Note to the Reader

The target at the beginning of Roll 5 mistakenly identifies the material following as being from Series III. Material on frames 1-866 is actually from Series II, WRITINGS ON LINGUISTICS, Research Notes. Series III, WRITINGS ON SCIENCE AND RELIGION, begins, instead, at frame 867.

Biographical Notes

Benjamin Lee Whorf (1897-1941) had a brief but important career as a pioneering scholar of the Nahuatl, Maya, and Hopi languages and as a theoretician about the influence of language on thought and perception. Researchers should consult Language, Thought, and Reality for a biographical sketch and bibliography by John B. Carroll,* but these are some principal events and periods in Whorf's life:

- 1897 born in Winthrop, Massachusetts
- 1918 received a bachelor's degree in chemical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology
- 1919-41 employed as a fire prevention engineer by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company
- 1920 married Celia Inez Peckham
- [1924-28] studied Hebrew
- 1925 wrote "Why I Have Discarded Evolution"
- 1928 read "Aztec Linguistics" and "An Aztec Account of the Period of the Toltec Decline" at the Twenty-Third International Congress of Americanists

*Benjamin Lee Whorf, Language, Thought and Reality: Selected Writings of Benjamin Lee Whorf, comp. John B. Carroll (Cambridge, Mass.: M.I.T. Press, 1956).

- 1930 took a field trip to Mexico, supported by the Social Science Research Council
- 1931 began studies with Edward Sapir at Yale University
- 1932 began his linguistic analysis of Hopi
- 1933 published The Phonetic Basis of Certain Characters in Maya Writing
- 1936 published his first article on Hopi, "The punctual and segmentative aspects of Hopi," in Language
- 1937-38 was a lecturer in anthropology at Yale
- 1940-41 published three articles for a nonprofessional audience in Technology Review
- 1941 died on July 26 after some months' illness

Introduction

The Benjamin Lee Whorf Papers consist of five microfilm rolls of correspondence, writings, research material, and biographical matter. They span the entire period of his adult linguistic activity, from about 1923 until his death in 1941, and include posthumous letters and publications as well. The papers are arranged in three series:

I CORRESPONDENCE

II WRITINGS ON LINGUISTICS

III WRITINGS ON SCIENCE AND RELIGION

Series I, CORRESPONDENCE, consists of Benjamin Whorf's correspondence between 1925 and 1941 and letters received by his widow, Celia Peckham Whorf, between 1941 and 1954. The letters written and received by Whorf offer substantive discussions of the full range of his linguistic interests. Among the leading correspondents are Franz Boas, Franz Blom, Clyde Kluckhohn, Alfred Kroeber, J. Alden Mason, Edward Sapir, Herbert Spinden, Alfred M. Tozzer, George L. Trager, and Charles F. Voegelin.

Series II, WRITINGS ON LINGUISTICS, consists of notes, drafts, and printed matter documenting Whorf's linguistic activities from his first explorations in Hebrew around 1924 to the publication of a Spanish edition of Language, Thought, and Reality in 1971. There are three sections: Published Writings, Unpublished Writings, and Research Notes.

Published Writings consists of manuscript and printed versions of slightly less than half of Whorf's publications on language and a small quantity of related notes and research material. The majority of the handwritten drafts and a few of the typewritten drafts differ slightly from the printed text.

Unpublished Writings consists of lectures, research reports, and unpublished essays on particular languages (principally Hebrew, Nahuatl, Maya, and Hopi) and general linguistic questions. Most of the titles in Carroll's bibliography are represented, and there are more than a dozen items that do not appear in his selection.

Research Notes includes material connected with Whorf's linguistic studies. The notes are related to his Mexican research trip in 1930 and to his studies in Hebrew, Maya, Hopi, and several other languages.

Series III, WRITINGS ON SCIENCE AND RELIGION, mainly contains essays on the relationship between science and religion, the nature of the mind and the universe, and the achievements of "primitive" and "advanced" civilizations. There are also published and unpublished writings on fire insurance and notes and writings on botany.

The Benjamin Lee Whorf Papers were given to Yale University Library by Celia Peckham Whorf in 1975 and by John B. Carroll in 1978.
