SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

White House Central Files

This collection of extensive presidential files from the Lyndon B. Johnson Library highlights the concerns of the president and his administration about the escalating war in Vietnam. The collection enumerates policies, responses, and recommendations from the president's advisers and cabinet members on handling the growing conflict, its effects on domestic policies, and the public's reaction to the war. In addition, this collection consists of public opinion mail both supporting the Administration's efforts and opposing those efforts.

The White House Central Files consists of materials from the most voluminous record group at the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library. The White House Central Files, designed as a reference service for the president and his staff to document White House activities, consist of four major components: the Subject File, Confidential File, Name File, and Chronological File. This microform publication comprises the Vietnam files of the National Defense category from the Subject File, but does not include the Name File, essentially an index to the Subject File, or the Chronological File, which contains miscellaneous outgoing correspondence.

The Subject series consists of essential correspondence and reports pertaining to the functions and operation of the White House; the federal government; and state, local, and foreign governments. Also filed in this series is correspondence from private individuals, companies, and organizations. The Subject series is organized alphabetically by subject title and then chronologically. The library has retained the original folder titles on the files, but a small number of files were assigned folder titles by a library archivist. These are denoted in brackets. The documentation in the Subject series is divided into sixty major subject categories and more than a thousand subcategories. Each subcategory is further subdivided into "Executive" and "General" material. The "Executive" material consists of documents of particular importance due to either their source or content and generally includes documents received from executive agencies and departments, members of Congress, foreign leaders, and presidential advisers. The "Executive" material also includes outgoing correspondence and memoranda, as well as other documents brought to the attention of the president or a designated White House aide. The "General" material consists of correspondence from the general public and other sources that, while noteworthy because it is addressed to the president, is not deemed as important as the "Executive" material from the viewpoint of level of handling or subject matter. The "General" material also includes routine correspondence from members of Congress and memoranda exchanged between lower-echelon executive branch officials.

SUBJECT INDEX

The first number after each entry refers to the reel, while the number following the colon refers to a folder number on that reel. Hence 1:[1] directs the researcher to folder 1 on reel 1. Each folder is located on the reel in numerical order and introduced with a folder tab. These subjects will not necessarily be found at the beginning of the designated folder, but will be located within it. This Subject Index is best used in conjunction with the Reel index, which lists not only folder numbers, but folder titles as well.

PRINCIPLE CORRESPONDENTS INDEX

The following index is a guide to the major correspondents in this microfilm publication. The first number after each entry refers to the reel, while the number following the colon refers to a folder number at which a particular item containing correspondence by the person begins. Hence 1:1 directs the researcher to folder 1 on reel 1. Each folder is located on the reel in numerical order and introduced with a folder tab. This Principle Correspondents Index is best used in conjunction with the Reel Index, which lists not only folder numbers, but folder titles as well.
