MindTap®
LITERATURE

Over the past three years, we have conducted extensive research to better understand the resources instructors and students need most for their literature courses. We've connected with over 200 instructors from every type of college and university, representing over 150K students. We've also talked to 25 students directly to get their perspectives.
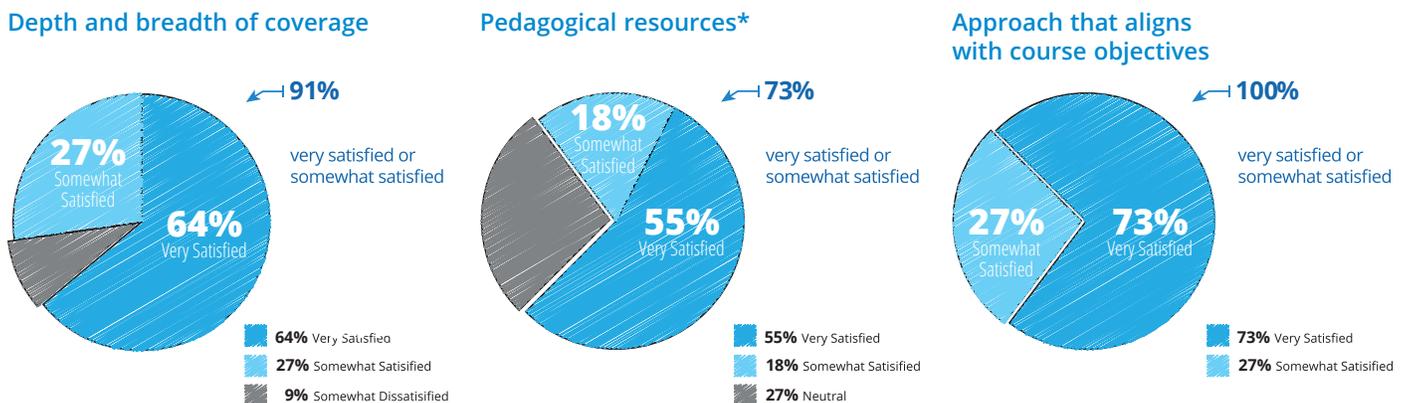

Here's What We've Learned:

STUDENTS...	INSTRUCTORS...
o are entering college with increasingly different backgrounds, experiences, and skills and need more guidance to write effectively.	o require a robust, varied, and customizable collection of literary works.
o want to understand how reading and writing about literature is relevant to their lives.	o want contextual support tightly integrated with selected readings.
o are accessing most of their course materials via the internet, but need more interaction with literary works.	o need better resources to support comprehension and basic writing and research skills.

What We're Working On...

Based on interest in a DIGITAL resource that provides a ROBUST and VARIED collection of literary works with CONTEXTUAL SUPPORT and WRITING GUIDANCE, we have developed MindTap Literature. MindTap Literature gives students direct links to more than 600 short stories, poems, plays, novels, and essays. The program also includes comprehensive multimedia instruction supporting five major types of writing assignments as well as modules on literary terms and literary criticism.
