Walter Lippmann Papers	1

COLLECTION OVERVIEW

For almost seventy-five years of this century Walter Lippmann knew and corresponded with a great many men and women in most parts of the world who were deeply involved in and helped shape the course of events. His papers, starting in 1906 with his undergraduate years at Harvard and ending with his death in 1974 at the age of eighty-five, constitute an important contribution to the history of our own time. They give a picture of the public life of this century from the angle of vision of an author, editor, journalist and political philosopher. In the political drama, Walter Lippmann was back stage, on stage, and among the critics in the stalls.

The Walter Lippmann Papers (MS. Group No. 326), consisting of 115 linear feet of correspondence and other types of material, are divided into the following ten series:

Series No.

I	Correspondence, 1906 – 1930
II	Requests To Speak, Write Or Reprint, 1906 - 1930
III	Correspondence, 1931-1974
IV	Requests To Speak, Write Or Reprint, 1931 - 1974
V	Public Opinion Mail, 1931 – 1974
VI	Manuscripts and/or Typescripts
VII	Diaries And Engagement Books
VIII	Honors
IX	Photographs, Portraits And Sketches
X	Films, Recordings And Tapes

Because of the volume of the papers, the first four series are divided into the periods 1906 - 1930 and 1931 - 1974. The year 1931 was considered a logical series break because Walter Lippmann's career as an editor ended with the demise of the New York World in February and his career as a columnist for the New York Herald Tribune began in September. A description of the content and arrangement of each of the ten series immediately precedes the folder listing for the series in this register.

Researchers should be aware that there are two Walter Lippmann manuscript groups at the Yale Library, with separate registers. The group described above, and in this register, is known as the Walter Lippmann Papers, Manuscript Group Number 326. The second is known as the Robert O. Anthony Collection of Walter Lippmann, Manuscript Group 766. The distinction between the two is that Group 326 consists of Lippmann's personal papers and manuscripts of his writings, while Group 766 is, in general, a collection of his published work. Between the two collections, probably no other journalist and few public figures will have had a career so carefully and completely documented for the historian of the future.

It is worth noting that only materials from Series I, III, V, VII, and portions of a separate group recently acquired by the Manuscripts and Archives Division of Sterling Memorial Library at Yale University have been included in the microform edition of The Walter Lippmann Papers.

Accession

The Walter Lippmann Papers (MS Group No. 326, Manuscripts and Archives) became the property of the Yale University Library by deed of gift in July, 1944. Inasmuch as the 1940s were probably the busiest years of his career as author and columnist, Lippmann needed his files for reference purposes, and it was not until 1963, some twenty years later, that the papers were actually removed from his home in Washington, D.C., and deposited in the Yale Library.

As early as 1941 Walter Lippmann had given to Yale some 300 numbers of serials and pamphlets for the Yale War Collection through his long-time friend, Wilmarth S. Lewis, Yale '18, who was active in the affairs of the Yale Library. In 1942 Lippmann wrote his lawyer, Albert Stickney, that he had been asked by the Library of Congress and also by the Yale University Library to give them all his papers, and that this action would involve a change in his will when he knew more clearly just exactly what he wanted to do.

Two years later, in a letter to Lewis dated July 3, 1944, Lippmann wrote: "I took the invitation from Yale as a favor to me, and a very great distinction, not as something I was doing for Yale. It never occurred to me to consult Harvard, where I had been an overseer, about my papers any more than I might have asked them if they were going to give me an honorary degree." Lewis replied on July 5th: "Needless to say, I am very happy that you have given Yale your papers. The Yale Library is one of the chief things in my life, and it is a joy for me that it is to have this great collection. The scholars of the future will now have to come to Yale to study our time." On the same date, Charles Seymour, President of Yale University, wrote Lippmann: "May I express again and more emphatically our deep gratitude for the gift of your papers. Their value in the Yale collection will be obviously enormous," and in a letter the next day Lewis reminded Lippmann: "I first spoke to you about your papers two years ago."

The decision in 1944 also involved a collection of published works by and about Walter Lippmann which had been assembled as a hobby, beginning in 1931, by Robert Olney Anthony, Amherst '26, a telephone executive for the Bell System in New York City. His collection included magazine articles, a complete file of Lippmann's "Today and Tomorrow" column (1931-1967) which he indexed, other newspaper articles, bulletins and pamphlets concerning Lippmann, newspaper clippings, and books by, about, or prominently mentioning him. Both for the protection of the collection and to increase its availability to scholars, it was a propitious time to transfer his collection to the Yale Library. Lippmann agreed that both collections should be kept together, and in 1944 when Lippmann decided to give his papers to Yale, Anthony also offered his associated collection. Two years later when Anthony was transferred from New York to the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Providence, Rhode Island, on December 2, 1946, his collection was transported to the Yale Library. His collection is listed as the Robert O. Anthony Collection of Walter Lippmann (MS Group No. 766, Manuscripts and Archives). On December 3, 1946, Anthony was named curator of the newly-formed collection by the Yale Corporation.

During 1945 and early in 1946 Lippmann sent to Yale several items, e.g., manuscripts of some of his books, and the announcement of his gift appeared in the press in June, 1946. Also in 1946 at the time of the Anthony collection move, the library truck picked up Lippmann's bound volumes of the editorial pages of the New York World for the period 19254 through February, 1931, which were in his office at the New York Herald Tribune in New York City.

It was not until February, 1963, when he was almost seventy-four, that Lippmann felt he could give up the bulk of his papers, consisting at that time of forty-two large files of personal correspondence and two boxes of original manuscripts. They were shipped to Providence, Rhode Island, for processing by Anthony and eventual shipment to Yale. In 1964 another shipment arrived in Providence, consisting of diaries and engagement books through 1959.

In 1964, Richard H. Rovere began his work in both collections as the authorized biographer of Walter Lippmann, with the assistance of Gary Clarkson. Four years later, finding himself uneasy in the role of biographer without assurance of complete independence as to content, Rovere, in 1968, found a successor in Ronald Steel, a journalist who had been a foreign service officer. Steel's biography is in preparation for expected publication in the fall of 1978.

INTRODUCTION TO THE COLLECTION

Correspondence, 1906-1930

The correspondence in this series, which comprises Part 1 of the microform edition of The Walter Lippmann Papers, begins in 1906 with Walter Lippmann's undergraduate days at Harvard. It continues through the founding in 1914 of the New Republic where he was one of the editors; his activity on "The Inquiry" which prepared data for the Paris Peace Conference; his service as a captain in World War I; and his work as a talent scout for Harcourt, Brace and Company, with his first success the publication in the United States of John Maynard Keynes The Economic Consequences of the Peace in 1920. It concludes in 1930 with his career on the editorial staff of the New York World newspaper.

In 1917 and 1918 Lippmann served as secretary to a secret organization created by President Wilson, known as "The Inquiry," to prepare data for the Paris Peace Conference. This organization prepared eight of the Fourteen Points - points dealing with concrete territorial and political issues. It was not involved with the other six general points dealing with freedom of the seas and the League of Nations. Material on "The Inquiry" in the Lippmann Papers is sparse and incomplete, and the researcher on this subject is referred to the National Archives of the United States, "Records of the American Commission to Negotiate Peace." (Record Group 256).

Correspondence between Walter Lippmann and his first wife is practically non-existent, despite several efforts to locate it through Faye herself and her family. Born on March 23, 1893, Faye Albertson was the beautiful daughter of Ralph Albertson, an ordained minister in the Congregational Church. As an undergraduate, Walter Lippmann was among the frequent visitors to "The Farm" on the banks of the Merrimac River in West Newbury, Massachusetts, home of the Albertson family. Walter Lippmann and Faye Albertson were married several years later, in 1917.

Lippmann had a highly developed sense of privacy and seldom wrote of his personal life to others, although he came close to doing this with Bernard Berenson. He also seemed to have a distaste for the past, not the historical past which delighted him, but his own past. Although not appearing dissatisfied with his professional career, or perhaps his private life, he focused on the present and the future which he could attempt to mold as he could not the past. It is significant that he used the title, "Today and Tomorrow," for his articles in the Metropolitan magazine in 1915, and for his noted column in the New York Herald Tribune and the Washington Post from 1931 to 1967.

The correspondence in this part of the collection is divided into two sections, "Selected" and "General" on the basis of a judgment of the significance of the correspondence. Prominent among those in the Selected Correspondence during the period 1906-1930 are:

Correspondent	Starting
Lee Simonson	1908
Kenneth W. Hunter	1909
Mabel Dodge Luhan	1910
Graham Wallas	1910
Felix Frankfurter	1914
Learned Hand	1914
S.K. Ratcliffe	1914
George Rublee	1914
Dwight W. Morrow	1915
Thomas Reed Powell	1915
Newton D. Baker	1916
Ralph Hayes	1917
Edward M. House	1917
Bernard Berenson	1919
Herbert Bayard Swope	1919

Thomas W. Lamont	1922
John L. Balderston	1923
Russell C. Leffingwell	1929

From 1906 to 1930, Lippmann had contacts with several hundred other persons from all walks of life who were well-known in their fields in the teens and twenties.

The researcher interested in the Lippmann family papers is directed to the separate “Lippmann” material at the end of the Selected Correspondence in this first part. This portion of the Selected Correspondence, consisting of boxes 36-40, also includes all correspondence relating to Harvard University as well as papers dealing with Lippmann’s financial affairs, his involvement in “The Inquiry,” and his service in World War I.

Lippmann’s correspondence concerning matters pertaining to the New Republic when he was one of the editors is filed under “New Republic” and is located in box 22, folders 875-878. Likewise, correspondence concerning the New York World during the 1920s is filed under “New York World” and is located in boxes 22, 23 and 24, folders 885-913. For the convenience of the researcher, the New York World Council Minutes from April, 1924, through June, 1927, have been filed separately in box 25, folders, 914-920. The Council Minutes contain discussions held regularly by Ralph Pulitzer with his staff of Arthur Korck, Walter Lippmann, Herbert Bayard Swope and others on policy and procedural matters.

It should be noted that Lippmann’s correspondence with his publishers is filed under the name of the publishing house, for example, “Mitchell Kennerly Company,” but correspondence with Mr. Kennerly on other matters is filed under “Kennerly, Mitchell,” with a cross-reference to the company.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The project would not have been possible without assistance from many individuals. Primary Source Media wishes to thank Harriet Jackson, who first recognized the value of this collection; Bennett Lovett-Graff, who assumed responsibility for development of the collection during a short interim period; Olga Virakhovskaya, lead editor on the development and publication of this collection; Christine Weideman, Assistant Head of Manuscripts and Archives, at the Manuscripts and Archives Division of Sterling Memorial Library at Yale University, where the original collection resides; Raman Prasad, whose indefatigable work in preparing the collection for microfilming and review and revision of its catalog for accuracy has proven an enormous boon; Tom Mahoney, camera technician extraordinaire; and Gail Lago, project manager for the collection.
