Supreme Court by the superior courts of Florida. Re:
claim of Forbes and Co. west of the Apalachicola;
does not believe it will be appealed. The fraudulent character of the grant was fully developed. The claimants were so deeply wounded by the exposure that Call believes they will permit it to slumber forever. Says the Forbes case (undoubtedly the so-called Forbes Purchase) will consist of about 600

Official Letter (Spanish).
New Orleans. 1794, Oct. 31
To: Vegas, Diego de; Abstract: Acknowledges receipt of 6 Oct. Letter. Is now aware of the bad condition of the Fort of St. Mark's and the critical situation in the Creek and Cherokee Nations in regard to the Americans. It is very probable that vagrants, be they French or American would wish to rob Pantón's warehouse and take over the St. Mark's fort. Carondelet has decided that munitions be immediately sent. Since troops are scarce it will be necessary to wait until the Captain General sends additional men; Source: MPA-SD, V pp. 425-28.

Letter (Spanish).
New Providence. 1802, May 23
To: Perez, Ventura; Abstract: Account of trip to America, through the Indian Nations, all of West Florida and La. At the end of the trip stayed at length with Bowles. Finds that the policy used by certain Spanish Officials in dealing with the Indians has indeed been very harmful to Spanish interests. The friendship of the Indians has been sacrificed to the monopoly of Panton, Leslie and Co. now Forbes and Co. This company has amassed great wealth and has placed Spain under the necessity of annually spending 500,000 pounds in order to keep this monopoly for them. The government has never ...; Source: MPA-SD, VII, pp. 682-701.

New Orleans. 1799, Feb. 21

To: Forbes, John; Abstract: Reply to letter from Forbes dated Feb. 16th describing losses sustained and debts owed by Creeks and few hopes of recovering them. Thanks company for its sacrifices. Thinks King will grant them further indulgences when pressing national concerns cease taking up all the ministers' time. Meantime, Gayoso has asserted his continual support of the Mobile and Pensacola operations. Does not oppose purchase of lands from Indians. Asks to be informed of location and quantity of the land when the purchase is concluded; Source: MC, Exh. 00.

Abstract: Gives detailed reasons why free trade should not be allowed in the Floridas and Louisiana to aliens. (Contraband, possession of the Mississippi and ease of free entry). So that the previous agreement work in their favor, he believes that two or three ports in France should be able to supply sufficient goods. He believes it suitable to forbid goods to be brought to Pensacola from England for the Indian trade. Also suggests a 12% tax on all goods brought in by aliens. Included is a list of goods which shall be made in Spain for the Floridas and Louisiana; Source: AGI SD 2665; WP Reel 2.

New Orleans. 1802, Nov. 14
To: Salcedo; Abstract: Relative to the answer given to Morales' oficio of 13 Nov. 1802 in which he asked who had permitted the unloading of the Pacas de Agodon that John Lynd tried to land, how many days had he been on her, who gave permission for her re-shipment. The answer has 2 grave faults 1) I attached an example to the oficio of the 16 and it is found fixed to the principal door of the Customs 2) You have replaced faculties that don't correspond to you; Source: AGI Sto. #### Morales, Juan Ventura.

Official Letter (Spanish).
New Orleans. 1802, Jan. 18
To: Soler; Abstract: Relative to cost of building a bridge in Panzacola expense of which will go on Panton's account as long as the King so wishes. Work was not begun as agreed by the Royal Treasury Council and nothing was paid before or after Panton's death. Refers to completing new bridge so as to indemnify Panton and Co. offering them gun powder. King's Engineer is asking double what the Panton and Co. estimates would cost doing it in wood. In Morales opinion a bridge is needed for there is little water by the shore of Pensacola Bay. ...; Source: AGI PC leg. 638, Wh. P.

Pensacola. 1786, Oct. 11
To: Galvez, Conde de; Abstract: O'Neill is justifying his actions to Galvez, since Miro complained about them. Says the Americans sent a Joseph Martin to trade with the Creeks, and Martin also will attend a meeting of the Creek chiefs (including McGillivray) at Tuckabache. O'Neill warned McGillivray not to trust the Americans. Colonel Clark and 200 Americans have settled on the Oconee River. Clark had employed the fur trader McMurphy whom O'Neill considered a vulgar man and so refused to answer him. ...; Source: AGI PC 2352; ETHS, X, p. 149-50.

Panton, William.

Letter (English).
[1791, May]

Abstract: McGillivray has returned and writes a candid letter of the state of negotiations at N.Y. Sent a small schooner loaded with the skins and corn that the Mary could not hold as soon as he got a passport. When the schooner got to New Providence, Panton's partner received news of the adjustment of the dispute between the courts of Spain and England, so the ship returned with its same cargo. Is happy about peace. No vessels in Nassau to be chartered when his express boat left. Asks O'Neill for passport to ship skins and to import necessary winter supplies; Source: AGI PC 2362.

Letter (English).
St. Augustine. 1802, Oct. 21
To: Leslie, J; Abstract: Relative to being "dashed" that Leslie still has cause to complain about their conduct. Reminds him that when Leslie left country in 1798 there were no Indian goods in the store. Leslie did not send enough goods back although 42,000 pounds of skins were sent. They had to apply to Messrs. BG and Co. for means to carry on trade. Leslie takes away the only means of getting over the "Fatal Propensity" by not allowing them supplies.
