in between pl. 64-65. Volume II contains a short history of architecture; the orders according to Vignola, Palladio, Scamozzi and the author; the orders of Sebastian Le Clerc; an essay by the author on the opinions of various architects as to the necessity of changing the proportions of parts of buildings in relation to the distances from which they are viewed. 4to. 2 v. Vol. I: 172 leaves. [i-viii], [1]-96, [1]-59 [60], [1]-44, [1]-60, [1]-74 [75-76] p. Engraved frontispiece (double-page), [6] engraved plates as follows: [3] double-page, I, 2A, II B; [3] folding out, 1, 2, [3]. Vol. II: 2 leaves. [i-iv] p. Added engraved title page (double-page), 1-144 engraved plates (i.e. 106: 28 single-page; 3 folding, 75 double-page of which 38 are given one number each, 36 two numbers each and one three numbers). Woodcut head- and tailpieces, initials. 28.2 cm. 11 1/8 in.; Contents: Vol. I: engraved frontispiece (double-page), verso blank; p. [i]: printed title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-v]: preface; p. [vi]: approbation and note to reader; p. [vii-viii]: table of contents; p. [1]-96: text, "La Construction"; followed by double-page pl. I, 2 A, II B; p. [1]-59 [60]: text, "Des Distributions," ending with contents; p. [1]-44: text, "Les Devis des Batimens"; p. [1]-60: text, "Du Toise Des Batimens," followed by pl. 1, 2, [3]; p. [1]-74: text, "Des Articles de la Coutume de Paris..."; p. [75-76]: table of contents of last part. Vol. II: added engraved title page (double-page), verso blank; p. [i]: printed title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: approbation and privilege, followed by pl. 1-144 (i.e. 106); versos of all plates blank; Notes: First edition. The frontispiece, a double-page plate showing a domed pavilion, is the same as that of Jean Courtonne's Perspective, 1725 (No. 94), except that a slip with "Architecture Moderne" engraved on it has been pasted over the dedication to the Duc d'Antin in the small cartouche at the bottom. The double-page engraved title page of Vol. II has the following title within a handsome baroque border, "Architecture Moderne Ou l'Art de bien batir...Second Volume. Qui contient les plans, profils, et Elévations, de Soixante differentes distributions...1729. A Paris chez Claude Jombert..." The plates are unsigned except the last fourteen which are engraved by Aveline, Lucas and Scotin after Courtonne. These plates, No. 130-144, also are found in Courtonne's Perspective, Paris, 1725, with the same "Distribution" and plate numbers. This work has long been ascribed to Briseux. Thieme-Becker lists Architecture Moderne, 1728, under both C.E. Briseux and J. Courtonne; J.F. Blondel in his Discours...of 1754, p. 86 (No. 50), mentions "L'Architecture Moderne, édition of 1728, par M. Tiercelet...", while the Berlin Catalog, 2397, lists it under Claude Jombert, ascribing most of the work to Tiercelet and Courtonne; Cicognara, 482, enters it under Courtonne; BM Catalog (2), Vol. 25, 642, gives Briseux as author. There was an enlarged edition, Paris, C.A. Jombert, 1764. On flyleaf of Volume I is the following inscription: "Bought in Paris by H. Sheatfield Jun. Anno 1736." Contemporary mottled calf, gold-tooled spine, red edges.

The frontispiece, perspective view of a pavilion with garden beyond, unsigned; some plates signed "Levesque, fec." Blomfield says that Pierre Bullet stood in the front rank of the architects of his time and that "his famous work L'Architecture Pratique...was the first really practical treatise by an architect on details of building from a business point of view, the cost and measurement, specifications, and the interpretation of Articles 184-219 of the 'Custom of Paris' relating to buildings. Curiously enough, Bullet makes no reference to De L'Orme's enormous work....The only works of his predecessors mentioned are certain tables of cost given by Du Cerceau in his book of fifty buildings, and a book by Louis Savot, edited by the elder Blondel (No. 290) which Bullet dismisses with contempt as the work of an ignorant amateur. Bullet's treatise has no literary pretensions or merit; it was an exceedingly useful surveyor's handbook, and it remained a standard work for the next hundred years." (Blomfield II, Vol. 1, p. 144). This work was reprinted about fifteen times between 1691 and 1838, edited with additions by various people (see Comolli IV, p. 209-214; Michaud, Biographie Universelle, VI, p. 154-155); Berlin Catalog 2542 (1762 edition); Cicognara 456. [I], full-page, appears twice facing Chapter I of both English and French texts; two numbered XII, two numbered XVI) of which 38 are full-page, 40 double-page with flaps on pl. VII, XIV, XV, XVII, XIX, XX. Engraved head- and tailpieces. 53.8 cm. 21 3/16 in; Contents: p. [i]: title page in English; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii]: added engraved title page; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v]: engraved dedication to Earl of Bute; p. [vi]: blank; p. [i]-iv: introduction; p. [1]-65: text and description of plates; p. [66]: blank; p. [i]: title page in French; p. [ii]: blank; p. [i]-iv: introduction in French; p. [1]-68: text and description of plates in French; followed by pl. II-LXXV (as above), versos blank; Notes: First edition. The design of the frontispiece is based on that of Lord Burlington's Fabbriche Antiche, 1730 (No. 227). The dedication, engraved by C. Hall, has a fine armorial headpiece. The same head- and tailpieces of ruins and restorations are used in both the English and French text. The handsome plates, with titles in English and French, are unsigned except two: pl. XXI has "C. Cameron Archtus Fecit" and pl. XXIII has "Carolus Cameron Archtus et B. Mayor Pictor fecit." The flaps on pl. VII, XIV, XV, XVII, XIX, XX are extensions of plates or alternate restorations. An errata slip is tipped in at the added engraved title page. In the introduction, p. iv, Cameron says that Lord Burlington's publication of Palladio's drawings of the Baths "is the basis and foundation upon which the present work is established, so must it be to that of any author who may hereafter treat upon the same subject...the buildings he (Palladio) has described have been again measured; and the errors which have escaped him, corrected. The elevations and sections of the Baths which he has represented as in their original and perfect state, are here given ruined as they now remain, from accurate drawings made on the spot, or from the best designs of these buildings, as published in the time of Palladio." The second edition of this work was published in 1775. Berlin Catalog 1898; Cicognara 3640. Book label of Hermitage Library. Contemporary French mottled calf, gold-tooled spine, red edges.

The engraved title page and dedication, found in Vol. I-II, though called for in the contents, p. 12, have been replaced in Vol. III by a printed title page and dedication. The text is in English except as noted for Vol. IV. The plates of Vol. I are not signed except a few which have "C. Campbell Delin" or "Inv et Delin." Most of the plates of Vol. II-III were engraved by H. Hulsbergh from the designs of Colin Campbell, and those of Vol. IV from the designs of J. Gandon, J. Woolfe and William Chambers by M. Darley, Gandon, Marley, T. Miller, J. Müller, J. Roberts, A. Walker, T. White and J. Woolfe. The name of the architect is given as well for most of the buildings described; Woolfe and Gandon published a fifth volume in 1771 and George Richardson two volumes with 52 and 70 plates, entitled The New Vitruvius

Britannicus, London, 1802-1808. Between 1833 and 1841, P.F. Robinson published several works under the general title of Vitruvius Britannicus. There are several editions of the first five volumes. It seems that, as the later volumes were published, the earlier ones were reissued from the original plates, the imprints of the original title pages being changed or completely erased. There was a 1731 edition of Vol. III, and a 1715 edition of Vol. II (Berlin Catalog 2329), which if correct would make the 1717 edition of Volume II described above the second edition. The John Work Garrett Library has a copy of Vol. I-V in which Vol. I-III are without imprint, Vol. IV is dated 1767 and Vol. V, 1771. The text, in all volumes of this copy, is in English and French in parallel columns. Berlin Catalog 2329; Brunet I, 1522; Blomfield, Renaissance Architecture in England, Vol. II, p. 307, and Architectural Drawing and Daughtsmen, p. 77-78; J.A. [iv]: blank; p. 1-[12]: text and list of plates; followed by 29 engraved plates as above; versos of all plates blank; Notes: First edition. The portrait of van Campen, with verse below, is signed by L. Meyer. The unsigned plates, by Jacob Vennekool, show plans, elevations and sections of exteriors and interiors of the town hall at Amsterdam built in 1648-1655 by van Campen. The sculptural features, by Artus Quellinus (1609-1668), indicated on these plates, are shown in detail in the work of Hubert Quellinus, Præcipuarum Effigierum ac Ornamentorum... Part I-II, 1655-1663 (No. 274) with which the work described here is bound. In this copy several leaves of the Quellinus work are bound in the van Campen, namely the engraved privilege of Part I, the printed dedication of Part II, and two large unnumbered folding plates of pediment sculptures. These two plates, signed by H. Quellinus and one dated 1664, are bound in before plates D and E, which show the pediments containing the sculpture. A number of blank leaves have been inserted in the preliminary matter and among the plates. For remarks on the "reactionary" character of the Amsterdam town hall see Wölfflin, Principles of Art History, London, 1932, p. 194-195. Other editions: Amsterdam, F. de Widt, 1664 and [n.d.]; with Quellinus, in French, Amsterdam, 1719; in Dutch, Amsterdam [n.d.]. Berlin Catalog 2233. The title page given above, as "Il Secondo Libro," is from the same plate as that in the Garrett copy of the edition with numbered plates, with the word "Quinto" changed to "Secondo." With this "Secondo Libro" is bound Specchi's work, in which the word "Quarto" has been replaced by "Primo" on the title page. The plates are worn impressions of those in the Garrett copy. Therefore it may be inferred that this is a second issue of the two works, by Specchi and Campiglia, which were first issued, as in the Garrett copy with the numbered plates of Falda, in 1739; The plates in the work described here were engraved for the most part by Giuseppe Vasi, except for the title page and No. 6, 8, 12 which are unsigned; No. 4, 21 by De Liegé; No. 7 by Bernardo Scilli; No. 11, 20, 26 by J.L. Legeay; No. 22, 23, 24, 29 by Duflos; and No. 30 by Pierre Parrocel. They all have the following imprint: In Roma nella Calcografia della Rev. Cam. Ap'lica a Piè di Marmo. Original paper wrappers.

La Nvova Architettvra Famigliare Di Alessandro Capra Architetto, e Cittadino Cremonese Diuisa in cinque Libri corrispondenti a' cinque Ordini, cioè Toscano, Dorico, Ionico, Corintio, E Composito ...[3 lines, woodcut ornament].
In Bologna, [Broken rule] Per Giacomo Monti. Con licenza de' Superiori. 1678 4to. 187 leaves. [i-viii], 1-366 p. including woodcut portrait, illustrations in text and title pages to Book I-V. 2 folding woodcut plates between p. 130-131, 308-309. Woodcut initials. 20.4 cm. 8 in.; Contents: p. [i]: added title to whole work with summary of contents; p. [ii]: license, dated May 22, 1677; p. [iii]: authors cited; p. [iv]: woodcut portrait of Capra; p. [v]: title page; p. [vi]: blank; p. [vii-viii]: dedication by Giacomo Monti; p. 1-8: preface; p. [9]-354: text, Book I-V, including title pages and illustrations, with 2 folding plates bound in between p. 130-131, 308-309; p. 355-366: index; Notes: First edition. The added and separate title pages of the five books are within architectural borders, the title page within a type ornament border. The division into books corresponding to the orders is entirely symbolic; the emphasis being placed on construction and mechanics. The illustrations for the most part in the text are included in the pagination, but the particularly interesting full-page plates of Book V, on machines, are also numbered 1-44. The first folding plate gives a method for drawing a broken pediment, the second a machine for irrigating fields. The woodcuts are clear but crude. A second edition, together with his Architettura Militare, was issued in Cremona in 1717. Berlin Catalog 2752. Label of Leo S. Olschki inside front cover. Contemporary Italian vellum.

The Villas Of The Ancients Illustrated [Double rule].

London: Printed for the Author. 1728

[Double rule, 2-line quotation from Horace, double rule]; Folio. 69 leaves. [i-viii], 1-128 [129-130] p. [5] engraved illustrations in text, p. 6, 35, 37, 84, 119; [13] engraved plates (9 double-page, 1 marked E; 4 full-page marked A-D). Engraved head- and tailpieces, woodcut initials. 51.5 cm. 20 1/4 in; Contents: p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: dedication to Richard, Earl of Burlington; p. [v-vi]: preface; p. [vii-viii]: list of subscribers; Part I: p. 1-16: "Pliny to Gallus," 2-column Latin and English text, with commentary across bottom of page; followed by double-page plate, "Laurentinum"; p. 17-54: "Remarks on Laurentinum," full-page text in English, with [4] double-page plates bound in: "The Plan of the first-[third] Floor of Laurentinum"; "The Plan & Elevation of the Cryptoporticus..."; Part II: p. 55-78: description of the villas of "Varro Columella, &c.," full-page text, with full-page plates A-D bound in; followed by double-page plate E; Part III: p. 79-93: "Pliny to Apollinaris," 2-column text in Latin and English, with commentary across bottom of page; p. [94]: blank; p. 95-128: "Remarks on Tuscum," full-page text with [3] double-page plates bound in: "The Plan of the first-[second] Floor of Tuscum," and plan of "Tuscum"; p. [129-130]: index ending with 3-line errata; versos of all plates blank; Notes: First edition. This work treats of Pliny's Laurentian and Tuscan villas and of the villas described by Varro and Columella. The engraved plates, by P. Fourdrinier, consist principally of plans, and some of the elaborate head- and tailpieces are signed by G. King. This work is considered the first attempt at the theoretical restoration of ancient buildings, and is said to have helped in the transition from the formal to the landscape garden. It was one of the publications financed by Lord Burlington; The edition described here is a large folio, printed with large margins in beautiful roman and italic types, and was a subscription edition. The copy in the Library of Congress agrees in every detail with the Fowler except for the date on the title page which reads: M.DCC.XXVIII. There was apparently a trade edition issued in much more simple format like the copy to be found in the library of The American Institute of Architects. This is a totally new typesetting of the text, but with the same plates and head- and tailpieces, and without the list of subscribers. The title page is like that given above except the date is printed: M DCC XXVIII. The collation is as follows: 2 leaves without signature marks, 20 leaves. [i-iv], 1-35 [36] p. [5] engraved illustrations in text, p. 3, 9, 10, 24, 32; [13] engraved plates as above. 53.5 cm. 21 1/16 in. Contents: p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii]: dedication to Lord Burlington; p. [iv]: preface; p. 1-35: text, Part I-III; p. [36]: index; followed by [13] engraved plates as above, versos blank. The contents of the text is the same, but it is printed in small type and in double columns throughout. Charles, the fifth Lord Baltimore is listed as one of the subscribers. A copy of this work was in the library of Thomas Jefferson (Kimball p. 92; Sowerby No. 4191). Berlin Catalog 1875. Contemporary calf.

I Quattro Primi Libri Di Architettura Di Pietro Cataneo Senese ...[7 lines, woodcut printer's device, 3 lines].

[Colophon]; Folio. 58 leaves. [i-ii], 1-54 [55-56] leaves including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 34.3 cm. 13 1/2 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: title page; leaf [i] verso: blank; leaf [ii] recto: dedication to Enea Piccolomini of Siena; leaf [ii] verso: blank; leaf 1 recto-54 recto: text, Book I-IV, including woodcut illustrations; leaf 54 verso: blank; leaf [55] recto-[56] recto: table of contents, ending with register and colophon; leaf [56] verso: woodcut printer's device; Notes: First edition. This work is well printed in roman type with woodcut pictorial initials and marginal notes in italics. The printer's device on the title page is the same as that at the end--the Aldine anchor and dolphin within a vertical oval wreath. There are interesting plans of fortified towns in Book I. This work of the Siennese architect and mathematician, Pietro Cataneo, together with that of Antonio Labacco, were the most important of their kind to appear in Italy between Serlio's Book V, 1547 (No. 321), and Vignola's Regola delli Cinque Ordini, 1562. Although Cataneo occupies a secondary place in relation to the "big five," Alberti, Serlio, Vignola, Palladio and Scamozzi, he was included by Freart in his Parallele, Paris, 1650 (No. 127). The four books of this edition were issued again in 1567, with changes and additions to the text and a few more illustrations, together with four new books which completed Cataneo's Architettura (No. 83). Berlin Catalog 2576; Brunet I, 1654; Cicognara 468. Old Italian paper boards, vellum back.

to this treatise on the practical side of architecture, but it was never carried out. This work is one of the handsomest of those eighteenth-century folios in which the authors took the opportunity, while presenting their ideas on architecture, to give the public some of their own designs. In his architectural work Chambers upheld the classic traditions as taught by the great Italian architects in opposition to the new fashions encouraged by the publication of Stuart and Revet's Antiquities of Athens, 1762-1794 (No. 340)
and the works of the Adams. Other editions: London,

The plates were engraved from drawings of Chambers by P. Fourdrinier, J. Fougeron, C. Grignon, E. Rooker and P. Sandby. Some copies have both the English and French text, with an additional preliminary leaf listing the subscribers found in the English. There has been some confusion as to the date of publication of this work. Thieme-Becker (VI, p. 346) and Schlosser (p. 584) following Cicognara (1623) have given 1753 as the first issue. Chambers did not return to England from his studies and travels in France and Italy until 1755, and there is no evidence in the 1757 edition that it had been previously issued. The catalogs of the British Museum, Bibliothèque Nationale, Royal Institute of British Architects, the Library of Congress and the Avery Library list this 1757 edition as the first. A copy of both the English and French text was in the Library of Thomas Jefferson (Kimball p. 92; Sowerby No. 4220). For the influence of this book on the Chinese vogue of the time see Eleanor von Erdberg, Chinese Influence on European Garden Structures, Cambridge, Mass., 1936. Dr. Walter Charleton was physician to King Charles I and II. The purpose of this work was to refute the attribution of Stonehenge to the Romans by Inigo Jones (No. 158) and to "restore" it to the Danes. This scarce little book is specially sought after because it contains the first printing of Dryden's "Epistle to Dr. Charleton." The large folding woodcut at p. 1 is from the same block as the illustration in Inigo Jones, The Most Notable Antiquity of Great Britain...London, 1655, p. 65 (No. 158). The smaller one according to the note on p. 8 was used by "Mr." Camden to illustrate his description of Stonehenge. A second edition of Charleton's work was published in London in 1725 (No. 159) with the second editions of Jones' Most Notable Antiquity and John Webb's A Vindication of Stone-Heng Restored...London, 1665 (No. 440). I-X engraved plates (folding out). Engraved headpieces, woodcut initials at beginning of text and dedication. 25.8 cm. 10 1/8 in.; Contents: p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-vi]: dedication; p. [vii-xii]: preface; p. [xiii-xvi]: table of contents; p. [1]-222: text; p. 223-268: dictionary of architectural terms; p. 269-[291]: index, ending with errata, approbation and privilege dated 1706; p. [292]: blank; followed by pl. I-X, versos blank; Notes: Second edition. The first edition was printed by Coignard in 1706. The first seven plates are signed by De Rochefort, the last three are unsigned and the engraved headpieces are by Sebastian Le Clerc. The text includes the author's answers to criticisms of Amédee François Frézier published in the Memoires de Trevoux (1709). For a discussion of this controversy and the relation of Cordemoy's theories to those of Claude Perrault and the Abbé Laugier see Schlosser, p. 565-567; Comolli IV, p. 264-270; Fiske Kimball, Creation of the Rococo, p. 211. Schlosser gives the name "Louis Géraud" de Cordemoy, abbé of Ferriers, as the author of this work, but the privilege was granted to "J.L." de Cordemoy. The British Museum Catalog (1), XLIII, 22, uses "J.L." but other references give only Cordemoy, or De Cordemoy. This work is listed in Blondel's Discours of 1754 (No. 50) p. 86. Berlin Catalog 2394; Cicognara 480. Contemporary calf, gold-tooled spine, red edges.

Nouveaux Desseins De Lambris De Menuiserie A Panneaux De Glace Dessinez par le Sr Cottart Architecte du Roy et autres. et nouvellement executez dans plusieurs Batimens à Paris. A Paris chez I Mariette rue St Jacques aux Colonnes d'Hercule avec privilege du Roi. [n.d.]
6 leaves. 1-6 engraved plates including title page. Plates measure: 15.3-16 x 23.3-26.6 cm. 6-6 1/4 x 9 3/8-10 1/2 in.; Notes: Second edition. A collection of engraved plates by various artists containing architectural details, ornaments, designs, etc., was published in two volumes by Nicolas Langlois in the late seventeenth century under the title L'Architecture à la mode. Jean Mariette in the early eighteenth century published a second edition under the same title in three volumes using some of the original plates with additional material. A third edition was published by C.A. Jombert under the title Répertoire des Artistes, Paris, 1765. There is some confusion as to the publication date of this Jombert edition. Geymüller gives 1752, Brunet 1764, Guilmarde 1765 and Cicognara both 1764 and 1765. The work described above is the second, or Mariette's edition. It was however included in both the Langlois (Berlin Catalog 359, 4019) and the Jombert editions. There was also a German edition "Ios. Frid. Leopold excud." (Berlin Catalog 4021). Guilmarde p. 81, 129, 180; Berlin Catalog 4020. Unbound plates.

[117-118]: approbation, dated January 4, 1725, and privilege issued to Jacques Vincent, dated February 11, 1725; versos of all plates blank; Notes: Second edition. The place and publisher, given above, are on a slip pasted over the original imprint: "A Paris, Chez Jacques Vincent, rue & vis-à-vis l'Eglise de S. Severin, à l'Ange.;" The headpiece of the dedication was engraved by Lucas. The plates of the three parts, line perspective diagrams, are unsigned; the frontispiece and plates of the "Digression" were engraved after Courtonne's designs by A. Aveline, Lucas and G.I.B. Scotin Major. These plates, listed in the instructions to the binder without numbers, in this edition are the same as those in Briseux's Architecture Moderne...1728 (No. 67), with the "distribution" and plate numbers 131-144. This is apparently a reissue, by Charles-Antoine Jombert, of the sheets and plates of Part I-III of the original 1725 Vincent edition, with pl. 131-144 taken from the Briseux work issued in 1728 by Claude Jombert. Until 1737 Charles-Antoine Jombert was printing in the Rue S. Jacques, after which his imprint bears Rue Dauphine. Therefore this edition must have appeared between 1728 and 1737, though still dated 1725 on the title page. It was listed in J.F. Blondel, Discours...1754, p. 86 (No. 50). Berlin Catalog 4729; Cicognara 831; Fiske Kimball, Creation of the Rococo, Philadelphia, 1943, p. 132, 150. Contemporary French mottled calf, gold-tooled spine, red edges.

Woodcut head-and-tailpieces, initials. 35.3 cm. 13 7/8 in.; Contents: leaf [1] recto: added title page, woodcut border, with title: Oevvres De Philibert De L'Orme.; 1648.; leaf [1] verso: blank; leaf [2] recto: printed title page; leaf [2] verso: blank; leaf 3 recto and verso: dedication to King by De Lorme; leaf 4 recto: dedication by D. Ferrand; leaf 4 verso-5 recto: preface; leaf 5 verso: portrait of De Lorme; leaf 6 recto-341 verso: text, Book I-XI, including illustrations; leaf 332 recto-348 recto (Nnn6-Ooo6): table of contents; leaf 348 verso (Ooo6): title page border of 1572 Vitruvius framing 4-line stanza to Zoilus; Notes: This edition is typographically inferior to the previous ones. The woodcuts are from the same blocks but worn and reworked. Signatures x and Bbb, as in the 1567 edition (No. 99), have each two more leaves than are allowed for in the numbering of the leaves. Between Z4 (leaf 258, wrongly marked 260) and Aaa1 (leaf 259) 6 leaves of woodcuts have been inserted, making the total of ten additional leaves. In this edition, as in that of 1626, the two books of the Nouvelles Inventions have been added to the nine books of the Architecture as Books X and XI. The "Conclusion," with the two celebrated plates of the good and bad architects, is put between Book XI and the index in this edition. There are some changes from the text of the earlier editions, especially in the Nouvelles Inventions where Chapter Three is omitted and others abridged. This 1648 edition has about 40 more illustrations than that of 1567, many being taken from the works of Vitruvius and Serlio. Although these illustrations were added many years after the death of De Lorme, they seem to be the basis of criticism of him in Blomfield's Architectural Drawing...p. 30. Except for Ferrand's dedication the contents of this edition is the same as that of the 1626 edition. Destailleur p. 16; This copy belonged to Callet "Père" (1755-1850?) and has notes by him under the plates on the verso of leaf 253, recto and verso of 254 and recto of 255. It was used by him in compiling his life of De Lorme for the Notice Historique...Paris, 1842. Between leaves 252-253 is bound a colored measured drawing made by Vaudoyer of the floor plan of De Lorme's house in Paris and accompanying it a letter to Callet from Vaudoyer dated 1837. This plan was engraved and used as one of the illustrations in the Notice Historique, p. 29. A note on p. 28 quotes a statement of De Lorme's found on the verso of leaf 307 of the 1648 edition, which is underscored in the Fowler copy; Inside the front cover is written "Ce Pressan Livre me coute 12# a 18 Aoust 1663 a moy De Lamonce"; also the nineteenth-century library stamp of "Collection E. Chastel Architecte." Seventeenth-century calf.

Eloy lez Noyon. [Woodcut printer's device]. A Paris, De l'Imprimerie de Federic Morel, rue S. Iean de Beauuais au franc Meurier. Auec priuilege du Roy. 1561
Sm. folio. 68 leaves. [i-vi], 1-57 [58-62] leaves, including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut headpieces, initials. 33 cm. 13 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: title page; leaf [i] verso: blank; leaf [ii] recto-[iv] recto: dedication to King Charles IX; leaf [iv] verso-[v] verso: preface; leaf [vi] recto: verse; leaf [vi] verso: blank; leaf 1 recto-[58] recto: text, Book I-II; leaf [58] verso: blank; leaf [59] recto-[60] verso: table of contents, ending with errata; leaf [61] recto: privilege; leaf [61] verso: blank; leaf [62]: blank, original leaf; Notes: First edition. The text, with marginal notes, is beautifully printed in roman type, with chapter headings, or captions in italics. The woodcut initials are the large and small Greek alphabet cut for Garamond's "grec du roi," used by Robert Estienne of Paris, and the charming alphabet found in the Perspective of Jean Cousin, Paris, 1500 (A.E. Johnson, Decorative Initial Letters, London, 1931, No. LVI, LX B, LXII, p. 111, 121, 125). Morel's fine device dominates the beautifully composed title page. The simple woodcuts are excellent examples of perfectly understood and clearly presented structural details and show De Lorme's system of built-up timber roofs, requiring no ties or heavy timbers, which was successfully used as late as the end of the eighteenth century in the Halle-aux-Blés in Paris. Indeed, De Lorme is unique among the early writers on architecture for the emphasis he placed upon construction. Other editions: Paris, 1568; Paris, Marnef & Cavellat, 1576 (with same title-page border as 1572 Vitruvius, No. 411, by same printers); Marnef & Cavellat, 1578 (with portrait of De Lorme); as Book X-XI of his Architecture, Paris, 1626, and Rouen, 1648 (No. 100). Berlin Catalog 2532; Brunet II, 578; Destailleur p. 15; W.B. Parsons, Engineers and Engineering of the Renaissance, Baltimore, 1939, p. 489. A copy of the 1576 edition was in the library of Thomas Jefferson (Sowerby, No. 4183). Signature, "Thomas Willoughby F:4:17" at head of title page, probably Thomas Willoughby, first Lord Middleton, who inherited the Wollaton Hall Library from its builder, Sir Francis Willoughby. Old limp vellum; Plate XX.

Le Premier Tome De L'Architectvre De Philibert De L'Orme Conseillier Et Avmosnier ordinaire du Roy, & Abbé de S. Serge lez Angiers. A Paris, Chez Federic Morel, rue S. Iean de Beauuais. Avec Privilege Dv Roy. 1567
Folio. 300 leaves. [i-x], [1]-283 [284-286] (i.e. 290: 4 unnumbered leaves, 2 in signature x, 2 in signature Bbb) leaves (leaf [284-285] lacking in this copy), including woodcut illustrations. Woodcut initials. 36.5 cm. 14 3/8 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: title page; leaf [i] verso: privilege; leaf [ii] recto-[iv] verso: dedication; leaf [v] recto-[ix] verso: table of contents; leaf [x]: blank, original leaf; leaf [1] recto-5 recto: preface; leaf 5 verso: blank; leaf 6 recto-283 verso: text, Book I-IX, including woodcut illustrations; leaf [284] recto: note to reader; leaf [284] verso: errata; leaf [285] blank, original leaf; leaf [286] recto: privilege; leaf [286] (i.e. 290, see above) verso: blank; Notes: First edition. The title is within a woodcut architectural border in the form of a tablet with a broken pediment and cherubs above, with four geometrical figures outside tablet. Because of the introduction of large-scale double-page illustrations there is some irregularity in the numbering of the leaves and in the arrangement of the gatherings of signature x, X and Bbb, resulting in four more leaves than is called for by the consecutive numbering. This edition contains the well-known illustrations of the good and bad architects. The privilege on the recto of the last leaf, [286] (i.e. 290), is the same as that on the verso of leaf [i]; This work, intended by De Lorme as the beginning of an encyclopedia of architecture, was the only part published. Of the three leading early French architectural writers. De Lorme is the most interesting and original, but is less distinguished as an artist than Jean Bullant (Reigle Generale d'Architecture, 1564) and is less versatile as a draughtsman than Du Cerceau (Livre d'Architecture, ... Des Plus Excellents Bastiments de France, etc.). De Lorme has been called the first modern architect because of his original contributions to construction and his skill as an organizer, but Blomfield says that "It was by his strong individuality rather than by his art that De Lorme won, and has maintained, his place among the great Frenchmen of the sixteenth century." (Blomfield, French Arch. I, Vol. I, p. 92.) Other editions: 1568, 1576, 1626, 1648, the last two with the Nouvelles Inventiones added as Book X-XI. There was a facsimile printed in Paris in 1894. Berlin Catalog 2362; Destailleur p. 1-16. Signature on title page: "Pierre Convers, ce 26 Aoust, 1721." Nineteenth-century cardboard, calf back.

This work is skilfully engraved from the designs of Paul Decker the Elder, famous exponent of German baroque and rococo, by G.D. Bodenehr, J. Böcklin, Corvinus, M. Engelbrecht, J.J. Kleinschmidt, P.H. Kleinschmidt, J.U. Kraus, J.D. Hertz, Jos. von Montalegre, H.J. Ostertag, J.B. Probst, K. Rembshard, G. Stein, J.C. Steinberger, J.C. Reiff and others. The elaborate allegorical frontispiece is the work of J.J. Kleinschmidt. There is some confusion as to later editions of this work. Brunet (II, 557) states that it was reissued in Nuremberg by Chr. Weigel, folio, in 3 parts, without date, which undoubtedly refers to the Civil Baukunst (Berlin Catalog 1991). The Civil Baukunst is a different work from the Fürstlicher Baumeister, containing plates of doors, windows, niches, altars, etc., and engraved by different artists. See Guilmar, p. 415, for a detailed description of these two works. Schlosser (p. 572, 588) states that parts of the Fürstlicher Baumeister appeared in Chinese Architecture, Civil and Ornamental...and Gothic Architecture Decorated...by P. Decker, London, Printed for the Author, 1759. These two books, attributed by the British Museum (2, Vol. 49, 680) to Paul Decker the Younger (1685-1742), a brother of the author of the Fürstlicher Baumeister, seem to bear little resemblance to the work described above, with no mention of plates of baroque style. There was an edition of the Fürstlicher Baumeister in Berlin in 1885. Berlin Catalog 1990; Cicognara 487. Old vellum.

A Paris, Chez Sebastien Cramoisy, Imprimeur ordinaire du Roy, rue Saint Jacques, aux Cicognes. [Single rule] Avec Privilege De Sa Maiesté. 1643 Par le R.P. François Derand de la Compagnie de Iesvs. [Engraved printer's device]; Folio. 242 leaves. [i-xxviii], 1-453 [454-456] p. including [126] engraved plates. Woodcut head- and tailpieces, initials. 43 cm. 16 15/16 in.; Contents: p. [i]: title page in red and black; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-x]: Derand's dedication to De Noyers; p. [xi-xxi]: preface; p. [xxii-xxviii]: table of contents; p. 1-453: text, Part I-V, including [126] engraved plates; p. [454]: errata; p. [455]: privileges; p. [456]: blank; Notes: First edition. This is a handsome folio, with the dedication printed in very large italics, the text and marginal notes in roman type and the chapter headings in italics. Cramoisy's device on the title page is within an elaborate frame. The full-page plates, included in both the signatures and pagination, are entirely diagrams, the monotony of which is somewhat relieved by having the titles of the various figures engraved within attractive cartouches, scrolls or other borders. For convenient reference many plates are repeated, some even two or three times. In this copy the plate "Descente biaise rempante, et en talut...", described on and facing page 108, has been repeated and pasted over the plate facing page 126, "Biais passe." Blondel in his Discours of 1754, p. 85, lists an edition of 1743; Paris, Duchesne, 1755. [65]: blank; followed by [76] engraved plates; versos of all plates blank; Notes: Well printed on heavy paper, with the French and English title pages and text facing each other on opposite pages for "better comparison." The even-page numbers are on the right-hand pages. In the undated preface to this edition, Marshall says that he "was nine years ago persuaded singly to undertake what could only be executed with propriety by a single person." He also says that "the designs have not only been traced from the original, but every part examined by the proper scale: and that the author's measures might be exactly retained, the editor has not deviated from the Paris-foot...according to the scale on the first plate, by which the french is easily reduced into the british measure." The plates, signed "A Desgodetz del G Marshall sculp," are very careful and effective reproductions of the originals. It seems possible that Vol. I, dated on the French title page 1771, may have been printed first. Contemporary English half russia, marbled boards.

Les Edifices Antiques De Rome Dessinés Et Mesurés Tres Exactement Par Antoine Desgodetz Architecte.
A Paris Chez Iean Baptiste Coignard Imprimeur du Roy rue St Iacques a la Bible d'Or. 1682
Folio. 169 leaves. [i-xiv], 1-323 [324] p. including [137] engraved plates numbered as follows for each chapter: I-XXIII, I-V, I-II, I-III, I-IV, I-IV, I-II, I-V, I-III, I-III, I-III, I-IV, I-II, I-III, I-III, I-V, I-VIII, I-X, I-IV, I-IX, I-XIII, I-IV, I-V, I-VII, I-III. 43.5 cm. 17 1/8 in.; Contents: p. [i]: engraved title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-v]: dedication to Colbert; p. [vi]: blank; p. [vii-x]: preface; p. [xi]: contents and note; p. [xiii]: additions and corrections; p. [xiii]: privilege; p. [xiv]: colophon; p. 1-323: text, Chapter I-XXV, with [137] plates bound in, versos blank; p. [324]: blank; Notes: First edition. The title is within an elaborate foliate frame on a pedestal base containing the imprint. There are engraved headpieces and initials for the dedication and the text. The plates, many of them masterpieces of architectural drawing and engraving, were engraved from the drawings of Desgodets by De Chastillon, S. Le Clerc, J. and P. Le Pautre, N. Guerard and others. This work gives the first really accurate representation of ancient Roman architecture and is the beginning of that long series of measured drawings which are one of the great traditions of French architecture. It is remarkable that the drawings for this work were made when the author was about twenty-two and the book was published before he was thirty. Besides describing the plates, the text is largely devoted to exposing the many errors of Serlio, Palladio and Freart. Other editions: Paris, Anisson, 1695; Paris, Jombert, 1697; Paris, Jombert, 1779 (Jefferson owned a copy of this edition, Sowerby, No. 4198); London, 1771-1795 (French and English) (No. 103); Paris, 1800 (Supplement by J.C.A. The title page etched border is in black with the title printed in red. Leaf [1] recto contains a half-page plate (numbered 2) and a half-page printed text. The plates of this edition occur in the 1598 edition (No. 105) under the following numbers: 6, 23-31, 38-39; 46, 66-77, 86-87; 95, 110-116, 125-126; 136, 152-160, 167-168; 176, 192-197, 208-209. It is misleading to state, as is sometimes done, that the five books into which the 1598 edition (No. 105) is divided, were originally published separately in 1593. The earlier editions consisted of two books only, each with its own title page--Book I with 37 plates and Book II with 58 plates as described here. When the 1598 edition was issued many new plates were added and the old and new plates rearranged in five groups according to the orders, and four of the groups were provided with separate title pages. Other editions: Book I--Latin text: Stuttgart, 1593; Latin and French text in two columns: Strassburg, 1593; German text: Stuttgart, 1593. Book II--Latin text: dedication dated 1594 and colophon 1595; German text: Strassburg, 1594. Berlin Catalog 1941. Signature on top of title page of Sir Henry Belasyse. Modern cloth.

The title pages of Book II-V and leaf 86 are not numbered; leaf 179 is marked 178. Leaf 94, 135 and 175, the printed descriptions of the Ionic, Corinthian and Composite order, are also numbered in the upper right-hand corner, 3, 4, and 5. Plate 187-188, 196-197, 202-203, 204-205, 206-207 should be joined together to form five designs (Brunet II, 706). The colophon gives the publisher's name as Balthasar Caymox. The plates depict the most fantastic designs in the most lurid taste which show, for the most part, no regard for the possibility of execution in any building material. Such designs had a disastrous effect on contemporary German, Flemish and English architectural detail; There are several variant issues of this work: 1) The Library of Congress has the general title page printed in red and black with Hubrecht and Balthasar Caymox as publishers (Berlin Catalog 1942); the dedication on the recto and verso of leaf 2, and with other minor changes in text. 2) A large paper copy in the Spencer Collection of the New York Public Library has leaf and pl. 23, with reset text, in place of leaf 3, and a worn copy of the Fowler plate 23 in its proper place; leaf 5 is reversed in binding with the number on the verso of the leaf; the title of Book II (leaf [44]) has a slip with the title, as given above, pasted over the original title of the 1594 edition (No. 104). 3) A copy in the Rare Book Room of the New York Public Library agrees with the Fowler except that leaf [45] is reversed in binding with the number on the verso of the leaf. All three copies have different numbering on plate 188--the Fowler is clearly marked 188; the Spencer Collection copy is either marked 10 or 40, possibly substituted in ink; the Rare Book Room copy is marked 188 below a + sign; Besides these issues with German text, the work was published in 1598 in Latin with the general title page in red and black, the four book titles in black; a Latin and French text in the same year. It was reprinted in Nuremberg by Paul Furst in 1653(?) and again in 1655, and at Liège by C. Claesen in 1862 (with German text) and with a Paris imprint (French text). Fairfax Murray Catalog (German), Vol. I, No. 134; Brunet II, 706. Nineteenth-century calf, gold-tooled spine.

[i]: title page; pl. [1]: dedicatory letter from Du Perac to Giacomo Buoncompagni; followed by 35 plates numbered 2-40 (as described above); versos of all plates blank; Notes: The first edition with title page in second state. The title, with four lines of dedication to Giacomo Buoncompagni, is within an architectural border, with arms in small shield at top. On the back of plate 27 of this copy is a pale impression of the title page in the first state before the four lines of dedication and the arms in the shield at the top were added. The plates have two to three lines of descriptive text engraved at the bottom. The dedicatory letter is missing in some copies. The plates are arranged in the order of the itinerary it was customary for pilgrims of the time to follow. Du Pérac, engraver, painter, and architect arrived in Rome about 1559 and started to work for Lafrery, contributing various prints to his Speculum Romanae Magnificentiae...Rome, 1575. Independently Du Pérac produced many prints of Roman ruins and, together with others, a valuable large map of the city, but his fame rests mostly on I Vestigi Antichità di Roma. Although the views in this work seem less authentic than those in Dosio's Urbis Romae Aedificiorum...1569 (No. 107), the two collections together are of great value to the student. Blomfield (Fr. Arch. I, Vol. I, p. 148, 161; Vol. II, p. 37) comments on Du Pérac's poor drawing and bad engraving but thinks that these prints are of greater historical value than the ingenious restorations of Palladio. On his return to France Du Pérac decorated the "cabinet of the bath" at Fontainebleau. When this work was finished in 1598 he was employed as architect at the Tuileries until his death; Other editions: Rome, Vaccheria, 1575 (1st state); Rome 1575 (2d state, described here); Rome 1600 (as Part I of larger work); Utrecht, Goert van Schayck, 1621; Rome: Giovanni Battista de Rossi, 1639, 1653, 1671, 1680; Rome, Giuseppe Giulio Rossi, 1709; Rome, Carlo Losi, 1773. The plates of the 1575 edition were copied by Gilles Sadeler at smaller size and issued in his Vestigi Delle Antichità..., Prague, 1606, which were reprinted by Gio. Giacomo de Rossi, Rome, 1660, and again by G.G. de Rossi before 1691 (see note, No. 283). Peter Schenck also copied many of these plates in his Rome Aeterna...Amsterdam, 1705. [151-158]: index; Notes: First edition of Volume I. The work was completed in three volumes, Volume II in 1647 and Volume III in 1648-1649. The author's name does not appear on the title page, where he is described as "un religieux de la Compagnie de Jesus." No copy of this work was available for checking so the date has been supplied from the Berlin Catalog. The added engraved title page depicts, under a cartouche at the top, an artist seated before an easel with Minerva standing at his side guiding his brush, and a cherub at his feet with an open book showing plate 58 above, which the artist is copying. Cicognara (823) describes appendices to this work, which he says are missing from most copies. This work was very popular in England where two different translations were made of Volume I (No. 109 and 110). Other editions: Paris, 1651 (Vol. I); Paris, A Dezallier, 1679, 3 v. with added engraved title pages with imprint of Jean Du Puis; Vol. I-II are dated on the printed title page 1679, Vol. III has the added engraved title page dated 1666 (Comolli III, 164); German translation of Volume I by G.C. Rembold, Augsburg, 1710; English translation by Robert Pricke, 1672 (note, No. 109) and by Ephraim Chambers, 1726 (note, No. 110). Berlin Catalog 4714; Brunet IV, 523; Cicognara 823. Early nineteenth-century paper boards, leather back.

[vii]: half title; p. 129-150: text, with pl. 129-150 bound in; p. [151] (i.e. 158): directions to binder; Notes: A late edition of Chambers' translation, which in these late issues were known as "Bowles Perspective." The Peabody Library dates its copy of this edition [1780?] and the Library of Congress has a copy dated [1783] with the following imprint: London, Printed by Assignment of Messrs Bowles & Carver For Sherwood, Gilbert and Piper [n.d.]. The plates follow those of the Pricke translation (No. 109). They are given, in most cases, the signature mark of the leaf following, and also bear the plate or page number of the appropriate facing letterpress. Other editions: London, Thomas Bowles, 1726; with Hodgson's Perspective, 1743, 1749, 1765, 1782 and 1789. Contemporary mottled calf.

Durand was professor of architecture at the École Polytechnique for thirty-nine years, and the work is interesting because it shows the French methods of architectural education at the end of the eighteenth century. The title page of Volume I of the copy in the Avery Library varies in imprint: A Paris, Chez Bernard...Et l'Auteur...An XI (1802), otherwise it seems to agree with the Fowler copy. The same plates and title pages are included as in the issue described above, with the plate numbers added, and a more topical arrangement of the plates. In Book III of the Fowler copy, six plates of the Fontane are included, not found in the Garrett copy, and two unsigned plates are found in the Garrett copy of Book III, not present in the Fowler: No. 12, "Chiesa Dedicata A San Carlo De Padri Del Riscatto Della Natione Spagnola"; No. 13, "Chiesa Dedicata A San Andrea Apostolo Del Novitiato De Padri Giesviti Sv'l-Monte Qvirinale." The copy of Book I-III, described above, is bound with the following works issued by De Rossi (or Rubeis): i) Falda, Le Fontane Di Roma, Part I-III, [n.d.] with unnumbered plates (No. 117); ii) *Sadeler, Vestigi Delle Antichita Di

Iacomo Rossi [n.d.], title and 11 engraved plates; A comparison of the watermarks on the pages of these works, with the dedications, permit a fairly accurate dating of this issue, without numbered plates, of Falda's Nuovo Teatro. Book I, dated 1665 and Book II undated, both published within the pontificate, and with permission of Pope Alexander VII, who died in April 1667, and Sadeler's Vestigi, 1660, have the same watermark. Book III of the Nuovo Teatro, dedicated to Clement IX (1667-1669); Part I of his Fontane, dedicated to Agostino Chigi (1634-1705); Bartoli (No. iii, iv, v above); Thomassin (No. vi) and Panvinus (No. vii) are on the same watermarked paper. This would establish the date of Book III of the Nuovo Teatro as sometime before 1669, perhaps as early as 1667. The mark on the paper of Part II-III of the Fontane is a slight variation of the fleur-de-lys used in Part I. Therefore II Nuovo Teatro, Book I-III, may be dated 1665-1669; Le Fontane, Part I about 1675 (Berlin Catalog 3603), Part II before 1687, Part III before 1689 (see Note, No. 117). The Bartoli, Thomassin and Panvinus were probably issued sometime between 1665-1675; The Garrett copies of II Nuovo Teatro (Berlin Catalog 2666) and Le Fontane, contain reissues of the plates of the Fowler editions (No. 116 and No. 117), with the addition of Book IV and V, by Specchi (No. 339) and Campiglia (No. 78) to the former, and Part IV by Venturini to the latter. They have completely different watermarks from the earlier unnumbered Fowler plates, but several parts of each are printed on the same paper. Book I and III of the Nuovo Teatro and Part II of the Fontane have the beautiful watermark of the "Camera Apostolica," the other sections a fleur-de-lys in single or double-line circle. The Nuovo Teatro was probably issued as late as 1739, the date of Book V, though Book I still bears the date 1665, and the Fontane no later than 1698, as Part IV is dedicated to Francesco II, Duke of Modena, who died in that year. But it was issued probably before 1691 because Giovanni Giacomo (or Iacomo) de Rossi was actively publishing "all' Insegna di Parigi" until that date; A detailed analysis of the plates in the various issues of this work should be made, but because of lack of time the decision was reached not to attempt it in this catalogue. The plates were reissued time and again with little or no change except for the addition of plate numbers. All the copies examined (Library of Congress, New York Public and Avery Libraries) vary slightly in the number and arrangement of the plates. There was apparently an intermediate issue with unnumbered plates of Book I-III (New York Public Library copy). The plates are in the same order as Book I-III of the Garrett [1739] edition but are printed on the same watermarked paper as the Fowler Fontane (No. 117), issued between [1675-1689]. These plates of Falda's were copied by Matteo Gregorio Rossi and published in Rome in 1686 (Brunet IV, 1405) and again in Rome by Carlo Losi in 1773 with M.G. Rossi's name erased; In Italy, up to this time, there had been no extensive and systematic attempt to record contemporary Renaissance architecture; certainly nothing to be compared to the work in France of Du Cerceau nearly a hundred years earlier or to that of the Perelle, practically contemporaries of Falda. Falda was an uneven artist: his perspective was often at fault, his conventions trite and his technique monotonous. Nevertheless his work, aside from its historic value, is of special interest in showing the development in Italy of the realistic approach to architectural representation. This is especially evident if one compares Falda's plates with the beautiful interpretations by Natali Bonifazio of the brilliant drawings of Domenico Fontana for his Della Trasportatione Dell'Obelisco Vaticano...1590 (No. 124). Berlin Catalog 2666 (1739 ed.). Contemporary vellum, gold-tooled.

As in the Nuovo Teatro, the same plates are included, though in different order. The Garrett copy has also Part IV with pl. 1-28 by Venturini, Le Fontane Del Giardino Estense In Tivoli...Date in luce de Gio: Giacomo de Rossi...In Roma...[n.d.]; The plates of Part I-II were engraved by Falda, except for those noted above in Part II, belonging in Part III; those of Part III are by Giovanni Francesco Venturini except No. [5] (No. 7 of the numbered plates) by Louis Rouhier, and No. [21-24] (No. 23-26 of the numbered plates) by Falda. This collection of plates is the most charming that has ever appeared on the fountains of Rome and its environs. Part I was issued about 1675 (Berlin Catalog 3603); Part II before 1687 as Gio. Francesco Negroni, to whom it was dedicated as "Chierico Delle Camera Apostolica," became papal legate to Bologna in 1687; Part III probably about 1689 because it was dedicated to Livio Odescalchi, nephew of His Holiness Pope Innocent XI who died in 1689; As in the case of Falda's Nuovo Teatro all the copies examined vary in numbering and arrangement of the plates. The New York Public Library has a copy of Part I-IV, dated [1691?], with unnumbered plates: Part I [1-33], II [1-18], III [1-28], IV [1-21]; The Library of Congress has one copy with numbered plates, Part I-II [1675] 1-33, 1-18 pl., Part III [1691] 1-28 pl., and a second copy with Part I-III numbered, Part IV unnumbered plates [1-28]. Avec Vn Dictionnaire des Termes propres à chacun de ces Arts. [Woodcut vignette]; 4to. 2 v. 410 leaves. [i-xxiv], [1]-795 [796] p. including I-LXV engraved plates. Engraved headpiece and initial at beginning of each volume. 24.8 cm. 9 3/4 in.; Contents: [Vol. I]: p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-viii]: dedication; p. [ix-xx]: preface; p. [xxi-xxiv]: table of contents and privilege; p. [1]-456: text of Book I-III, including pl. I-LXV; [Vol. II]: p. [457]: half title of the dictionary; p. [458]: blank; p. [459]-780: dictionary; p. 781-795: additions and corrections ending with colophon; p. [796]: blank; Notes: First edition. The three books into which Volume I is divided treat respectively of architecture, sculpture and painting with special emphasis on the tools and equipment belonging to the crafts connected with them. The page number as well as the plate number is engraved on each plate. Vol. II consists entirely of the dictionary, an early example of its kind. André Félibien was historian of the royal buildings and first secretary of the Academy of Architecture, and the author of several important works of architecture, among them, Entretiens Sur Les Vies Et Sur Les Ouvrages Des Plus Excellens Peintres Anciens Et Modernes, Paris, 1666. Other editions of the work described here: Paris, 1690, 1697, 1699. Destailleur (p. 88) states that Jean Lepautre engraved some of the plates of the first edition which he dates 1690. Berlin Catalog 2383; Cicognara 502; Comolli I, p. 47-50; Schlosser p. 555. Bookplate of A. Kühnoltz-Lordat. Early eighteenth-century calf, gold-tooled spine, red edges.

[Book I] Si vendeno per Gio. Giacomo Rossi all'insegna di Parigi alla Pace; [Book II] da Gio: Battista Falda, dati in luce da Gio: Giacomo de Rossi in Roma alla Pace con priuil. del Som' Pontefice. [n.d.]

Libro Secondo; Oblong folio. 105 engraved plates. [Book I]: pl. 1-44; [Book II]: pl. 1-61. 36.8 x 46.5 cm. 14 1/2 x 18 5/16 in.; Contents: [Book I]: pl. 1: title page and dedication; pl. 2-44: elevations and plans of palaces; [Book II]: pl. 1: title page of Book II; pl. 2-61: elevations and plans of palaces; versos of all plates blank; Notes: The title of "Libro Primo" is on a pedestal under drapery, which contains De Rossi's dedication to Cardinal Antonio Barberini, surrounded by an architectural background; that of "Libro Secondo" is within a monumental entrance set in a courtyard arcade, with the dedication in the attic. All the plates are numbered in the lower right-hand corner. In Book I, 29 plates are signed by Ferrerio, 13 are unsigned, pl. 27 is by G.B. Falda, and pl. 44, unsigned, has "Domenico de Rossi, eredi di Gio. Giacomo de Rossi" as publisher. In Book II, 43 plates are by G.B. Falda, and 16 are unsigned, nearly all with the imprint of G.B. de Rossi. Plate 27 was drawn by Carlo Quadri, architect, engraved by Antonio Barbey, and with the imprint of Domenico de Rossi; pl. 43 was drawn and engraved by Simon Felici; pl. 61 shows the elevation of Giovanni Giacomo de Rossi's villa on the Janiculum, with Giovanni Maria Baratta listed as the architect; Thieme-Becker (Vol. XI, p. 226) says the publication of Part II was delayed by Ferrerio's death in 1654 but that Part I was issued in 1655. The British Museum (BM (1) 18, Fer 131) has a copy of this work, dated [1655] with 41 plates and without "Libro Primo" on the title page, which is probably the original issue. Part II by Falda was probably originally published between 1670, the date Camillo Massimi, to whom the work is dedicated was made a cardinal, and 1678, the date of Falda's death. Further evidence for this dating is found on pl. 38, an elevation of the Palazzo Altieri, which was not erected until 1670 by Giovanni Antonio de Rossi. Thieme-Becker, ibid., erroneously states that this was Falda's earliest known work, but the 1665 dated Nuovo Teatro and the undated Fontane (see note 116 and 117) must precede it by some years. The Fowler copy described above, and those in the Library of Congress, the Avery Library and the New York Public Library, dated [1655] in their catalogs, are a later issue by Domenico de Rossi of the plates originally published by Giovanni Giacomo de Rossi. The words "Libro Primo" on the title page of Book I are in the style of lettering of Book II, and both parts of the Fowler copy are printed on the same watermarked paper. Domenico took over the press sometime after 1691, the date usually given for the death of G.G. de Rossi. On pl. 27 of "Libro Secondo," Antonio Barbey (fl. 1697-1721) is listed as the engraver and Carlo Quadri (ca. 1700-1748) as architect. Therefore it seems reasonable to date this issue about 1700 or shortly thereafter. Berlin Catalog 2665; Cicognara 3719. Modern armorial bookplate of Robert John Verney, Lord Willoughby de Broke. Nineteenth-century three-quarter morocco, marbled paper.

The copy described here is an early issue of the plates, many without numbers, whereas the copies in both the Library of Congress and the Peabody Library have numbered plates throughout. The German text is printed in black letter, the French in roman type, in three columns on both sides of the leaves. The plates were engraved from the drawings of the author by J.A. Delsenbach, B. Kenckel, J.U. Kraus, C. Engelbrecht, J.A. Pfeffel and C. de la Haye. This is an interesting work by the great Viennese baroque architect. The first three books show the approach to archaeology that is characteristic of the time, the fourth book treats of the author's own work and is particularly interesting, while the vases shown in the fifth book are all imbued with the baroque feeling, whether antique or modern. [160]: publisher's list; Notes: First edition of Evelyn's translation. The head- and tailpieces, as well as the plates and added engraved title page, are close copies of the original plates of the 1650 edition (No. 127). The page number has been engraved on the bottom of the plates and on the tailpieces of this English edition. Evelyn's dedications and prefaces, as well as his enlarged Account of Architects and Architecture, which first appeared in the 1707 edition (No. 130), were reprinted in his Miscellaneous Writings, London, 1825, p. 337-424. For a detailed account of this work and later editions, as well as Evelyn's association with Sir Christopher Wren, Sir John Denham, etc., see Geoffrey Keynes, John Evelyn, a Study in Bibliophily, New York, 1937, p. 164-169. No. 74, the description of this 1664 edition, erroneously lists the number of leaves as 88. Page 159 of this edition is wrongly marked 156. Other editions: London, 1680; 1707 (No. 130); 1723 (with Wotton's Elements of Architecture); 1733. Wing C1923. Bookplate of William Niven. Contemporary calf, rebacked.

[158]: blank; Notes: There are two variant title pages with different imprints. One in the Spencer Collection of the New York Public Library, probably the original issue, has unnumbered plates and the following imprint: In Parma, [Single rule]; Per Paolo Monti MCDCCXI.; Con Licenza De' Superiori.; The second variant title in the Library of Congress and Peabody Library copies have: "In Bologna Appresso I Longhi." in place of "In Bologna Appresso L'Avatore." as given above. The rest of the title page, in all three types, is the same typesetting. The plates in the Peabody copy are on thin paper of smaller size and are not as fine impressions as in the Fowler copy. The unsigned plates are said to have been etched by Bibiena, and are of value as examples of baroque detail. They are given consecutive numbers, 1-70, in the lower right-hand corner, and some have page, or location, number added at the top (i.e. F.a P.a C.29 faces p. 29). The five parts of this work treat of geometry, civil architecture in general, perspective, painting, theatrical scenes and the mechanics of lifting and moving objects. As an author Ferdinand is perhaps the most important of the five members of the great Italian architectural family of Galli da Bibiena, known for their theater designs and decorations in the full baroque style. This is an interesting example of an eighteenth-century text-book, based on the author's L'Architettura Civile, 1711 (No. 134), much abridged and reduced for the convenience of students of architecture. The five parts contain practical geometry, the orders according to Vitruvius, Serlio, Palladio, the architecture of Bibiena, and the division of architecture according to Vignola. This work was issued later with a second volume on perspective, Bologna, Lelio dalla Volpe, 1731-1732 (Cicognara 432), 1745-1753 (Comolli III, p. 40-42), 1777-1783 (Berlin Catalog 2630). Folio. 55 leaves. [i-v] leaves including one leaf of printed text, [50] leaves of engraved plates, Part I-V, numbered 1-10 for each part. 54 cm. 21 1/4 in.; Contents: leaf [i]: engraved frontispiece; leaf [ii]: engraved title page; leaf [iii]: engraved portrait of Carlo VI; leaf [iv]: engraved dedication; leaf [v]: printed preface; followed by [50] engraved plates, as above, versos blank; Notes: First edition. The frontispiece is unsigned and the portrait was engraved by Andreas and Joseph Schmuizer after Martin de Meÿtens. The plates, skillfully engraved after drawings by Giuseppe Galli da Bibiena, show brilliant baroque compositions for catafalques, theatrical scenes, a series of the Passion in elaborate architectural settings and the decoration of the Riding School at Vienna for the marriage of the Archduchess Mariana with Prince Charles of Lorraine. They were engraved for the most part by J.A. Pfeffel, with a few by Lorenzo Zucchi, Andreas and Joseph Schmuizer, and Salomon Kleiner. Hyatt Mayor, in his work The Bibiena Family, New York, 1945, dates this work 1740-[1744]. The copy in the Avery Library has an additional plate marked No. I, P. In the second issue, of the same year, Gerbier made a change in the order of the dedicatory epistles. They were rearranged regardless of signature marks, and an additional epistle to Sir William Killigrew was added. Because of these changes p. [cvii-cx] (g6-7) containing the list of "Epistles," were cancelled. In this copy signatures H2-4 are wrongly marked G2-4. The second edition of this work was published in 1664 without the "Epistles." Gerbier, painter and architect of Antwerp, was a retainer of the Duke of Buckingham, was knighted by Charles I and sent as his agent to Brussels. His literary works, except the one described here, have little value and Samuel Pepys, in his diary for May 28, 1663, remarked: "At the coffee-house in Exchange Alley I bought a little book, 'Counsell to Builders,' by Sir. Balth. Gerbier. It is dedicated almost to all the men of any condition in England, so that the Epistles are more than the book itself, and both it and them not worth a farthing, that I am ashamed that I bought it." (Diary and Correspondence of Samuel Pepys, London, 1876, Vol. II, p. 223-224). Wing G552. Signature of Elias L. Bocket, May 6th, 1720, on flyleaf. Contemporary calf, rebacked.

4to. 144 leaves. [i-xii], 1-132 leaves. Woodcut initials. 18.5 cm. 7 1/4 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: title; leaf [i] verso: preface by Grapaldus; leaf [ii] recto-[xii] recto: contents and index; leaf [xii] verso: verse with heading, "Grapaldina"; leaf 1 recto: verses of Beroaldus and Grapaldus; leaf 1 verso-2 recto: dedication by the author to Pallavicinus; leaf 2 verso-60 verso: text, Liber I; leaf 61 (marked 91) recto-132 recto: text, Liber II, ending with verse of Georgi Anselmi Nepotis, printer's address to the reader listing errata, register and date as given above; leaf 132 verso: blank; Notes: Second edition. The text is similar to the first edition (No. 141) except for the addition of the eleven leaves of contents and index. Schlosser (p. 226) lists this edition as a Brescia imprint, but Comolli (I, p. 86) attributes it to Francesco Ugoletto at Parma. Comparison of type, initials, etc., definitely establish that it came from the same press as the 1506 edition (No. 143), which was printed by Francesco Ugoletto at Parma. This copy is bound with Alessandro Sardi, Liber De Nummis..., Moguntiaci, Caspar Behem, 1579. Inscriptions on title page: "Hieronymus Justo possidet titulo Rome 1505"; "Martino Sebaldo Parocho ad S. Michelem" in sixteenth-century hand; "Carm. Conv. Vieun" in seventeenth-century hand. Old calf over original paper covers.

Trans. Edin: Vol. IV. Lit Class to face p. 28." There is an amusing comment about this work in Elizabeth Grant's Memoirs of a Highland Lady..., New York, 1898, p. 283, 289: "Then there was the quiet country-gentleman set, ...Sir James and Lady Helen Hall...Sir James Hall, a man not actually crazy, but not far from it;...Sir James had lately published a truly ingenious work, an attempt to deduce Gothic architecture from the original wigwams made of reeds. The drawings are beautifully executed, not by himself, I fancy..." On the flyleaf is an inscription, "Miss Keene from the Author." Contemporary calf, gold-tooled.

Pakeman... ..and Laurence Chapman. 1655
Restored by Inigo Jones Esquire, Architect Generall to the late King; Sm. folio. 60 leaves. [i-viii], 1-109 [110-112] p. including engraved portrait and 3 woodcut illustrations. 1-7 woodcut plates (3 folding, 4 double-page). 28.2 cm. 11 1/8 in.; Contents: p. [i]:
blank; p. [ii]: engraved portrait of Inigo Jones by Hollar; p. [iii]: title page in black and red; p. [iv]:
blank; p. [v]: dedication by John Webb; p. [vi]:
blank; p. [vii]: preface by John Webb; p. [viii]: blank;
p. 1-109: text including 3 full-page woodcut illustrations; 1-7 folding woodcut plates bound in; p.
[110]: errata; p. [111-112]: blank, original leaf;
Notes: First edition. This work attributes the building of Stonehenge to the Romans, which was refuted by Walter Charleton in his Chorea Gigantum, 1663 (No.
89). Webb states in his preface that his discourse was molded off "some few indigested notes of the late judicious Architect, the Vitruvius of his age Inigo Jones." The portrait was engraved by Hollar probably from Robert van Vorst's engraving after Van Dyck. A second edition of this work was printed in 1725 together with Charleton's Chorea Gigantum and Webb's Vindication (No. 159). Brunet III, 563; Wing
J954. Old calf, gold-tooled spine.

[1]-228: text including [1] small woodcut and [10] engraved illustrations; p. [229-241]: index of three volumes; p. [242]: blank; Notes: Second edition. The portrait of Inigo Jones is apparently from a retouched plate of the first edition (No. 158), and the first four folding engraved plates ([1-4]), views of Stonehenge, were engraved by Elisha Kirkall from the designs of John Hassell; plates 1-7 are copied from the woodcuts of the earlier edition. The portrait of Dr. Charleton was engraved by Pierre Lombart, and the plate, at p. 6, is copied from the woodcut in the first edition of 1663 (No. 89). The plates in this edition of Webb's Vindication were also copied from the engraved plates of the first edition of that work, 1665 (No. 440). The illustration on p. 148 is a woodcut copy of pl. No. 7 on p. 152 of the earlier edition. The copy of this work, in The Johns Hopkins University Library, has an additional plate at page 9 of Charleton's Chorea Gigantum; plate No. 7 of Jones' Most Notable Antiquity appears with the page number changed from 42 to 9; For the architectural works of Inigo Jones see William Kent, Designs of Inigo Jones, 1727 (No. 162) and Isaac Ware, Designs of Inigo Jones and others [n.d.] (No. 437). [iii-viii]: table of plates; followed by pl. 1-63 (i.e. 46), versos blank; Notes: First edition. Lord Burlington, in 1724, commissioned William Kent to edit The Designs of Inigo Jones, which when completed included additional designs of Burlington and Kent himself. The Library of Congress enters this work under Inigo Jones. The vignettes on the title pages contain a portrait of Inigo Jones. The plates of Volume I were engraved by H. Hulsbergh, P. Fourdrinier and J. Cole from the designs of Henry Flitcroft of the work of Inigo Jones, except No. 63-69 built by William Kent. No. 70-73 were engraved by A. Herisset and P. Fourdrinier from the designs of William Kent of buildings by Lord Burlington. The plates of Volume II were also engraved by Hulsbergh, except two by J. Cole, from the designs of Flitcroft of Jones' work, four of Burlington's (No. 10-12, 51-53) and five of Palladio's (No. 57-63). The engraved frontispiece engraved by B. Barton after W. Kent with a portrait of Jones, found in some copies, is lacking in this. The Avery Library has a folding plate in place of the frontispiece, "N.W. View of the Palace of Whitehall. By I. Jones." Other editions: 1735, 1770, 1825. A copy of this edition was in the library of Thomas Jefferson (Kimball p. 95; Sowerby No. 4217): Bookplate of Laurence Currie. Nineteenth-century English half calf, marbled boards.

This is the finest representation of views of Vienna of the eighteenth century. The work was edited by Johann Andreas Pfeffel (1674-1748) and all of the plates were drawn by Salomon Kleiner. Those of Part I were engraved by J.A. Corvinus, G.D. Heümann and H. Sperling, with the frontispiece by Heümann after R.B. Belau; those of Part II by Corvinus and Heümann, with frontispiece by Sperling from the design of J.A. Thelott; those of Part III by Corvinus, K. Remshardt, J.G. Ringlin and J. Stridbeck, with frontispiece by Heümann after Kleiner; those of Part IV by Corvinus, Ringlin, Sperling and B. Hattinger, with frontispiece by Sperling after Kleiner. The three additional plates in this copy, engraved by J.A. Delsenbach from the designs of "I.E.F. d'Erl." (Josef Emanuel Fischer von Erlach, 1680-1738), are as follows: Part III, between pl. 32-33, "Vüe de la Place Neufve de Vienne...", numbered 5 in lower right-hand corner; Part IV, between pl. 12-13, "Vüe de la maison de plaisance et de Jardin de...le General Gundaccar Conte d'Athan...", numbered 26 in lower right, and between pl. 25-26, "Veuë du Château & du Jardin de Schönbrun...", numbered 18. The last is a reduced copy of the folding plate No. [3], Part IV, with the same caption, of Johann Bernard Fischer von Erlach's work, Entwurff Einer Historischen Architectur...Vienna, 1721 (No. 121), which was drawn by J.B. Fischer von Erlach and engraved by Johann Ulrich Kraus. The two other additional plates are not apparently from this 1721 work. Josef Emanuel was the son of Johann Bernard Fischer von Erlach. Berlin Catalog 2108; Brunet III, 674. Mottled calf, gold-tooled, rebaked.

The plates in the Fowler copy are the same as those in the 1552 edition (No. 165) with the exception of the new plate on leaf 19, and the additional engraved view of the ports as described above, bound here as leaf [32] instead of the text which is bound as leaf [i]. The temple of Castor and Pollux, or Jupiter Stator, leaf 19-20, is here shown with six columns on the front, while it is usually said to have had eight columns (Banister Fletcher, A History of Architecture..., London, 1931, p. 150). The first edition of the same year had plates 1-24 numbered. In the contents above, the numbers in parenthesis denote the numbers on the plates of the original edition (Thomas Ashby, "Il libro d'Antonio Labacco appartenente all' Architettura" in La Bibliofilia, Vol. 16, No. 7-8, October-November, 1914, p. 289-[309]). This copy varies slightly in the arrangement of the plates from Ashby's description of the second edition (see his chart, p. [308-309] in the above article), but agrees in other points. Stamped in ink on the bottom of leaf [18] is the impression of a silver giulio of Paul IV from the mint at Ancona. The title page and plates were engraved after the designs of Labacco by his son, Mario. The beautiful architectural title page, one of the earliest, was printed at Rome by Antonio Blado and was copied, in reverse, for Maurice Bougereau, Le Théâtre Français...Tours, 1594 (A.F. Johnson, One Hundred Title-Pages, 1500-1800, New York, 1928, No. 26, and "The Sixteenth Century" in A History of the Printed Book, New York, 1938, p. 129); The variation in the plates and text of the numerous editions of this work, like Falda's Nuovo Teatro and Fontane, needs to be studied more carefully. Two of the three copies in this collection vary in some degree from Ashby's description, as well as almost all of the eight other copies examined. Since a complete analysis of all these issues and editions was not possible, the Fowler copies have been described in detail, hoping that these and the Ashby chart, cited above, may aid in the identification of other copies. Other editions as given by Ashby: Original editions, Rome, 1557, 1559; Venice reprints, Bonus, 1567; Zaltieri, 1570; Porro, 1584; Rome reprints, Lafrety, 1568, 1574; G.B. Rossi, 1640, 1672; C. Losi, 1773. Nineteenth-century half vellum, marbled boards; Plate XV.

1628 with about 40 more plates (Cicognara 3761).
This was often issued with the second editions of Part 1-3, Rome, 1625, in which the Latin text under the plates was translated into Italian, French and German and printed on the versos of the plates. The four parts were reissued in Rome in 1641, with the Latin text only, and 167 plates (Brunet III, 881). The Library of Congress has a copy of Part [1-4], 1612-1628, with the text in three languages. The Spencer Collection of the New York Public Library has 160 of the 167 plates of the 1641 edition, mounted in a scrapbook with other engravings. Berlin Catalog 1858.

edition. This book, in which the methods of the great Le Notre (1613-1700) were reduced to a system, remains to this day the standard authority on the formal garden. It was written by D'Argenville the elder, under the instructions and supervision of the architect, J.B. Alexandre Le Blond, with whose designs engraved by Mariette, the book is illustrated (see Blomfield, Fr. Arch. II, Vol. II, p. 96-97). The work is often entered under Dezallier D'Argenville as in the Library of Congress. The Berlin Catalog (3463) lists the Paris 1713 edition under Dezallier, but the Augsburg 1731 edition is under Le Blond (Berlin Catalog 3464). The British Museum (BM (1) 31, Leb 47) puts the Paris 1722 and the London 1728 editions under Le Blond, but the London, 1712, is under James. Other editions: La Haye, 1711; London, 1712 (No. 171); Paris, 1713, 1722; London, 1728; La

By that Excellent Master thereof Sebastian Le Clerc, Knight of the Empire Designer and Engraver to the Cabinet Of the late French King & Member Of the Academy of Arts & Sciences, Necessary For Young People who would apply to that Noble Art. Engraven in CLXXXI. Copper Plates by John Sturt. Translated by Mr Chambers. [Engraved vignette]; 8vo. 187 leaves. [i-vi] leaves including engraved frontispiece, 1-181 engraved plates. 20.3 cm. 8 in.; Contents: leaf [i] recto: blank; leaf [i] verso: engraved frontispiece; leaf [ii] recto: engraved title page; leaf [ii] verso: blank; leaf [iii-vi]: 4 engraved dedications to London guilds, versos blank; followed by pl. 1-181, versos blank; Notes: The dedicatory engraved plates to the Masters and Wardens of the Masons, Bricklayers, Joiners and Carpenters Guilds, are surmounted by the coat-of-arms of the respective guild. The plates, numbered in the left-hand corner, are reversed from those of the second volume of the 1714 French edition (No. 172). The note on the title page, "Translated by Mr. Chambers," may indicate that the work was issued with a text. A two-volume octavo edition, London, 1723-1724, is listed in the R.I.B.A. Catalog (1889) p. 59. The British Museum Catalog (2), Vol. 35, 202, however, lists a 1732 octavo edition in one volume; The copy of this work in the Avery Library (dated [1724?]) has no vignette on the title page and the following variation in imprint: Printed and Sold by Richd Ware at the Bible & Sun in Warwick Lane Amen Corner.; It also contains an engraved portrait and the plates are printed on both sides of the leaves, or 99 leaves, p. [i-viii], 1-181 [182], with contents as follows: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: engraved portrait; p. [iii]: engraved title page; p. [iv]: engraved frontispiece; p. [v-viii]: dedication to guilds; p. 1-181: engraved plates; p. [182]: blank. The Fowler copy is bound in nineteenth-century half morocco, marbled paper boards.

[233-240]: "Catalogue Des Livres Imprimés, Ou qui se trouvent en nombre à Paris, chez Charles-Antoine Jombert...1744."; Notes: The vignette on the title page, head- and tailpiece and the scenes at the bottom of the folding plates with geometrical diagrams are charmingly engraved by Charles Nicholas Cochin and Quentin-Pierre Chedel. The description in the Berlin Catalog (4724) and Cicognara (478) of an edition of 1774, exactly fits this volume, even to the "Catalogue des Livres Imprimés...1744." The Berlin Catalog gives the date of the first edition as 1690, agreeing with the preface to this 1744 edition where it is noted that the work first appeared 50 years before. There is confusion as to the dates and issues of this work by reason of another book by the same author, Pratique de la Geometrie sur le Papier et sur le Terrain...Paris, Thomas Jolly, 1669 (Berlin Catalog 4720). Comolli (III, p. 81) erroneously lists the Traité as a later edition of this 1669 publication, and gives 1668 as the first edition, 1682 as the second, as well as an edition of 1745 with 45 plates, 1764 with 57 plates by Cochin, and a Russian edition of 1709. The R.I.B.A. Catalogue (1889) p. 59, lists an English translation, 4th edition, 12mo, London, 1764. Contemporary French mottled calf, gold-tooled spine.

[ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: preface; p. [v-vi]: dedication; p. 1-113: text including [53] plates; p. 114: privilege; Notes: First edition. The engraved title is within a fine architectural border, with title on drapery and imprint in cartouche below. The plates are on the recto of the leaf with the descriptive text on the verso of the preceding leaf. They contain plans and elevations of medium-size city houses in the time of Louis XIII. The last seven treat of a half-timber façade and designs for roof framing. The plates have often been attributed to Jean Marot, but Mauban does not agree with that attribution and suggests Melchior Tavernier as the engraver of this edition (Mauban, Marot, p. 49). Other editions: Paris, Langlois, 1647 (No. 177); Paris, Jean de Puis, 1663-1664; London, Robert Pricke, 1670-1675, in English (No. 178); London, Pricke, 1679, in English (No. 179); Paris, Jollain, 1681. Old vellum; Plate XXI.

Folio. 18 leaves. 1-36 (marked 38) p. 1-60 engraved plates (i.e. 62: 2 plates numbered 30, 2 numbered 31; 38 are double-page, 24 full-page plates) including title page, frontispiece, portrait and title page of Part II. Woodcut initials. 39.1 cm. 15 3/8 in.; Contents: pl. 1: double-page, allegorical title page; pl. 2: allegorical frontispiece (Jombert); pl. 3: double-page portrait of Le Pautre with title beneath beginning: "Desseins de plusieurs Palais..."; p. 1-36 (marked 38): text, "Discours" I-VIII, with pl. 4-60 (i.e. 62) bound in at end of each "Discours"; versos of all plates blank; Notes: Third edition. The first edition was issued without text in 1652, the second [n.d.] with text by Augustin Charles D'Aviler, and the third, the edition described above, by Jombert [n.d.] (Berlin Catalog 2375; Brunet III, 900; Cicognara 604; Destailleur p. 82-83; Guilmar p. 69). The plans have been attributed to Jean Marot and the elevations to Jean Le Pautre (Destailleur p. 82; Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon, XI, p. 30). Guilmar (p. 69) states that this edition was printed after the author's death in 1691. It is one of the works listed in the "Catalogue Des Livres Imprimés, ou qui se trouvent...Chez Charles-Antoine Jombert...1744," found at the end of Sebastien Le Clerc's Traité de Geometrie...Paris, C.-A. Jombert, 1744 (No. 174). Until 1737 Charles-Antoine Jombert's publications bore the imprint of "Rue S. Jacques à L'Image Nostre (or Notre) Dame," after which they were issued from the "Rue Dauphine." Therefore this edition can be dated between 1691 and 1737; The plates, numbered consecutively in the upper right-hand corner 1-60, are bound in following the eight "Discours," and are marked at the bottom as follows: a, i, e, A2-A8, B2-B8, C2-C8, D2-D8 (D7 and D8 twice), E2-E7, G2-G13, H2-H6, I2-I6, 0. The last plate "0" is a landscape with a fortress being besieged. The following twenty-four are full-page plates, the rest double-page: No. 2, 9, 10, 16-17, 20, 22-24, 30, 30, 31, 31, 35-36, 38, 41-43, 45-49. The oval portrait of Antoine Le Pautre (pl. 3), engraved by Robert Nanteuil, is within an architectural frame against a landscape background, the work of Jean Le Pautre (Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon, X, p. 122, No. 145; XI, p. 30). Plate 37, the title page of Part II, contains a dedication to "Le Prince de Conty," with the coat-of-arms of the Condés (or Contis) above. The same arms are found, carried by the flying hearld, on Plate 60 (0), and on the Jombert frontispiece (pl. 2), also found in Bosse (No. 59). The privilege, dated 1652, is printed at the bottom of p. [36]. Eighteenth-century French mottled calf, gold-tooled spine.

double-page printed preface; followed by [18] double-page engraved plates, 1 leaf with [2] engraved plates; versos of all leaves blank; Notes: First edition, first issue (A). The plates are signed by Jean Marot.
The work is dedicated by De Buisine to "Iean Armand du Plessis" (Armand-Jean De Vignerot Du Plessis, duc de Richelieu, 1629-1715), the nephew of Cardinal Richelieu from whom he inherited the title.
In 1642 he was named "Général des Galères" and in 1657 became "Pair de France." This work therefore must be dated after 1657. Blomfield (Fr. Arch. I, Vol.
I, p. xxxi) dates this work as Paris, 1660. The British Museum (BM (1)35, Mar 54) lists a copy with 17 plates without letterpress, Paris [1660?]. Mauban (Jean Marot, p. 120) calls for a half title and preface, but does not mention the dedication by De Buisine.
He does list the dedication as belonging to the reduced octavo edition. For a complete list of the plates see Mauban, Jean Marot, p. 120-121; There are two variant issues of this work, one in the Library of Congress (B) and one in the John Work Garrett Library (C). The title page of the Library of Congress copy is a resetting with the same type as the Fowler, but different spacing and some variation in size. The only difference in spelling is line 3 which has "OV" instead of "ou." The Garrett copy is set up with completely different type as follows; Le Magnifique Chateau De Richelieu, En General Et En Particulier, ou Les Plans, Les Elevations, Et Profils Generaux Et Particuliers Dudit Chateau, Et de ses Avenues,
Basses-cours, Anti-cours, Cours, Corps de Logis, Aisles, Galeries, Ecuries, Manages, Jardins, Bois,
Parc, & generalement de tous ses Appartemens.;
Commencé & achevé par Iean Armand du Plessis,

Gravé & reduit au Petit-Pied par Jean Marot, aussi Architecte & Graveur de Sadite Majesté.; Dedié A Monseigneur Le Duc de Richeliev.; Avec Privilege Du Roy; In the Garrett copy the dedication and preface have the spelling corrected throughout, "u" has replaced the old form "v" for the most part. The Library of Congress copy seems to be an intermediate issue, with spelling more like the Fowler than the Garrett, but all three issues are definitely new typesettings and all are on different paper. The distinguishing features are noted below; Fowler (A);

Recueil Des Plans Profils et Eleuations Des plusieurs Palais Chasteaux Eglises Sepultures Grottes et Hostels, Bâties dans Paris, et aux enuiron, avec beaucoup de magnificence, par les meilleu Architectes du Royaume, desseignez, mesurés, et grauez par Jean Marot, Architecte Parisien. [n.p.]. [n.d.]
4to. 125 leaves. [i], [1-124] engraved plates including title page. 27.6 cm. 10 7/8 in.; Contents: pl. [i]: title page; pl. [1-122]: plates as listed in Mauban, Marot, p. 101-107; pl. [123-124]: 2 additional plates entitled "Manteau de Cheminée"; versos of all plates blank; Notes: First edition. This work is known as the "Petit Marot." The date of publication of the first edition has not been definitely established and the number of plates varies in most copies, many having additional plates. According to Mauban (Marot, p. 99-107), the first edition contained from 112-115 plates, but is usually found with 122 unnumbered plates, which he lists in detail, p. 101-107, with the numbers as given in the second edition, Paris, Mariette [1738]. The title page, as above, is sometimes found with a slip containing the following imprint pasted below the title: "A Paris, chez l'auteur, demeurant à la rue Guisarde, à l'enseigne de la ville d'Amsterdam."; The Library of The American Institute of Architects has an issue of the second edition, "Paris, Mariette, rue S. Jacques, aux colonnes d'Hercules." [1738], with the plates like those of the Fowler copy, without the additions to the plates called for by Mauban, p. 107-108. This was evidently an intermediate issue before the numbering of the plates. In the copy of the [1738] edition in the Library of Congress seven leaves have two plates each, No. 31, 32, 41, 43, 44, 45, 47, or 114 plates and title page; There was a third edition, Paris, Jombert [1764] (Mauban, p. 109-115; Destailleur, p. 140). Berlin Catalog 2466; Cicognara 555. Heraldic bookplate of Alexander, Lord Polworth, 1722, on the verso of the title page. Eighteenth-century calf.

[Plans de l'Hôtel des Invalides].
[Paris]. [1727?]
9 double fold. plates (incl. plans) 42 cm.; Fowler - JWG 14; These are nine of the plates, chiefly by Marot, which were originally published to illustrate "Description générale de l'Hostel royal des invalides" (Paris, 1683), Le Jeune de Boullencourt, supposed author. The plates were also listed by Brunet, under title, as part of the Cabinet du roi, collection d'estampes.

Contents: pl. 1: title page, within elaborate architectural border; pl. 2: dedication by Soria to Tadeo Barberini; pl. 3: design for tabernacle, signed "GiouanBattista Soria Inuent."; pl. 4: preface beneath oval portrait of Soria, reverse copy (facing right) of the one in Book I-III; pl. 5-27: tabernacles engraved by David; versos of all plates blank; [1] blank leaf; [Book V] In Roma appresso al med. Calisto. Con licenza de superiori; 31 leaves. [1-31] engraved plates; Contents: pl. [1]: title page with title in cartouche under arch decorated with caryatids; pl. [2-31]: unsigned plates of temples and tombs; versos of all plates blank. Notes: Brunet (III, 1846) states that the three books, Scielta...1624, Diversi Ornamenti...1625, and Tabernacoli...1626 or 1628, were often issued with the 1624 Libro d'Architettura con diversi ornamenti...(No. 2 in this copy), and with the later 1636 edition. The 1684 edition, Rome, G.I. de Rossi (Berlin Catalog 2611; Cicognara 571) contains five books with the Architettura...Libro Primo, appearing first. Each book has a separate title page with the Rossi imprint and are numbered 1-5. The 1691 edition, Le Cinque Libri di Architettura, Rome, De Rossi (Cicognara 571) with the five books in the same order is a reissue of the 1584 edition, but with Calisto Ferrante as publisher of 1 and 3. The Library of Congress has a copy of this edition with all De Rossi imprints. Since the 1624 and 1636 issues have according to Brunet only four books, the editions described above with five parts, the last dated 1638 and issued by Calisto Ferrante, is probably a reissue of the 1636 with the new part added. All the leaves, even the blanks between the books, bear the same watermark. Cicognara 570; Guilnard p. 309-310; Lukomski, Architettura Classica, p. 433. Modern half morocco, gilt; gilt edges.

[1]-32: description of plates, followed by pl. I-CI; Notes: First edition of both parts. The plates of the first part, engraved by J. June, H. Mackworth, P. Mazell, J. Miller, T. Morris, J.S. Müller, F. Patton and T. White, from the designs of Paine, describe buildings in the counties of Derby, Durham, Middlesex, Northumberland, Nottingham and York; those of Part II are marked only "J. Paine Archt" except No. CI, the pediment of the north front of Worksop Mannor House, which was "executed by William Collins, and engraved by Charles Grignon. James Paine Architect." The plates of this part cover buildings in Nottingham, Essex, Wilts, Derby, Hertford, Suffolk, Salop, Middlesex and Surrey. Paine was one of the most skilful house planners of the period. In his design his point of view was that of the older school of eighteenth-century English architecture. Apart from his purely domestic architecture his most successful work was on the bridges he designed. A second edition of Part I was issued in 1783. Berlin Catalog 2339. Modern heraldic bookplate of Guy T.S. Sebright. Nineteenth-century boards, calf back.

[111-112]: blank and original; Notes: First edition printed in England. Both title pages have an engraved vignette showing the Sheldonian Theatre at Oxford, signed "d. MB f. V.O. 1700." (Michael Burghers). Banister Fletcher (Andrea Palladio...London, 1902, p. 104) states that the notes were by Fairfax. This book is an interesting example of the work of the University press carried on in the basement of the Sheldonian Theatre from 1669-1712, when it was moved to the Clarendon Printing House. This is a fine copy with an interesting provenance from the libraries of Thomas Rawlinson (1681-1725); Dr. Richard Mead (1673-1754); George Steevens (1736-1800); the Vernon collection and Robert S. Holford (1808-1892). Contemporary English red panelled morocco, gilt.

[1]-45: text, with pl. III-XLIV bound in; versos blank; p. [46]: blank; Notes: This volume treats of Palladio's buildings, mostly villas, with remarks by N.N. (Fossati?). The allegorical frontispiece was engraved by Francesco Zucchi after Gasparo Ticiani; the engraved vignettes on the title pages by Zucchi after Francesco Fontebasso; the plates by Zucchi and Giorgio Fossati. The two folding maps were drawn by Fossati (Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon, IV, p. 421), the second, "Lago di Lugano" engraved by Felice Polanzani; Vol. II (1740) Palladio's Book I. 48 leaves. [i-viii], [1]-87 [88] p. [38] engraved plates: I-VII in text; 31 unnumbered; Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-viii]: dedication by N.N. in Italian and French; p. [1]-87: text of Palladio's Book I, with pl. I-VII in text, and [31] plates bound in, versos of all plates blank; p. [88]: blank; Notes: The title pages throughout the work are printed in red and black and with the same two vignettes as in Volume I described above. The unsigned plates are copperplate reproductions, at the original size, of the woodcuts of the 1570 edition (No. 212), on leaves measuring 36 x 25.5 cm. (14 3/16 x 10 1/16 in.) bound in the folio text. These same plates appear in the counterfeit 1570 edition (No. 232). The text calls for pl. I-XXXIX, but there are only 38: pl. XXX has two plates; two plates are given two numbers each, XXXIV-XXXV, XXXVI-XXXVII; Vol. III (1741) 48 leaves. [i-vi], 1-94 p. (i.e. 90: page numbers 17-20 omitted). 5 printed folding tables between p. 4-5, 26-27, 44-45, 64-65, 80-81. I-XCIII engraved full-page plates (i.e. 92: No. LXXXVII-LXXXVIII on one plate); Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-vi]: dedication in Italian; p. 1-8: preface in parallel columns of Italian and French; p. 9-94 (i.e. 90): text, Part I-V, with 5 folding tables and pl. I-XCIII (i.e. 92) bound in, versos of all plates blank; Notes: This volume treats comparatively the five orders according to Vitruvius, Serlio, Vignola, Palladio and Scamozzi. Plate [I], by Zucchi, contains portraits of the five architects mentioned above with that of N.N. added, all grouped within a tablet; pl. [II], is the scale of the foot in various places compared. The plates are within formal architectural borders, different for each part, representing the five orders. In this copy five plates, in whole or in part, are reproduced in brown ink drawing (No. VII, XXI, XXXIV, LV, XC). Plate V is the correct plate pasted over a copy of pl. VI. Plate XVII has two plates within the border consisting of three designs each in wrong order (i.e. designs 2, 4, 6 are in the first column, 1, 3, 5 in the second). Plate LXXXIV-LXXXV are printed upside-down in the border. The plates, many signed by Fossati, and mounted out on slightly smaller sheets of the same paper, are dated 1740 in Part I-II, 1741 in Part V; Vol. IV (1743) 27 leaves. [i-viii], I-VIII, [1]-38 p. I-XLVI engraved plates (i.e. 32: 5 folding plates, I, II, VIII, X, XI-XII; 11 full-page plates with two numbers each IV-V, XVIII-XIX, XXII-XXIII, XXV-XXVI, XXVII-XXVIII, XXX-XXXV, XXXVIII-XLIII; 1 plate with three numbers, XLIV-XLV-XLVD); Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-vii]: dedication in Italian by Fossati; p. [viii]: blank; p. I-VIII: preface by Francesco Muttoni in parallel columns of Italian and French; p. [1]-38: text, with pl. I-XLVI (i.e. 32) bound in, versos of all plates blank; Notes: This volume describes the buildings in Venice which the author attributes to Palladio. The plates, for the most part, are signed by Fossati; Vol. V (1744) Palladio's Book II. 27 leaves. [i-vi], [1]-47 [48] p. [54] engraved plates (see note below); Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-vi]: dedication in Italian by Fossati; p. [1]-47: text, Palladio's Book II, with [54] plates bound in, versos blank; p. [48]: blank; Notes: The plates, as in Volume II above, are copperplate reproductions of the woodcuts of the 1570 edition. The text here calls for pl. I-LIX. Four plates, No. I, XII, XV, XVI, found on p. 4, 16, 19, 22 of the original edition, are lacking in this copy. Plate I refers to "Piede Vicentino," which is found as pl. II, Vol. III of this edition. The text on p. 18 of the 1570 and of pl. XIV in this edition describes a plate (the house of Paolo Almerico) not found in either edition. On p. 27 of the 1570 edition there is a full-page illustration which is apparently not discussed in this 1740 issue; Vol. VI (1745) Palladio's Book III. 27 leaves. [i-vi], [1]-47 [48] p. [21] engraved plates, lacking in this copy; Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-vi]: dedication in Italian, dated 1747; p. [1]-47: text only of Palladio's Book III; p. [48]: blank; Vol. VII (1747) Palladio's Book IV, Pt. 1. 24 leaves. [i-iv], [1]-43 [44] p. [50] engraved plates (see note below); Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [1]-43: text, Palladio's Book IV, Pt. 1, with [50] plates bound in, versos blank; p. [44]: blank; Notes: Plates as described for Vol. II of this edition. The text calls for pl. I-LIII, but there are only 50, as in the 1570 edition. Plate I refers to "Piede Vicentino," which is found as pl. II, Vol. III above. Plate XII and XIX, plans of the "Tempio di Nerva Trajano" and "Tempio d'Antonino, e di Faustina," are not found in either edition; Vol. VIII (1748) Palladio's Book IV, Pt. 2. 14 leaves. [i-iv], [1]-23 [24] p. [49] engraved plates (see note below);

Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: title page in Italian; p. [iii]: title page in French; p. [iv]: blank; p. [1]-23: text, Palladio's Book IV, Pt. 2, with [49] plates bound in, versos blank; p. [24]: blank; Notes: Plates as described for Vol. II above. The text calls for pl. I-LI, but only [49] are present as in the 1570 edition. Plate XXV and XXXII, each containing "les ornemens en grande" are lacking; General Note: The text of all the volumes is in double columns of Italian printed in roman type, and French in italics. Of the twelve volumes planned only eight were published, as stated in Francesco Muttoni's preface to Volume IV. Several of the dedications and many of the plates were signed Giorgio Fossati, who is probably the "Architetto N.N." because a later two-volume edition of this work was issued under his name in 1760 (Berlin Catalog 2707). Fabbriche' Antiche' Disegnate' Da Andrea Palladio
Vicentino E Date in Luce' Da Riccardo Conte' Di Burlington.

Folio. 42 leaves containing 26 engraved plates (16 double-page, 10 full-page). Entirely engraved. 51 cm. 20 1/8 in.; Contents: leaf [1]: engraved title page, verso blank; leaf [2]: foreword; followed by 16 double-page, 8 full-page engraved plates, versos blank; Notes: This work is entirely engraved and printed in bistre. The architectural title page contains a portrait bust of Palladio in niche with title on base of pedestal. The title page and headpiece of the foreword were engraved from designs of William Kent. The plates were engraved by P. Fourdrinier, except two of the orders signed by Isaac Ware. The plates show elevations and plans of the Baths of Nero, Vespasian, Titus, Antoninus, seven plates of the Orders, elevations, plan and perspective of the baths of Diocletian, elevation and plan of the Baths of Constantine, an unidentified sketch section; two unidentified parts of plans at large scale, and an alternate large scale plan of part of the baths of Vespasian. The plan of the baths of Agrippa was not in Lord Burlington's collection. This copy lacks plate [4], and plate [2], Therme di Nerone, is repeated in its place; This work was the basis for Le Terme dei Romani of O. Bertotti-Scamozzi, Vicenza, 1785 (No. 234) and was issued as Vol. V of his edition of Palladio's works, 1796 (No. 235). Lord Burlington was supposed to have purchased the original drawings for these plates of the Baths while traveling in Italy, but it has been recently suggested that he acquired them in England. The copies of this work are said to have been presented by the author to his friends. Cicognara 597. Inscription inside front cover, "Philip Miller donum Nobilissimi Auctoris" (Philip Miller, 1691-1771, a prominent English gardener). Enclosed in this copy is Pope's delightful satirical poem, Of False Taste. An Epistle To The Right Honourable Richard Earl of Burlington. Occasion'd by his Publishing Palladio's Designs of the Baths, Arches, Theatres, &c. of Ancient Rome... London, MDCCXXXI. Labels of the Sheremetieff and Hermitage Libraries. Contemporary diced morocco, gilt.

[72]: errata for Vol. I-IV; versos of all plates blank; Notes: This is a beautiful, large, clean copy of the first printing of Scamozzi's edition of the works of Palladio. The French title page and text with plates bound in, precede the Italian title page and text in each volume of this copy. The frontispiece, a portrait bust of Palladio in a frame, was engraved by Simon François Ravenet after Davide Rossi. The 209 plates in the work were drawn and engraved by Davide Rossi, Gaetano Testolini and Gaetano (or Cajetan) Vichi (or Vichy), with a few in Vol. I engraved by Cristoforo Dall'Acqua, M. Sebastien Giampiccoli and Santini. The plates are full-page except for the following double-page plates: Vol. I, No. I-IV, XXIII-XXIX; Vol. II, No. V, VII-VIII, XXI, XXIX-XXXII; Vol. III, No. IV-VI, XI, XX-XXII; Vol. IV, No. I-II, V-VI, XXIV, XXVI, XLVII-XLVIII. On p. 54, Vol. III (French and Italian text) there is an interesting note by Scamozzi in which he attributes the theory of musical proportions to Palladio. Palladio's Le Terme di Romani, Vicenza, 1785 (No. 234), is often treated as the fifth volume of the work described above. There was a second edition in Vicenza, G. Rossi, 1786. [2]: blank; p. 3-[133]: text; p. [134]: colophon beneath woodcut printer's device; p. [135-136]: blank and original; woodcut illustrations included in pagination; Notes: First edition of the four books. The work was originally published in two volumes in Venice by Domenico de Franceschi in 1570 under the following title: I due primi libri dell'antichità...and I due libri dell'architettura...The first became Book III-IV of I Quattro libri...described above, and the second Book I-II of this work. Palladio was one of the five great protagonists of the Italian Renaissance, along with Alberti, Serlio, Vignola and Scamozzi. While his works had considerable effect throughout Europe, it was in England that he was specially influential, and from England to this country in the works of Thomas Jefferson; The design of the architectural title pages, all four of which are alike, is very elaborate. On each side are coupled Corinthian columns, resting on a pedestal base and supporting a section of broken pediment in perspective, on which recline figures blowing trumpets. Another figure stands in front of each pair of columns; the one on the right representing architecture, that on the left mathematics. Back of, and rising above and between the pediment sections, is a pedestal in front of which is seated "Regina Virtus" of Franceschi's device. Below is a cartouche containing the title, then another cartouche resting on the pedestal base and framing another interesting printer's device: Venus in a boat with the Queen. In the center of the pedestal course is a third cartouche containing the imprint. The printer's device on p. [134] depicts "Regina Virtus" seated in a cartouche. The simple and direct wood engravings are by Giovanni and Cristoforo Chrieger, Cristoforo Coriolano and others. Book I, p. 40-41 wrongly numbered 42-43. Berlin Catalog 2592; Brunet IV, 320; Cicognara 594. Inscription inside front cover, "Ex Biblio Conservatori Napoli" and on title page, "Alexandri Moultie Camertis atq. Amicor." Original paper wrappers, repaired spine; Plate VIII-IX.

[2]: blank; p. 3-4: dedication with engraved headpiece; p. 5-11: preface; p. [12]: blank; p. [1]-35: text; p. [36]: blank; Notes: The first printing of Scamozzi's edition of Le Terme Dei Romani based on Lord Burlington's edition of 1730 (No. 227). The frontispiece is a copy by Gaetano Testolini of the architectural title page with portrait bust of Palladio, of that edition. The plates, engraved on copper, are also copies by Carlo Barrera and Testolini of those in bistre which appeared in the 1730 edition. The plates are double-page except the following full-page: No. XVII, XIX-XXV. The plan of the Baths of Agrippa, missing from the Burlington collection, was obtained by Scamozzi from Temanza and included in this work (see note p. 11, p. 13 of Italian and French texts respectively of work described here). Though the title page of the above work lists Lord Burlington's edition as "Impresso In Londra L'Anno 1732," the title page of that work is dated 1730. This volume is often considered as the fifth volume of Scamozzi's Le Fabbriche...Vicenza, 1776-1783 (No. 231). Berlin Catalog 1877; Cicognara 599. blank; Notes: First printing of the four books in England. The English and French translations in Volume II each have five title pages, Book IV being in two parts, but only the first title page of each translation is dated. Both the English and the French text contain the translator's preface signed by Nicholas Du Bois. Most of the plates by Picart are dated: the frontispiece and portrait 1716, the plates in Book II, 1715 and 1717, in Book III 1718 and in Book IV, 1715. The privilege at the end of the English translation is dated Jan. 17th 1719/1720. The notes by Inigo Jones, called for on the title pages, did not appear until the edition of 1742. The preface to the second part of Book IV of the English translation explains why they were omitted from this edition. Besides Picart, T. Cole, J. Harris and M. Vander Gucht engraved plates for this work. Other editions: London 1721 (No. 224), 1742. Berlin Catalog 2598; Sowerby 4175. [132]: blank; p. [133]: errata; p. [134-136]: publisher's list; Notes: First edition. The added engraved title page is the same plate as No. LX in James' translation of Pozzo's Perspective, London, 1707 (No. 252), with the title added in central arch. The diagram at the left of the original plate has been erased. The six unsigned full-page plates are reverse copies (shadows left) of those in the edition of 1683 (No. 247). The charming and well-executed head- and tailpieces and initials were the work of John Sturt; the headpiece and initial of the dedication were copied from those of the 1683 French edition. The half-page engraved plate representing the pedestals of the five orders, repeated five times, is copied from the woodcuts in the French edition, as well as the other two small plates in the text. There was a later English edition of 1722, a copy of which was in the library of Thomas Jefferson (Sowerby 4182). Contemporary English panelled calf.

[Printed title] Edited By John Britton,... ... [Small double rule] The Subjects Measured and Drawn by Augustus Pugin, Architect; ... And Engraved by John And Henry Le Keux. [Small rule]; 4to. 109 leaves. [73] engraved plates including engraved title page (irregular numbering; 6 double-page plates given 2 numbers each). [1]-4, [i]-viii, [i]-xx, [1]-40 p. 27.6 cm. 10 7/8 in.; Contents: pl. [1]: engraved title page; followed by [72] plates, versos blank; p. [1]-4: list of plates; p. [i]: printed title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii]: dedication to Jeffrey Wyatville; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v]-viii: editor's preface; p. [i]-xx: introduction; p. [1]-40: descriptive text; Notes: First edition. John Britton was the editor of this work, and as stated in his preface, p. [v]-vi, the plates and text were issued separately. Though 80 plates are called for in the printed list, p. [1]-4, there are only 73 because of the 6 double-page plates with two numbers each. This copy contains hand-colored duplicates of the last two plates, "Seven Specimens of Stained Glass" and "Specimens of Stained Glass." The plates were engraved by John and Henry Le Keux from the measured drawings of Augustus Charles Pugin, with a few from the drawings of F. Arundale, T.T. Bury, B. Ferrey, J. Kearnan, G.B. Moore, G.W. Shaw and J. Willis. In this copy the text, as described above, is bound after the plates. Armorial bookplate of S. Morton Peto. Nineteenth-century half calf.

Pugin's Gothic Ornaments Selected From various Buildings in England and France drawn on Stone by J.D. Harding. 1831
4to. 100 leaves. [i], 1-100 lithograph plates (i.e. 99: 1 double-page plate has two numbers, 68-69). 29 cm. 11 3/8 in.; Contents: pl. [i]: title page with architectural border; followed by pl. 1-100 (i.e. 99), versos blank; Notes: First edition. There is no printed text or title page in this copy and 80 of the plates are on India paper and mounted. The work was published in five parts between June 1828 and April 1831. The plates, for the most part, were lithographed by J.D. Harding from the drawings of T. Bury, B. Ferrey and Joseph Nash, all described as "Pupil to A. Pugin," and J. Repton. they were printed by C. Hullmandel and "Published by Augustus Pugin, 105 Gt Russell Strt." Plate 12, a gable, has been replaced by a duplicate of pl. 22, and pl. 76 is lacking from this copy. The nine plates of gables are from Pugin's Ornamental Gables, 1831, No. 259 (see his Examples of Gothic Architecture, 1836, Vol. II, p. vii-viii, No. 260). These were perhaps omitted from the copy described by Brunet (IV, 961) as having 91 plates. The Avery Library has a copy with a printed title page dated 1831, London, Published by A. Pugin...J. Taylor...& Priestley & Weale, and with plates marked "C. Maguire lith., Printed by C. Graf." There was a later edition, London, Bohn, 1844, with 91 plates, and again in 1854 with 92 plates. Modern cloth.

Folio. 6 leaves (1 blank, original leaf between Part I-II). [1]-10 p. Engraved frontispiece, 139 engraved plates as follows: Part I: 1-72 figures on 68 leaves (5 leaves with two plates: No. 4-5, 43-44, 57-58, 59-60; 2 numbered 69; 3 folding plates; No. 6, 67, 68 lacking). Part II: 1-67 figures on 66 leaves (No. 37-38 on one leaf; 25 folding plates; No. 21, 57, 61 lacking). 43 cm. 16 15/16 in.; Contents: engraved frontispiece, portrait of Rubens by Paul Pontius after painting by Van Dyck; p. [1]: title page in red and black; p. [2]: blank; p. [3]: dedication by Rubens, dated 1622; p. [4-5]: preface ending with editor's note; p. [6]-10: life of Rubens; followed by 139 plates, as above; versos of all plates blank; Notes: The first edition of Part I (pl. 1-72) was published at Antwerp in 1622, under the title, Palazzi di Genova (Brunet IV, 1442; Cicognara 4084). It was then reissued with Part II (pl. 1-67), probably in the same year (Cicognara 4085, "Pt. II undated"; Berlin Catalog 2657; Brunet IV, 1442; Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon XIII, 516, lists 1622 as date for both parts with 139 plates). There was an edition of 1652 with the two series in reverse order, and in 1663 the two parts were issued, in correct order, with the addition to the title of the words, Raccolti e designati da Pietro Paulo Rubens, Anversa Giacomo Meursio (Henri Hymans, Histoire De La Graveur Dans L'École de Rubens..., Brussels, 1879, p. 232-234). There was a later edition in 1705. The first plate of the work described here was signed by "Nicolaes Ryckemans." Most authorities agree that the second series of plates was not the work of Rubens. Berlin Catalog 2658. Russian Library stamp on verso of title page, and label of W. Klotschkoff Library, St. Petersburg, on inside of back cover. Contemporary brown Belgian morocco, gold tooled, with arms of Wlozek of Poland blocked in gold on the upper cover and his crested monogram on the lower.

[vii-xii]: indexes; p. 1-143: text, Book I-X, including illustrations; p. [144]: blank; Notes: First edition, first issue. The title is within an elaborate woodcut architectural border. The "second title" on p. [ii] amplifies that on the title page. The illustrations are a new and skilful rendering of many of the Vitruvian woodcuts. The Library of Congress and Peabody Library copies contain eleven lines of errata on p. [144], not present in the Fowler copy, nor are the errors corrected. The copies with the errata are probably second issues of this first edition. In the second edition, Venice, 1660 (No. 281) only one of the errors has been corrected, p. 91, proportioni instead of proportione. Berlin Catalog 2602; Brunet IV, 1463; Cicognara 640. Thirty-six of the plates (No. 2-9, 11-38), are reduced copies of those in Du Pérac's I Vestigi Dell' Antichità di Roma, 1575 (No. 111). All the plates are signed "Marco Sadeler excudit," and the title is within an elaborate border of gables and allegorical figures (in this copy the plate is cut out and mounted). The first edition of Sadeler's work was issued at Prague in 1606 under the same title as above (Berlin Catalog 1855; Cicognara 3871); There is a variant issue of this 1660 De Rossi edition in the Library of Congress, with the same fifty plates as above, but with the following changes on the title page; [On drapery] Vestigi Delle Antichità Di Roma Tivoli Pozz-volo Et Altri Lvochi Come si Ritrovavano Nel Secolo XV.; [on block beneath drapery] Con Privilegio Di Sva Sac. Ces Mae [on base at right] Marco Sadeler Sculpsit [bottom of plate] si Stampano in Roma da Gio. Thomas Ashby in his article about the editions of Du Pérac's work, notes a reprinting of Sadeler's work with the addition of the words "Cum priuil. del S.P." to the imprint as in the copy described above. It was probably issued sometime before 1691 because Giovanni Giacomo de Rossi was printing "Al insegna di Parigi" until that time. [iv]: blank; p. [v-viii]: preface; p. [ix-x]: table of contents; p. [xi-xii]: translation of Italian terms, ending with privilege; p. 1-143: French translation of text of Book 6, including [36] plates as described above; [2] full-page plates bound in between p. 4-5; p. [144]: blank; Notes: The original plates of the 1615 edition (No. 292) were reworked and used for this French translation (see D'Aviler's preface for the use of these plates and his reasons for abridging the translation of the text). The two plates between p. 4-5, are of the five orders and of the ornament of the Corinthian order, which were found on p. 6 and 155 of the 1615 edition. The plate on ornamental cornices for rooms, p. 159 of the earlier edition, is omitted and the Ionic arch, duplicated on p. 7 and 91 in the 1615 edition, is only found once in the 1685 on p. 77. The large double-page plate of the orders is on p. 30-31. The Library of Congress and Avery Library copies have an added engraved title page as follows: Les Cinq Ordres D'Architecture De Vincent Scamozzi Vicentin Architecte de la République de Venise. Tirez Du VI. Livre De Son Idee Generale D'Architecture, Par Augustin Charles Daviler Architecte. A Paris Chez Nicolas Belley, rue St Iacques entre les Colleges de Louis le Grand et du Plessis Sor-bonne á l'Image Saint Athanase M DC LXXXV.; Both copies contain the printed title page, the table of contents (p. [ix-x]), the translation of Italian terms (p. [xi-xii]), and the text and plates as described above. They do not have the preface (p. [v-viii]) and the Avery copy has an additional full-page plate of a tomb on p. [144] signed "Ioanne Picart." Other editions: Amsterdam and Paris, 1710; La Haye, 1736; Paris, 1730 and 1764 in octavo. Brunet V, 180; Cicognara 654; Kimball p. 99; Sowerby No. 4178; T. Temanza, Vita di Vicenzio Scamozzi..., Venice, 1770, p. 44, Note 1. Contemporary calf, gold-tooled spine.

Discorsi Sopra L'Antichità Di Roma Di Vincenzo Scamozzi Architetto Vicentino Con XL. Tauole in Rame.
In Venetia, Appresso Francesco Ziletti. 1583
Folio. 20 leaves. [i-xl] p. including etched title page. 1-40 etched double-page plates with page of text on reverse, given corresponding number. Woodcut headpieces, ornaments. 29.3 cm. 11 9/16 in.; Contents: p. [i]: etched title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: dedication by Girolamo Porro; p. [v-xix]: index; p. [xx]: blank; p. [xxi-xxxii]: description of Rome and its environs; p. [xxxiii-xxxvi]: description of pl. 1, Roman Forum; pl. 1-40, with descriptive text on verso; p. [xxxvii]: errata; p. [xxxviii]: blank; p. [xxxix-xl]: blank, original leaf; Notes: Second issue of the first edition, which was issued by the same printer in 1582 and edited by Girolamo Porro (Brunet V, 180; Sowerby 4194). The last I in the date MDLXXXIII on the title page has been added to the date of the original title page. Otherwise the issues agree. The plates, mounted out, were engraved by Giovanni Battista Pittoni of Vicenza, and all had been published by him under the title, Praecipua Aliquot Romanae Antiquitatis Ruinarum Monumenta..., Venice, 1561. Twenty-four of these had been issued in 1551 by Hieronymus Cock in his work of the same title in Antwerp. Du Cerceau issued a collection of twenty-five plates, reduced in size from those of Pittoni, under the same title (Berlin Catalog 1835, 1836, 1844, 1849; Destailleur p. 42). Berlin Catalog 1849; Cicognara 656. Bound with Palladio, I Quattro Libri..., Venice, 1581 (No. 213). The title page bears the signature of "Robertus Cotton. 1603" and the inscription at the top, "Amor meus Claustinus est"; inside the front cover is the armorial bookplate of Sir Henry Fitz Herbert. Contemporary English calf, rebound; Second copy: This copy measures 30 cm., 11 13/16 in., and the collation is as given above except that p. [xxxiii-xxxvi], containing the description of pl. 1, are bound after pl. 40. Old sprinkled boards, leather spine.

[i]: half title: ...Bouwkonstige Platen, Van't Sevende en Achtste Boeck...; p. [ii]: blank, followed by pl. 1-3 (woodcut), [i], 1-4 (engraved); p. 219-352: text of Book 3, including [27] woodcut illustrations; p. [353]: table of contents; p. [354]: blank; Notes: This work, like the 1640 [1658] edition (No. 293), is composed of two different issues. The printed title page, dated 1658, the first dedication and preface, signed by Danckert Danckertsz, and p. 219-[354] including the woodcut plates, are the same typesetting on the same watermarked paper as the 1640 [1658] edition. The second dedication of Cornelis Danckerz from the 1640 [1658] edition is a new typesetting; the second preface of Dancker Danckertsz is a different text from the second preface found in the 1640 [1658] edition; p. 1-116, dated 1661 in the colophon, are a new printing with corrections in spelling and minor changes in text. These three parts, with the four series of plates, A-D, are all printed on the same watermarked paper. Therefore it is probable that this work was issued in 1661, using parts of the earlier edition of 1640 [1658] (No. 293), which in turn had been issued in 1658 incorporating parts of the earlier 1640 edition; The woodcut illustrations of [Series B] are described on the title page as belonging to Book 4-5, which were not included in Scamozzi's published work. The engraved plates [i], 1-4 of [Series D] do not occur in the 1615 edition (No. 292), but are found in some Dutch, French and German editions. Plate [i], found here between pl. 1-2, shows the scale with description for finding parts of the column by Jochem Schuym, which is also found in the English translations. The purpose of pl. 1-4 of this series, by Salomon de Bray, is to identify, in Dutch, the Italian names of the parts of the orders. The Nuremberg 1678 edition (No. 298) contains an additional leaf for each plate on which the key is printed in Latin, French and German. Contemporary vellum.

Folio. 100 leaves. 1-4 p. [87] engraved plates including title page, numbered: [i], aI, 1-85. Woodcut tailpieces, initials. 32 cm. 12 1/2 in.; Contents: pl. [i]: engraved title page; leaf 1-4: key to plates 1-4 in Latin, French and German, with pl. aI, 1-4 bound in, verso blank; p. 1-136: German translation of text of Book 6, with pl. 5-46 bound in; p. 137-192: German translation of text of Book 3, with pl. 47-85 bound in; Notes: The engraved title page of this German translation is a copy, by Sigmund Gabriel Hipschmann, of that in the 1615 edition (No. 292). The other engraved plates (86) are for the most part copies, many signed by Wilhelm Pfann, of the woodcut and engraved plates of the 1658 [1661] edition (No. 295). Plate aI, 1-4 are copies of [Series D], pl. [i], 1-4. Plate aI, Jochem Schuym's scale, is reduced, without the signature of Dancker Danckertsz and with the text in German; pl. 1-4 of this issue are close copies of the 4 plates of Salomon de Bray with the key in Italian and Dutch unchanged. Plate 5-9, with German captions, are copied from [Series A], pl. 1-5. Plate 10, the five orders, is from the same plate (Folio 5) as the one found in the 1640 [1658] edition (No. 293), with the addition of a note in German at the bottom of the plate. Plate 11-46 (No. 11 folding) are close copies, with Italian nomenclature, of [Series C], pl. 2-37. Plate 47-74 (No. 57, 71 folding) with German captions, are copied from the [28] woodcut illustrations of Book III of the 1658 [1661] edition. Plate 5-74 are numbered consecutively at the bottom and given page, or folio, numbers at the top, but not counted in the pagination. Plate 75-82 (marked "Fig. 1-8" at top; No. 8 folding) are copied from the woodcut illustrations of [Series B], pl. 1-8; pl. 83-85 (marked "Fig. 9-11") are copies of [Series D], pl. 1-3, with German captions and notes at the bottom. The copy of this 1678 edition described in the Berlin Catalog (2606) has a printed title page as well as the engraved title, but only 83 plates. Lukowski, Architettura Classica, p. 436, gives Nuremberg 1647 for the first German translation; Schlosser, p. 377, lists two editions of the Grund-Regeln, translated by J. Schaum, Amsterdam 1664 and Nuremberg 1678; there is also an edition of 1697, with title agreeing with that given in the Berlin Catalog (2606). Old green vellum.

The paper of the 1545 and 1590 editions is the same with the same watermark, "P S" in shield between, or tangent to, the cross-wire lines. The typography is identical, except for the three new leaves which differ as to paper, watermark and type. Copies of this edition, but with the original Barbé colophon of 1545 on p. 74 are recorded (Berlin Catalog 2564). F. Shreiber in Die französische Renaissance-Architektur und die Poggio Reale-Variationen des Sebastiano Serlio..., Halle, 1938, p. 5, 8, 21, refers to a Paris, Macé edition of 1590. It may be assumed therefore that this is not a reprinting of the original French edition but a new issue of the "remainders" or sheets of the Barbé 1545 edition in at least the two variant forms noted here. Signature of "Jan Louÿs du Buissonet, 1702" on title page. Modern vellum, gilt; For other editions of Book I-II see Book I-V (No. 327-331); Book I-VI (No. 332); Book I-VII (No. 333-335).

The title page has a strap-work border with geometrical figures and drawing instruments, and with a salamander at the top. The title page, preliminary matter and text are printed in both Italian and French, the former in italic, the latter in roman type. The diagram printed at the bottom of leaf 13 verso has a corrected diagram pasted over it, not found in all copies. Book II does not have a separate title page. Book I contains his treatise of geometry and Book II his perspective. At the end of Book II are the three famous illustrations for the theatre, showing a setting for tragic, comic and rustic scenes. The unsigned, unnumbered leaf between 67-68 contains the scene for a comic setting. The woodcut illustrations were issued only in this edition but were copied for the Italian, Dutch and English editions (see Dinsmoor p. 74, note 92). The sheets of this first French edition were reissued at Paris in 1590 by Barthelemy Macé (No. 307). Book I-II (Italian); Il Primo Libro D'Architettura, Di M. Sebastiano Serlio Bolognese. [Type ornament, woodcut printer's device]. In Venetia per Cornelio de Nicolini da Sabbio a instantia de Marchio Sessa. [n.d.] [Colophon]; [Caption title] Il Secondo Libro Di Perspettiva di Sebastian Serlio Bolognese; Folio. 48 leaves. Book I: [1]-16 leaves including woodcut illustrations and title page. Book II: 1-31 [32] leaves including woodcut illustrations. 32.7 cm. 12 7/8 in.; Contents: Book I: leaf [1] recto: title page; leaf [1] verso: dedication and preface; leaf 2 recto-16 verso: text of Book I; Book II: leaf 1 recto-31 verso: text of Book II; leaf [32] recto: blank; leaf [32] verso: colophon beneath Sessa's woodcut device; Notes: First Italian edition. The title to Book I is within a strap-work border copied from the French 1545 edition, but without the salamander at the top. According to Brunet (V, 304) this undated edition may have antedated the 1545 French edition (No. 303), but recent scholars have accepted 1551 as the date of issue. The same watermark appears in the copy of Book I-II described here, bound with Book III-V, dated 1551 and printed by Pietro de Nicolini. But the errors in the Italian text, listed on the recto of leaf [iv] of the 1545 French edition (No. 303), for the most part have not been corrected in this edition nor that of 1560, which one might expect had it been copied from that French edition. A careful comparison of Book I-II by Cornelio de Nicolini, and Book III-V by Pietro de Nicolini, 1551, shows various differences in typesetting. Though the type is nearly identical, the letters in the word, and the words themselves are more closely spaced in Book I-II; the "zz" are set very close together, and a different type face "Q" has been used. The woodcut initials of Book III-V are the same alphabet, while the "A" used in the dedication of Book I is from a different and slightly larger alphabet. Therefore it seems possible that there may have been two copies of the original Italian manuscript used, one in France and one in Italy, and that this edition, dated circa 1551 by Dinsmoor, may have been set up simultaneously with the French, or at least slightly before Book III-V of 1551, with which it is so closely allied. This translation of Serlio is the earliest connected work on architecture in the English language. The Dutch translation used by Robert Peake was that of Peter Cocke, published at Amsterdam in 1606. Each book, except IV, has a colophon, that for the whole work at the end of Book V as follows: "Here endeth the fift Booke: And this also is the end of the whole worke of Sebastian Serlius; Translated out of Italian into Dutch, and out of Dutch into English, at the charges of Robert Peake. Printed at London, by Simon Stafford. 1611. B.W." The separate title pages of each book have imprints except that of Book III. Book I-IV are printed in black letter type. The original binding of this copy had on the flyleaf the signature of Robert Churchill, who may have been the "Mr. Robert Churchill, Mason," listed as one of the subscribers to Sturt's translation of Pozzo's Perspective, London, 1707 (No. 252). The paper used in this work bears the same watermarks as the Sessa editions of Book I-II, 1560, Book III, 1562, Book V, 1559 (No. 306, 312, 324), with which it is bound. The title-page borders of Book I-II, IV and V are from the same block, and the roman type face and setting are similar in all five books. The strap-work cartouche, containing the title, was copied by Peter Cocke for Book II and V of the Flemish 1553 edition (No. 305, 323) and other editions (Dinsmoor p. 74, note 95). The Italian text is printed in italics, the French in roman type. Book V contains Serlio's treatise on temples and churches. There are two variant issues of this work, differing only in imprint, both to be found in the Metropolitan Museum of Art: 1) "Imprimé a Paris, M.D.XLVII.; Par Michel de Vascosan./"; 2) "A Paris, De L'Imprimerie de Conrad Badius, M.D.XLVII." Vascosan was the son-in-law of Jodocus Badius, and brother-in-law of Conrad Badius and Robert Estienne. De Colines, Badius and Vascosan were the printers largely responsible for the reforms in the Paris press and the adoption of handy formats already inaugurated by the Aldine press. The work was issued with both French and Italian title pages and text bound together with the fifty engraved plates, which are said to have been executed by Serlio himself. They were issued in three forms in later editions: 1) the original copper engravings with the shadows on left, only in Lyons editions of 1551, 1560, 1561; 2) reversed with the shadows on right in the Venice folio editions of 1557, 1558, 1560, 1561, 1567, 1663 (11 only); 3) as reduced woodcuts for the quarto editions of 1566, 1584, 1600, 1618, 1619 and for the Italian folio edition of 1568-1569. Book VI, planned by Serlio to contain the description of the habitations of all degrees of men, was never published, and in his later collected works this Livre Extraordinaire, treating of doorways, was substituted. In Volume III the page numbers 31-34, 45-46 are omitted but the signatures are complete; The plates were engraved, for the most part from the drawings of Stuart and Revett, by the following: F.G. Aliamet, J. Basire, W. Blake, P. Fourdrinier, C. Grignon, J. Hall, J. Harding, C. King, C. Knight, J. Landseer, D. Lerpiniere, W. Lowry, T. Medland, J. Newton, W. Pars, J. Record, E. Rooker, W. Sharp, T. & W. Skelton, S. Smith, R. Strange, A. and J. Walker. The head- and tailpieces were engraved by Basire, J. Couse, J. Green, J. Hall and the vignette on the title page of Vol. II by A. Thornthwaite. The plates by William Blake, dated April 3, 1792, are No. XXI-XXIV, Chapter I, Vol. III. Geoffrey Keynes (A Bibliography of William Blake, New York, 1921, p. 454) prints the following letters: "Letter 64. To Mr. Blake, Engraver. Mr. Reveley's Compts. to Mr. Blake if he wishes to engrave any of Mr. Parr's drawings for the antiquities of Athens & can do them by the end of January Mr. R. will be glad to [send] some to him.

Great Titchfield St., Oct. 18." and "[To Mr. Reveley.] Mr. Blake's Compts. to Mr. Reveley; the full of work he is glad to embrace the offer of engraving such beautiful things & will do what he can by the end of January." Keynes dates the first letter [c. 1818], but in reality it should be 1791. Willey Reveley (1760-1799) edited Volume III of the Stuart and Revett which appeared in 1794; the plates in question are dated April 1792 and were drawn by W. Pars. In searching for evidence that the "Blake, sculpt" who engraved these plates was William Blake, the compiler's attention was called by Wilson Duprey of the Spencer Collection, to a clipping from "Correspondence" in The Literary Review of the New York Evening Post, Saturday, July 7, 1923. It contained a letter from Allan R. Brown, New Rochelle, N.Y., "To the Editor of the Literary Review," in which these Blake plates were discussed and reference made to the two letters by Keynes quoted above. There seems no reason to doubt that they refer to pl. XXI-XXIV of Volume III of the work described here; The maps in Vol. III are: [i]: Greece, Archipelago and Part of Anadoli. By L.S. De La Rochette, MDCCXC. London, Published for Willm Faden...January 1, 1791. W. Palmer sculp.; [ii]: Plan of the Antiquities of Athens, as surveyed by J. Stuart, 1752. [n.p., n.d.]; [iii]: Attica from an Actual Survey by Mr Stuart. Published by Elizabeth Stuart, 1794. J. Walker, sculp.; [iv]: [Map of the Piraeus, Bay of Phalerus, etc., n.p., n.d.]; [v]: [The island of Delos, n.p., n.d.]; Volume I and III of the copy in The Johns Hopkins University Library vary slightly from the copy described here. Vol. I contains an unsigned, unnumbered leaf of errata at the end, not present in the Fowler copy, which ends with a note to the effect that the subscriber's list is not complete and a "correct list will be printed and delivered to the purchasers of this volume." The list, p. [v-ix], in the Fowler copy is printed on the same paper as the text, with the two columns of names on p. [vi] measuring vertically 36.8 and 36.5 cm. and with column one ending with the Earl of Essex. This list in the Hopkins copy has been entirely reset and is printed on the heavy laid paper used for the plates of both copies. The two columns of names on p. Otherwise the plates and text of both copies are identical, with fine, clear impressions in the Fowler volumes; This work was of great importance in spreading the knowledge of Greek architecture, and was the source book for the later Greek revival in England. Though Nicholas Revett's name appeared on the title pages of Vol. I-III, he withdrew from the work shortly after the publication of Vol. I in 1762. It was Revett, however, who was responsible for the measured drawings which made the Antiquities unique as the first accurate survey of Athenian buildings. Stuart's contribution was limited to the general topographical views, but he was made famous by the publication of the work. Vol. II, 1787, was published by his widow, Elizabeth Stuart, with the assistance of William Newton (1735-1790), and Vol. III, dated 1794, was edited by Willey Reveley (1760-1799). Vol. IV (1816) containing miscellaneous papers and drawings by Stuart and Revett was issued by Josiah Taylor with a memoir by Joseph Woods, and Vol. V, a supplementary volume, was published by C.R. Cockerell and others in 1830; There was a second edition, 1825-1830, 4 v. folio; an octavo edition, London, 1837 with the title, Antiquities of Athens and other Monuments of Greece; an abridged octavo edition for Bohn's Illustrated Library, 1849 and again in 1881 (BM (1) 52, Stu 99); an edition in French, Les Antiquités d'Athènes, translated by L.F. Feuillet, Paris, 1808-1822, 4 v. folio; and a German edition, *Die Alterthümer von Athen...*Darmstadt, 1829-1833, 3 v. octavo with one folio volume of plates, Leipzig and Darmstadt, 1829-1833 (Berlin Catalog, 1890). Cicognara 2713; Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes, Vol. II, p. 128. Jefferson owned a copy of Volume I of the 1762 edition (Kimball p. 100; Sowerby No. 4190), and Frederick, Lord Baltimore is listed among the subscribers. Contemporary English diced morocco, gold-tooled.

The Whole being illustrated with upwards of One Hundred Designs and Examples, curiously engraved on Sixty Folio Copperplates. [Single rule] By Abraham Swan, Architect. [Double rule]; Folio. 6 leaves. [i]-iv, [5]-12 p. I-LX engraved plates (5 containing printed text). 44 cm. 17 5/16 in.; Contents: p. [i]: title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii]-iv: introduction; p. [5]-12: description of plates; followed by pl. I-LX, versos blank; Notes: Second American edition of the work first issued in England in 1745. The first American edition was published under the same title: Philadelphia, Printed by R. Bell...For John Norman, 1775. Plate I, III, VI, X, XIV are half-page plates with printed text describing the five orders on the other half of the page. This is one of the books which had great influence on the builders and architects of eighteenth-century America. For example, plate L, LI, LIII show elements of the mantels found in the Brice House at Annapolis, Maryland. William Buckland (1734-1774), an architect of colonial Maryland and Virginia, who built and decorated the Brice House, owned a copy of the London 1745 edition of this work (R.R. Beirne and J.H. Scarff, *William Buckland...*Baltimore, 1958, p. 149). This copy belonged to John Davis (1770-1865), who was Benjamin Latrobe's clerk of works at the Philadelphia Water Works in 1799 and in 1805 became the first superintendent of the Baltimore Water Works. It was purchased at the sale of books, drawings, etc., of the heirs of John Davis in 1934. Many other items were given to the Maryland Historical Society by Mr. Gilman Paul. Evans 27761. Contemporary American calf, red leather label, gilt.

Folio. 82 leaves. [i-xii], [1]-145 [146-150] p. including engraved title page, and woodcuts and engravings in text. Woodcut initials. 34.8 cm. 13 11/16 in.; Contents: p. [i]: engraved title page; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-iv]: dedication by Egnazio Danti; p. [v-viii]: life of Vignola by Danti; p. [ix]: note to Danti by Iacinto Barozzi, dated 1580; p. [x-xi]: preface; p. [xii]: contents; p. [1]-145: text and illustrations of Vignola's Perspective; p. [146-149]: index ending with errata; p. [150]: register, woodcut printer's device and colophon; Notes: This is generally listed as the first edition, but some copies are found with the date 1582 on the title page. The work contains eight full-page engraved plates including the title page and many woodcuts and engravings in the text. The full-page plate facing page 89, showing a loggia in perspective is dated 1562 at the bottom; the engraved plate, p. 55, is printed upside-down. The title page, engraved by Cherubino Alberti, contains a bust of Vignola on a pedestal within a colonnade in perspective. The title is in a tablet above, the dedication to Giacomo Buoncompagni in the base below, the imprint at the bottom of the plate. The Berlin Catalog (4695) states that the first edition was 1569. Brunet V, 1220; Cicognara 810; Lukomski, Vignole, p. 86; Architectura Classica, p. 437. Library stamp of Cardinal Alexander d'Este on bottom of p. [iii]. Modern half calf, marbled boards.

[152]: colophon beneath register and woodcut printer's device; Notes: The plates of this edition are rather crude woodcut copies of the illustrations of the earlier editions. The twenty engravings in the text of the 1583 edition (No. 386) here appear as woodcuts. Only the added engraved title page, the eight full-page plates, and one half-page plate (p. 81) are engraved copies. On the added engraved title page the coat of arms on the pediment has been omitted, and a view of the city of Bologna substituted for the dedication on the pedestal. The illustration on p. 140 is printed upside-down. The title page of the copy in the Avery Library has a woodcut basket of flowers in place of the engraved vignette with coat of arms as above. Otherwise the copies agree. Old paper boards.

Plate 2-12 contain the "Traité de Géométrie"; 13-49, the orders etc.; 50-87, problems in stone cutting, plans, framing, interior panelling and wrought iron work. In this edition issued by Pierre Panseron (ca. 1736-1787), and engraved by Vanmaelle, there are several plates derived from Panseron's Éléments d'Architecture, Paris, 1776, as well as the prototypes for many of the plates on timber framing and stone cutting found in the quarto edition (No. 385), which has a title page signed by Vanmaelle. This edition was therefore probably issued after 1776 and before 1787, the date of Panseron's death. Berlin Catalog 2433; Guilmar p. 260. Original paper wrappers.

[3]: title page; p. 4-88: illustrations with text on verso of preceding leaf; followed by 4 folding plates; Notes: The entire work, except the last four folding plates, is engraved on blue paper. The order of the preliminary leaves, as given above, is confused, and the name of the publisher on the title page and last four plates has been almost entirely erased. The date ca. 1733-1745 (probably after 1745) has been supplied because the plate on p. 86 is an elevation of the "Portail de S. Sulpice comme le plus modernes et le dernier fait a Paris du dessain de Servandoni..." This façade was erected between 1733 and 1745. The last four plates are elevations of the Tuileries, the Louvre, the Hotel de Ville in Lyon and the "Loge des Changes de Lyon." Old calf.

The first edition was published by Charpentier in Paris in 1757. The first title is within an allegorical rococo border, the second within an ornamental rococo architectural border. Part II contains plates of façades, perspectives, interior features, iron work, etc., including plates from Pannini and Piranesi. The plates are enlivened by charming groups of figures and rococo motives. Except the title pages by Vasseur and Aveline, they were engraved by Chereau and Charpentier after designs of Babel, Blondel, Canuc, Chedel, Chevetot, Cochin, Cuvilliers, Huquier, Mansart, Martinet, Marvi, Meissonier, Oppenort, Pannini, Piranesi, Poulleau, Soubeyran and others; The illustrations of this second edition are from the same plates as those in the 1757 edition, with changes in the printer's name on the title pages and on many of the plates. On 33 of the plates Chereau's name appears as engraver in place of Charpentier and they have been renumbered to run more or less consecutively. Plate 79 and 83 of the first edition have been omitted and pl. 98 of that edition has been inserted, still marked No. 98, in place of 88. The original plate 43, façade of the Louvre, designed by Chevetot and engraved by Charpentier, has been corrected by Blondel and dated 1761. The mansard roofs over the end pavillions have been removed to show the building as it was executed, with different statues at the door, designs on pediment and in panels under the pediment and with a new text. The figures of the people in front of the building have been left untouched. Other editions: Paris, Charpentier, 1757; Paris, Petit, 1767. Old calf, gold-tooled.

Francken Brux: Inuentor."; verso of all plates blank, except No. II-XIII as noted above; Notes: This is a reissue of the text of the 1619 edition with the addition of the English translation. The frontispiece and plates are mostly reversed from the 1619 edition with the following corrections in Part I: pl. XI in place of pl. VI; pl. IX pasted over pl. X; pl. X pasted over pl. IX; pl. XXVI pasted over pl. XX; pl. XXIX pasted over pl. XXVI. In Part II, pl. I-XXV are followed by five sets of plates from the works of various architects as described above. The elaborate engraved title page of this part includes figures of four architects, whose work is represented in the following plates, the "new augmentation" referred to in the title of the Regola. Plate 1-18 of the last series are copies of pl. 1, 33, 29, 30, 32, 27, 35, 17, 20, 28, 14, 11, 24, 25, 34, 21, 16, 19 of Montano's Diversi Ornamenti Capricciosi...Rome, 1625 (No. 199). The architectural designs are close copies, but with great modification in the ornamental details. The center panels of pl. 1-15 contain paintings depicting the life of Christ, with most of the ornamental statues, cupids, etc., changed here to angels. Guilmar, p.

A Paris chez Jean, rue Jean de Beauvais, No. 10. [n.d.]
4to. 58 leaves. 1-58 engraved plates including title page. 24.8 cm. 9 3/4 in.; Contents: pl. 1: title page; pl. 2-58: plates with descriptive text at bottom, versos blank; Notes: The allegorical title page was engraved by Van Maelle, who is listed as the engraver of Pierre Panseron's edition of Vignola, Grand et Nouveau Vignole, Paris, Mondhare [n.d.] (No. 384). Besides the five orders the plates include mouldings, stone cutting, timber framing and iron work. Plate 2-45 are for the most part close copies of those issued in Le Nouveau Vignole, Paris, 1755 (No. 378), containing some plates by Babel. Plate 47-54 are reduced copies of the plates on stone cutting and timber framing found in Panseron's Grand et Nouveau Vignole (No. 384). Inasmuch as some of the plates in this latter work seem to have been derived from Panseron's Éléments...Paris, 1776, it can be assumed that the work described here and the Grand et Nouveau Vignole were both printed sometime after 1776. [Rome]. [1563]
Folio. 37 leaves without signature marks. [I]-XXXII [XXXIII-XXXVII] leaves including title page. Engraved plates, I-XXXII, type A (No. 351a). 39.8 cm. 15 5/8 in.; Contents: leaf [I]: engraved title page; leaf II: privilege; leaf III: dedication and preface; leaf III-XXXII: engraved plates of the orders; leaf [XXXIII-XXXVII]: 4 plates of doorways and 1 mantelpiece; versos of all leaves blank; Notes: The first issue of plate I-XXXII was in Rome in 1562 according to Lukomski (Vignole, p. 85, Architettura Classica, p. 436) and Schlosser (p. 375). Earlier bibliographies list the first edition as that of 1563?, with thirty-two plates and without date or place of publication. The work described here (Type A, No. 351a) may therefore be the third issue with the addition of the five engraved plates of doorways and one mantelpiece. The plates in this copy are particularly fine impressions; The engraved title page contains a portrait of Vignola, facing right, framed by a window treatment consisting of Corinthian-type columns on pedestal base, supporting a broken pediment with the Farnese arms at top. The title is within drapery on pedestal. This treatment stands within an alcove with a figure on either side and a coffered ceiling from which hangs a geometrical figure on each side. Berlin Catalog 2578; Brunet V, 1219; Cicognara 416; Comolli IV, 89-140; Schlosser p. 375. Modern vellum; Vignola, another of the great protagonists of the Italian Renaissance, was as influential in France, as Palladio was in England. There were numerous editions of his work, thirty-nine of which are in the Fowler Collection. In order to facilitate identification and description of the issues, the chart (No. 351a), giving a detailed analysis of the folio plates, I-XXXII, has been compiled from the sixteen folio editions in this collection. The letters, A-I, have been used to designate each issue of the plates; the abbreviation Cop. designates issues, or reissues of each type. Additional plates of doorways, mantels, etc., were included in later editions, which are noted in the individual description of each; Plate VII.

[i-iii] leaves, [1]-40 engraved plates including frontispiece (i.e. 36: No. 2, 13, 25, 29 lacking). Plate [1]-31, type I (No. 351a). Woodcut initials. 39.5 cm. 15 9/16 in.; Contents: pl. [1]: frontispiece by W. Sherwin, verso blank; leaf [i] recto: printed title page; leaf [i] verso: blank; leaf [ii] recto-[iii] recto: preface by Vignola; leaf [iii] verso: translator's preface by John Leeke; pl. 2-35: plates of orders and doors; pl. [36]: title page of "Porte di Michel Angelo"; pl. [37]-40: mantel and three doors; versos of all plates blank; Notes: The frontispiece and plates, with the description of pl. 2-35 engraved on the plates, though slightly smaller, are close copies of the plates of the Amsterdam, 1619 edition (No. 357) and though reversed, are similar in style to the Amsterdam, 1642 edition (No. 362). The frontispiece has the following on the drapery beneath the portrait: The Efficies of M Giacomo Barozzio Da Vignola [on floor:] W. Sherwin sculpsit et excudit;. The engraved cartouche on the title page is a more elaborate rendering of the one on the title page of the 1619 issue. Plate 2, 13, 25, 29, lacking in this copy, are pl. 1, 12, 24, 28 of the 1619 edition; and the four plates, 36, 40, 41 and 42 of that edition do not appear in the work described here. The plate of the mantel is placed after the title page of the "Porte di Michel Angelo" instead of with the doorways as in the earlier Italian editions. The Avery Library has a variant issue of this 1669 edition with 44 plates and the following imprint: London, Printed for Rowland Reynolds, and William Sherwin, and are to be fold at their shops at the Sun and Bible in Postern-street near Moor-gate, and next door to the Star in Little Britain, M DC LXIX. Another edition of this Leeke translation was issued in [1700?] (No. 368). Original paper wrappers.

I-XXX: plates of the orders; versos of all plates blank; Notes: The title page is similar to that of the Amsterdam 1619 edition (No. 357), without the cross-hatched background. The drapery has been moved from the pedestal to a position above the portrait and contains the title. The imprint is placed in a panel in place of the drapery on the base. In place of the arms on the pediment there is a small oval containing drawing instruments, reversed design from that on the printed title page of the 1619 edition (No. 357). The plates are close to the 1619 edition, No. 1-4, 7, 9, 12-15, 18-19, 21-22, and 25 are in reverse. The engraved text of this edition has the same wording as the French printed text of the 1619 edition. Pierre Firens, an engraver and publisher, who worked in Paris during the first part of the seventeenth century, may have executed these plates (see Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon, IV, 345; Guilnard p. 45). It was probably issued in the early part of the eighteenth century, certainly before 1716, the date of Pierre Mariette's death. Some of the plates show evidence of reworking by the addition of diagonal cross-hatching, and they are slightly larger due to shrinkage or expansion of the paper in printing. The impressions on the whole are inferior to the earlier issue. Berlin Catalog 2588. Original marbled paper covers.

The plates follow those of the French 1632 edition (No. 358) except for the addition of another plate XXXI of a winding stairway. The sequence of many of the plates as printed was wrong, but the correct plate has been pasted over the incorrect one as follows: I over IX, II over VIII, IV over VI, VI over IV, VIII over II, XXV over XXIII, XXVI over original XXXI, XXVII over added XXXI, XXVIII over XXX, XXX upside-down over XXVIII, XXXI over XXVII, additional XXXI over XXVI. The descriptive text for pl. I-XXXIII is printed on the reverse of the preceding plate. Because of the additional pl. XXXI (stairway), the description of pl. XXXIII, p. 80, faces pl. XXXII; the original plate XXXI has no description. Other editions of Moxon's Vignola: 1655, 1665, 1692 (No. 370), 1694 (No. 371), 1702, 1703 (with Vitruvius under the title of The Theory and Practice of Architecture, No. 422), 1729. It is a beautiful example of sixteenth-century French printing by Jean Barbé, who had, in 1545, printed the French edition of Book I-II of Serlio (No. 303). Many of the illustrations are the work of Jean Goujon, others are taken from the Venice 1511, and Como 1521 editions of Vitruvius (No. 393, 395), as well as the theatrical illustrations from Barbé's 1545 Serlio

I-XXV, versos blank; Notes: The first edition of Galiani's translation and commentary. The Italian text in roman type, is on the recto of each leaf, the Latin in italics, on the verso of the leaf. The commentary is in Italian under both the Latin and Italian text. The frontispiece was engraved by Francesco La Marra and the plates by Francesco Cepparuli after designs by Berardo Galiani. The woodcut vignettes, used as tailpieces, are the work of Ignazio Lucchesini, and the beautiful initials are scenes of classical ruins. Some copies, as in the John Work Garrett Library, have the printed description (leaf [2-26]) and the engraved plates on one folding leaf. A second edition of the Italian text only was printed in Naples in 1790 and in Siena (No. 427) in the same year. Berlin Catalog 1820; Brunet V, 1330; Cicognara 733. Florentiæ impressum anno a natali christiano.
[Second colophon] Venetiis Anno a natali Christiano. 1495; 1496, November
[First colophon]; Folio. 2 leaves without signature marks, 86 unnumbered leaves. Woodcut diagrams. 29.5 cm. 11 5/8 in.; Contents: leaf [1] recto: title; leaf [1] verso-[2] verso: index; leaf [3] recto-[64] recto: text, Vitruvius, Book I-X, ending with first colophon and including woodcut diagrams on recto of leaf [9] (B1) and recto of leaf [49] (H5); leaf [64] verso: blank; leaf [65] recto-[74] recto: text, "Frontinus de Aquaeductibus."; leaf [74] verso: blank; leaf [75] recto-[80] verso: "Panepistemon" of Politian, ending with second colophon; leaf [81] recto-[86] verso: "Lamia" of Politian; Notes: Second edition, printed in Venice by Christophoro de Pensis, de Mandello. In this copy the several treatises follow the order given in the title, and the colophons are found on the recto of leaf [64] (L4) and the verso of leaf [80] (a6). The first edition of Vitruvius, undated, was printed in Rome between 1483 and 1490 (Stillwell V275). This work on architecture is the only one that has come down to us from Roman times. There were three editions before the work was issued with illustrations in 1511. For relatively complete listing and discussion of the various editions of the works of Vitruvius see Giovanni Poleni, Exercitationes Vitruvianæ Primæ, Venice, 1739, p. 1-135; Lukomski, Architettura Classica, Book II-III, p. 37-230. British Museum, Catalogue of Books Printed in the XVth Century, Vol. V, p. xlii, 474, No. IB23527; Stillwell V276. Old vellum boards.

I Dieci Libri Dell'Architettvra Di M. Vitrvvio Tradvtti Et Commentati Da Monsignor Barbaro Eletto Patriarca D'Aquileggia. Con due Tauole, l'una di tutto quello si contiene per i Capi nell'Opera, l'altra per dechiaratione di tutte le cose d'importanza. In Vinegia Per Francesco Marcolini Con Privileggi. 1556

Folio. 151 leaves. [1]-274 (i.e. 284: page numbers 39-40, 125-128 in Roman numerals, repeated; 133 occurs three times; between pages 156-160 are 5 pages numbered 156, 157, 167, 168, 169), [285-302] p. including woodcut illustrations (some double-page and folding). Woodcut tailpieces, initials. 40.2 cm. 15 9/16 in.; Contents: p. [1]: title page; p. [2]: blank; p. [3]: dedication by Daniel Barbaro; p. [4]: full-page allegorical plate; p. 5-274 (i.e. 284): text of Barbaro's Italian translation of Vitruvius, Books I-X, with commentary, including woodcut illustrations; p. [285-294]: table of contents and index; p. [295]: errata; p. [296]: additional note on Ionic capital; p. [297]: woodcut of Ionic capital; p. [298-299]: additional note and plates of theatres; p. [300]: errata for chart of stars, p. 221; p. [301]: the allegorical plate, (p. [4]), with register added in tablet at top; p. [302]: Marcolini's device in elaborate cartouche as in his Serlio, Book III, Venice 1544 (No. 309); Notes: The first edition of Barbaro's translation with his commentary. The text is in roman, the commentary in italic type. The title page is a full-page arch of triumph, with title in attic of arch and standing female statue in arched opening below, and imprint at the bottom of the page (reproduced in Lukomski, Architettura Classica, p. 39). The full-page allegorical plate, used as frontispiece, p. [4], and p. [301] with register added in tablet at top, is also reproduced by Lukomski (p. 9). The illustrations, of a more scholarly character than in previous editions, were engraved by Salviati (Giuseppe Porta) after designs by Palladio (Berlin Catalog 1814; Nagler, Künstler-Lexicon, X, p. 481, XI, p. 524). Corrected plates have been pasted over the ones printed on p. 21, 72, 85; those on p. 39, 69, 71, 78, CXXV, CXXVII have extension flaps; and the last two plates on the theatres, p. [298-299], have duplicate revolving plates. On page 228 there is a quadrant with revolving pointer. There are beautiful, large woodcut initials with views of cities at the beginning of each book, and smaller ones of the type of Giolito at the beginning of each chapter. Berlin Catalog 1814; Brunet V, 1330; Cicognara 713; Poleni p. 73-82. Engraved monogram within cartouche pasted on back of title page; stamp of Paul Kristeller on flyleaf. Early seventeenth-century calf, gold-tooled spine.

[1]-195 (i.e. 179: No. 81-96 omitted), [i-xv], [1] 2-22 leaves, including woodcut illustrations. 16 cm. 6 1/4 in.; Contents: leaf [1] recto: title page in red and black; leaf [1] verso: blank; leaf 2 recto and verso: dedication; leaf 3 recto-5 verso: table of contents; leaf 6 recto-195 verso (i.e. 179): text and illustrations of Vitruvius, Book I-X; leaf [i] recto-[xv] verso, [1] recto: index; leaf [1] verso, 2 recto-22 recto: text of Frontinus, with caption title as in No. 396, ending with register; leaf 22 verso: blank; Notes: The title is within a woodcut border. The plates of this edition are copied from the Giunta Florentine editions (No. 394, 396), and from the Como, 1521 edition (No. 395) in reduced form and designated by an asterisk. The plate on leaf 60 is printed upside-down. The place and name of printer are supplied from the Berlin Catalog (1801). Baudrier (VII, p. 165-167) attributes this edition of Vitruvius to Scipion de Gabiano. He also reproduces the woodcut title-page border, which was used with the colophon in a 1521 publication of Huyon's. The copy described by Baudrier does not altogether agree with either the Fowler copy or the one in the Tudor and Stuart Club of The Johns Hopkins University, which are alike except for the spelling on the title page, noted below. Baudrier gives 232 as the total number of leaves, whereas the other two have only 216. All three vary in the spelling of the word "propter" in line 7 of the title page: (Fowler) bus libris, ppter ma-; (Tudor and Stuart Club) bus libris, proter ma-; (Baudrier) bus libris, ppoter ma-;. Berlin Catalog 1801; Brunet V, 1327; Cicognara 700; Poleni p. 34. Engraved bookplate of A. Kuhnholz-Lordat, and signature in shield at bottom of title page: "Andr. Soller. Sumedr." Old vellum.

The Theory and Practice Of Architecture; Or Vitruvius and Vignola Abridg'd.
London: Printed for R. Wellington, at the Dolphin and Crown in St. Paul's Church-Yard. 1703
The First, By the famous Mr. Perrault, of the Royal Academy of Sciences in France, (and carefully done into English.) And the other by Joseph Moxon; and now accurately publish'd the Fifth Time. [Single rule]; 8vo. 76 leaves. [i-xv] 16; 1-72, 17-80 p. including engraved frontispiece and pl. I-XXXII (i.e. 33: second plate numbered XXXII, without text, between p. 78-79). I-XI, XXXIII-L engraved plates (i.e. 51: No. 32 occurs twice as described above). 16 cm. 6 5/16 in.; Contents: p. [i]: blank; p. [ii]: engraved frontispiece; p. [iii]: title page; p. [iv]: blank; p. [v-vii]: dedication by A. Boyer to Mr. Murrey; p. [viii-x]: general preface; p. [xi-xv]: Moxon's preface, "To the Ingenious Artist," from his translation of Vignola; p. 16: description of Plate I of Vignola's Tuscan order; pl. I-XI: engraved plates, versos blank, from the 1692 English Vitruvius; p. 1-72 (page numbers 65-72 cut off in this copy): abridged text and terms used by Vitruvius; p. 17-80: text of Moxon's translation of Vignola, including pl. I-XXXII (i.e. 33); followed by plates numbered XXXIII-L, without text, versos blank; Notes: This work is a combination of Moxon's translation of Vignola and Boyer's translation of Vitruvius. The delightful frontispiece shows busts of Vignola and Vitruvius on a pedestal, facing each other, beneath drapery bearing the word "Architecture." Plate I-XI (No. [X] marked p. 296) of the Vitruvius are from the same blocks as those in the London edition of 1692 (No. 421). The plates of the Vignola are also from the original blocks of Moxon's separate issues of Vignola, London, 1673, 1692, 1694 (No. 369, 370, 371). No. XV is printed upside-down. Plate XVIII-XXIV are printed in reverse order (i.e. the description of XVIII is opposite plate XXIV, etc.). The text is reset but the pagination agrees with the earlier editions from p. 16-80. The description opposite pl. XXI is wrongly numbered XXII. The copy in the Avery Library has Moxon's "To the Ingenious Artist" bound before p. 17 of the Vignola, and preceded by the title page to his Vignola. Poleni p. 125-126. Engraved ownership label of Mr. Joseph S. Hanson. Modern sprinkled calf.

Adorned With Plans and Elevations, From Original Designs. [Single rule] By Isaac Ware, Esq. Of His Majesty's Board of Works. [Single rule] In which are interspersed Some Designs of Inigo Jones, never before published; Folio. 388 leaves. [i-xviii], [1]-748 [749-752] p. (i.e. 758: 6 unnumbered pages of text between p. 92-93, 116-117, 120-121). Engraved frontispiece, 1-122 engraved plates (i.e. 114: irregular numbering, see Notes below; 14 folding plates). Engraved head-piece. 40.3 cm. 15 7/8 in.; Contents: engraved frontispiece, verso blank; p. [i]: title page in black and red; p. [ii]: blank; p. [iii-vii]: preface; p. [viii-x]: table of plates, ending with errata; p. [xi-xvii]: table of contents; p. [xviii]: blank; p. [1]-748: text, Book I-X, with pl. 1-122 (i.e. 114), versos blank, and [6] additional pages of text bound in; p. [749-752] (i.e. 758): index; Notes: First edition with second state of plates. The plates were engraved by R. Benning, Boyce, B. Clowse, B. Cole, J. Couse, E. Edwards, P. Fourdrinier, C. Grignon, J. Hill, J. Mynde, J. Noval, F. Patton, W. Proud, H. Roberts, G.L. Smith and some by Ware himself. The frontispiece was engraved by H. Roberts after Samuel Wale, and the headpiece at the beginning of the text was also by H. Roberts. The numbering of the plates is irregular: No. 38, 43, 44, 46, 97, 100, 108, 109 are omitted; No. 37 appears three times; No. 30, 39, 48, 49, 82, 83, 110, 111, 112 twice each; 12 of the 14 folding plates are given two numbers: 30-31, 47-48, 54-55, 56-57, 58-59, 70-71, 72-73, 78-79, 81-82, 82-83, 110-111, 110-111; No. 82 and 83 repeated on two folding plates given one number only. The table of plates, p. [viii-x], calls for 122 plates but there are only the 114 as described here; The copy of this work in the John Work Garrett Library contains the same printing of the text but with the plates in an earlier state, and with an engraved vignette, by H. Roberts, of the Pantheon on the title page above the imprint. Both copies contain the same number of plates (114) but the plate numbers in the Garrett copy are in the upper right-hand corner within the plate line; on many of the plates the scale numbers are not given; pl. 70-71 has the following inscription: A Section of a Hall and Staircase, the Work of Inigo Jones, at the Seat of Sir Mark Pleydell, at Coleshill in Warwick Shire;. This has been corrected in the Fowler copy to read:...at Coleshill in Berk Shire;. The following plates in the Garrett copy are unnumbered: the second pl. 110-111, "A Design intended for Westminster Bridge," 112, 112, 114-122. The plates in the Fowler copy have the plate number in the upper left-hand corner and page number in upper right, both above the plate line, with distinctly different figuration. They also show evidence in many cases of erasure of the original numbers and on practically all the plates the scale numbers have been added. The paper of both text and plates is apparently the same in both copies. The Garrett copy has a note tipped in at p. 96, with further explanation of the third plate, "Mouldings of the Ionic Entablature," which faces p. 24. The binding of both copies is similar, contemporary English brown calf, red leather label with the title "Ware's Architecture" in gold apparently from the same alphabet, with line and scroll border; The conclusion may therefore be drawn that at first the plates were in the state described above in the Garrett copy. Because of the number of plates and difficulties of binding, the new plate and page numbers were added and bound up with the same text, probably very soon after the work was first issued. The Library of Congress has copies of both issues, but their copy of the Fowler issue has the engraved vignette on the title page. Other editions: 1757, 1758 and 1767. Berlin Catalog 2283; Rudolf Wittkower, "Pseudo-Palladian Elements in English Neo-Classical Architecture" (in Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes, Vol. VI, 1943, p. 156, 158-161, 163); Plate XXX.
